SAANICH ORDERS 'DABBLING' PROBE

By JOHN MATTERS

Saanich council has ordered a public inquiry into suggestions that some of its assessor's department employees have dabbled in real estate in the municipality.

The probe will be conducted by the provincial government into the activities of members of Saanich's assessment department who incorporated a company called Royal Oak Estates Ltd. in January, 1965.

Reeve Hugh Curtis wouldn't say Thursday night just who was involved in the company. There are approximately 10 employees in the assessor's department.

A statement from council said:

"As a result of its investigations, council believes that no wrongdoing was intended but that the activities of the employees have been ill-advised and, in the interests of Saanich and of the employees concerned, feels that an investigation by an independent body would be advisable."

Reeve Curtis said no members of council were involved with the company and at no time, to his knowledge, has council had any business with the firm on such questions as rezoning.

At least three secret meetings of Saanich council have been held this week to discuss the issue.

At a special session Wednesday night, council heard from two members of the assessment department and "were relieved to learn that the land transactions undertaken by this company since its incorporation almost two years ago have apparently been restricted to purchase

Airman Grabs Laos Control

BANGKOK (Reuters)—Gen. Thao Ma, commander of the Laotian air force, staged a coup in Savannakhet, southern Laos, today, diplomatic sources reported in this capital city of Thailand.

The sources said rebel planes bombed and strafed military and civilian buildings in the Laotian capital of Vientiane today.

Fierce air battles were reported between Gen. Ma's planes and units loyal to neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma's government.

United Press International, however, reported the battle was a climax in the personal vendetta of two generals.

On Medicare

Tories' Ranks Split

OTTAWA (CP)—A split opened in Conservative ranks in the Commons Thursday as the medical care debate continued for the sixth straight day.

Two former members of the Diefenbaker cabinet from Alberta became the first Conservatives to announce that they will vote against second reading—approval in principle—of the government's medical insurance plan.

Former defence minister Douglas Harkness and former veterans' minister Marcel Lambert said they favor some form of medical insurance, but not the four criteria in the Liberal legislation.

VOTES FOR

At the same time, Dr. Lewis Brand (PC — Saskatoon) announced that he will vote for the bill, even though he was concerned about serious shortages of medical personnel and facilities.

Several other Conservative speakers said previously they would vote for second reading of the government measure. The 21 New Democrats and the five Social Credit MPs also have promised to back the bill.

MOVE DEFEATED

A Conservative amendment that would have, in effect, killed the Liberal plan and urged a far different one, was defeated 125 to 68.

The Conservatives were alone in support of the amendment.

Johnson Applauds Australia's Help

From AP-Reuters

CANBERRA—President Johnson and Australian Prime Minister Harold Holt agreed today the troops allied with South Viet Nam have barred a military victory for North Viet Nam and should press ahead militarily "until a satisfactory settlement could be negotiated."

"Fighting could only end when it was clear that the great issues at stake had been secured," the leaders said in a joint statement.

MELBOURNE (CP)—President Johnson arrived at Melbourne today for a four-hour visit to Australia's second largest city.

Looking forward to the seven-country Manila summit conference on Viet Nam next week, "in the light of the improved military outlook, items connected with peaceful economic and social development would be examined in some detail."

ECONOMIC PROBLEMS

The two emphasized the urgency of bringing about conditions favorable to rapid economic and social advance and they commended recent initiatives by Asian countries for cooperation among themselves in the economic and political fields.

The Southeast Asia conference dominated the private discussion at the Australian capital.

Then Johnson went on Australian radio and television to call for a concerted effort of diverse countries to work together for the future of Asia.

Earlier, the president had paid a special tribute to Aus-

Rampage Mere Warmup

TOKYO (UPI) — More than 2,000 leftist students Thursday rampaged through Tokyo, clashing with police in a "warm up" demonstration for a nationwide strike today to protest U.S. policies in Viet Nam.

First reports said 25 policemen were injured and 16 students arrested for resisting and obstructing police.

In India

Junior Summit Begins

NEW DELHI (UPI) The leaders of India, Yugoslavia and Egypt assembled Thursday for a non-aligned summit meeting aimed at possible Viet Nam peace moves and bridging differences between the east and west power blocs.

Yugoslavia's president Tito flew in with a 30-man delegation and Egyptian President Nasser's plane landed seven hours later with an 80-member retinue. Their three-day conference with Indian Premier Indira Gandhi starts today.

Pre-Season Talks Open

MANILA (UPI) — Foreign ministers taking part in next week's seven-nation Viet Nam summit conference were en route to Manila today for private policy discussions on sensitive issues confronting the heads of state attending the Manila talks.

Snow Whitewashes Island

Winter's chilly breath nipped the high spots on Vancouver Island when snow was reported Thursday at various points.

A slight snowfall which quickly disappeared from the ground was reported at Kelsey Bay, about 50 miles north of Campbell River.

The snow on Mount Arrowsmith's summit is plainly visible from Port Alberni, six miles away.

Mount Benson, near Nanaimo, received a slight blanketing which mostly disappeared in Thursday's rain.

Snow was also reported on the hills around Duncan.

The first snow showers of the season accompanied by thunder moved into the Vancouver area Thursday.

The weather office says cool Pacific air will give showers to most of the province today.

Lower Prices, Big Volume Give Safeway Bigger Profit

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada Safeway Ltd. brought the most impressive profit record along with it Thursday as the fifth and last food chain to appear before the Senate-Commons committee on living costs.

Safeway said it reaped 2.56 cents on every dollar of its sales through Western Canada last year, a tidy profit as low-margin supermarket operations go. (See also Page 35.)

Did this indicate Safeway prices are higher than they might be? asked committee counsel John Urie.

★ ★ ★

Not at all, returned Safeway Secretary D. C. McGavin. It represented a picture of a low-price company, winning big volume business and efficiently employing the turnover to save money.

Earnings of other chains reported this week have all been below the Safeway mark. Steinberg's Ltd. reported 1.9 per cent on total sales, Loblaws Groceterias Co. Ltd. 1.92, Dominion Stores Ltd. 2.07, and A and P 2.34.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Urie said his curiosity was piqued by the record of Safeway's parent company in the United States, Safeway Stores Inc. The parent last year made a net profit of 1.6 per cent on sales of close to $3,000,000,000.

Walter J. Kraft, chairman of Canada Safeway, said he considers this return too low.

BOBBIES BOO BOSS

LONDON (AP)—Roy Jenkins, Labor home secretary in charge of Britain's law enforcement agencies, went to a meeting with London bobbies Thursday night—and got roundly booed.

Jenkins, known for his liberal reforming ideals, addressed 1,500 members of the London Police Federation. As he rose to talk, policemen jeered and booed him.

Then 300 bobbies walked out, protesting that the government had failed to meet demands for higher pay.

The bobbies also criticized Jenkins for defending the abolition of capital punishment.

Judge Quashes Deportation

'White Racist Mentality Exposed'

WINNIPEG (CP) — The chief justice of Manitoba Court of Queen's Bench, tongue-lashing the federal immigration department for betraying fundamental justice, quashed a deportation order Thursday against a West Indian.

Chief Justice G. E. Tritschler said in a 76-page judgment that the department did not give a fair hearing to Duphlal (Harry) Goolia, who arrived in 1963 to take an electrician's course.

The chief justice said "a provocative spirit" was shown by a special inquiry officer, Alfred E. Brooks, during an inquiry in July, 1965. The deportation order was served Aug. 12.

He added that Mr. Goolia was asked his marital status when the inquiry opened and replied:

"Single."

Question: "Have you ever been married?"

Answer: "No."

Question: "Are you the father of any children?"

"The last was a grossly insulting question," the chief justice said.

"It exposes the mentality of some white racists who attribute to non-whites an abnormal laxity in sexual behavior. In the circumstances of the case, it was irrelevant and unnecessary.

"Possible solicitude on the part of the special inquiry officer for any bastards the applicant may have fathered, need not detain us. This opening must have been upsetting to the applicant who, according to the evidence, was a decent-living person not wanting for character references from people of good repute."

The barge was driven ashore in Milbanke Sound.

Bathe with Her for $4,000

Real Lords Cost More

DALLAS (UPI) — Neiman-Marcus has come up with its usual slashed-to-the-bone specials for Christmas, including his and hers bathtubs with gold-plated fixtures and everything mentioned in the ballad, "The 12 Days of Christmas."

★ ★ ★

The bathtubs go for $4,000, plus freight, installation and tax.

All the items in "The 12 Days of Christmas" come for $1,771.50, "subject to local taxes, delivery and handling charges, local union rates and the extravagance of your gesture."

For instance, a spokesman said, if a customer insists on genuine "twelve lords a-leaping," that would run the cost up.

If the buyer settles for 12 male dancers, $1,771.50 would still be in the ball park.

The twin bathtubs come in white or six "decorator colors" and have 24-carat gold plated fittings with French rose scrollwork.

★ ★ ★

"Twin bathtubs, side by side, into which both can jump at the same time, go right on discussing that late party or exchanging early morning plans for the day," rhapsodized a description in the book.

"The 12 Days of Christmas also calls for a partridge in a pear tree, two turtle doves, three French hens, four blackbirds, five gold rings, six geese a-laying, seven swans a-swimming, eight maids a-milking, 10 drummers drumming and 11 ladies dancing."

★ ★ ★

"There are no reservations about this," a spokesman said. "If somebody insisted on real English lords, it would give us a problem, but we could arrange it."

'Dabbling' Probe Ordered and sale of two single properties which are located in non-strategic sections of the municipality."

The statement added:

"However, council views these transactions, no matter how innocent and straightforward they may be, with grave concern."

★ ★ ★

Reeve Curtis was asked what was meant by the expression "non-strategic" property.

"Strategic property would be property located between here (municipal hall) and the Saanich boundary (city side), where proposed commercial development could occur," he replied.

Question: Do you think the investigation will turn up more than what council has discovered?

Answer: We know as much as we could ask about in such a short space of time.

★ ★ ★

Question: All of the meetings regarding an inquiry took place this week. Did council know about it before that?

Answer: Other members of council learned about it some days in advance of that.

Question: You didn't specify "some members" of the assessment department. How many people are there in those offices?

Answer: Approximately 10.

★ ★ ★

Question: Have you suspended anybody?

Answer: No.

Question: Have any council members at any time been officers or shareholders of this outfit?

Curtis

★ ★ ★

Answer: Council members have not had any relationship with this company.

★ ★ ★

Coun. Leslie Passmore, who has been on Saanich council 23 years, said: "I expect the result of the investigation will vindicate the individuals."

Saanich council will hold a special meeting Monday to ratify the decision to ask the inspector of municipalities for an inquiry.

Royal Oak Estates Ltd. was incorporated in January, 1965, said council's statement, and its objects included "purchase and sale of stocks and securities and of real and personal property, similar to those of many small investment clubs."

Tuesday night council decided to bring the municipality's solicitor into the picture and authorize the reeve and lawyers to have a talk with provincial officials.

"A second meeting of council members was held Wednesday evening, at which time the reeve reported on his discussions with the department and the solicitor outlined the results of his investigations over the previous 24-hour period.

"At this same meeting, the remaining council members who had not yet heard of the formation of this company were brought fully up-to-date," said the statement.

Avalanche Of Cars Not Wanted

Coun. Digby Kier said Monday night he doesn't want an avalanche of cars and trucks turned onto a Saanich residential district.

He made the point during discussion of a provincial government proposal to rezone the triangle at the junction of McKenzie and Cedar Hill Cross Road for a motor vehicle testing station.

"This is another encroachment away from residential areas. We're carving up good land for commercial enterprise," said Coun. Kier, suggesting the station instead locate at the junction of Highways 1 and 17.

Tories Split on Medicare

Lined against them were 95 Liberals, 16 New Democrats, six Creditistes, the five Social Crediters and the three Quebec independents.

The Conservative amendment proposed immediate help for persons who cannot afford medical care, but expressed reservations about complete coverage.

The reservations were the lack of provincial co-operation, shortages of doctors and hospitals and compulsory membership in the plan.

Maurice Allard (Ind - PC—Sherbrooke) attacked the bill as a grave injustice to Quebec and other provinces that might not want to join the federal-provincial program.

He moved an amendment calling on the government to give a tax rebate to any province that wishes to set up its own medical insurance plan. Gilles Gregoire (Ind—Lapointe) seconded the amendment.

Speaker Lamoureux accepted the amendment, ruling against objections by Health Minister MacEachen that it was out of order because it proposed a far different financial scheme than the government's resolution.

The government bill makes no provision for compensating provinces which decide against joining the federal plan.

The Liberal measure provides that Ottawa will pay half the cost of provincial plans that meet four federal criteria, starting on or before July 1, 1968.

The criteria are coverage of 90 per cent of the population, coverage of all medical services, public administration or supervision of the plan and portability of benefits across Canada.

Nuisance of Pinworms Stopped With Clean Hands, Fingernails

Your Good Health

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 17 and have pinworms. My doctor gave me some pink pills and helped, but now I see a few pinworms once in a while.

Is there some way of getting rid of them? Are they very harmful? They can't kill a person, can they? — J.C.

No, they can't kill you, but they can be a miserable nuisance, disturbing your sleep, making you jittery and occasionally causing intestinal irritation.

The pills your doctor gave you may very well have been pyrvinium pamoate, which is extremely effective in getting rid of pinworms. It has now been in use for several years.

The important part of the job no longer is getting rid of pinworms. The trick is to keep from getting them again, for there is no medication which will PREVENT them.

There is only one way in which anyone gets pinworms, and that is by swallowing the eggs, which are invisibly small. Your best ally in avoiding that is to understand how the pinworm cycle works.

If you never put your fingers in your mouth (or better yet never even touch your face) without having washed your hands, you will have small chance of getting any of the eggs. It is also important to keep your nails trimmed, and to use a brush to scrub under them.

CLEAN HANDS

With young children it is nearly impossible to impress the importance of clean hands. They eat candy, drink pop, grab a snack in the kitchen without washing their hands. If another child in the neighborhood is infected, there's always the risk of getting some of the eggs on the fingers while the youngsters are scuffling around. And thus another attack of pinworms starts.

When several neighborhood children become infected, it's tough to stamp out the trouble unless all of them are treated at approximately the same time. (There have been remarkable results in such places as orphanages where simultaneous treatment is possible.)

Patronage Exchange Shakes Up Hearing

OTTAWA (CP) — A meeting of the Senate-Commons committee on the public service—usually among the more sedate parliamentary committees — was jolted Thursday by an exchange on patronage in the post office department.

John M. LeBoldus of Odessa, Sask., president of the 7,600-member Canadian Postmasters' Association, was telling the committee of the low pay and harsh working conditions of revenue postmasters.

He explained that most of his members were paid out of revenues collected by their small rural post offices, usually located in their homes. Many members also paid heat and light bills for the offices.

'YOU SHOULD KNOW'

Then Stanley Knowles (NDP — Winnipeg North Centre) asked:

"How do you people get these jobs in the first place?"

Mr. LeBoldus snapped back: "As an MP, I would think you'd know."

Mr. Knowles said it is well known that most of the revenue post office jobs are handed out on the basis of political patronage.

Mr. LeBoldus agreed, although he said an increasing proportion of his association's membership now has to enter civil service competitions.

Full-time rural postmasters now make up to $6,020 a year and are not political appointees, he said. However, those in small communities made as little as $300 to $400 a year.

Asked by Mr. Knowles whether such jobs couldn't be removed from the patronage area, Mr. LeBoldus said he personally would be glad to see this.

LOSE JOBS

He told R. G. L. Fairweather (PC—Royal) that revenue postmasters hold tenure as long as their behavior is above reproach. However, he knew of instances where postmasters who took an active role in politics "lost their jobs" when the government changed.

His organization "would have a better case" to put before the government under the proposed system of collective bargaining "if we came to the table unencumbered" by the patronage yoke.

RCMP Granted Pay Increases

OTTAWA (CP)—A pay increase for the RCMP averaging 14 per cent over two years was announced Thursday by Solicitor-General Pennell.

The increases for officers are effective as of Jan. 1, 1966, and Jan. 1, 1967.

Those for non-commissioned ranks are effective in three stages—Jan. 1, 1966, Oct. 1, 1966 and Jan. 1, 1967.

A first-class constable with five years' experience will receive a salary at Jan. 1, 1967, of $6,968 a year compared with $5,817 before the pay increase. This is an increase of about 20 per cent.

A deputy comimssioner's salary will go to $22,464 annually from $20,140.

Other examples: Chief superintendent, to $16,120 from $14,628; sub-inspector, to $10,318 from $9,540; staff sergeant, to $9,391 from $7,949; second-year corporal to $7,800 from $6,547.

A third class constable, the lowest rank, will make $5,000 compared with the present $4,389.

Premiers Say 'Yes' But—

Britain, Rhodesia in Agreement?

From Agence France-Presse

SALISBURY (CP) — Rhodesia's Premier Ian Smith said Thursday night his government and the British government agree on the six principles laid down by Britain for settlement on the independence dispute.

But he said that if Rhodesia were "ejected from the Commonwealth," the country would automatically be a republic and there would be no need for him to seek a mandate from his electorate on the republic question.

NO PREDICTION

Speaking to Rhodesia on television and radio, Smith said he could not predict the reaction of the British government to the final reply of his white-minority government to the British terms delivered here last week.

"One day I'm optimistic, only to find the next day that I'm not so optimistic," he said. But he certainly would not rule out the possibility of further visits to Salisbury by British officials.

Smith spoke six hours after the departure for London of Sir Morrice James, the British official who flew to Salisbury with Britain's final six terms for settlement of the year - old crisis caused by the unilateral seizure of independence by the Smith government. Britain has been insisting that, as a condition of independence, constitutional provision be made for eventual participation of the 4,000,000 Rhodesian non - whites in running the country.

Smith said it appeared to him that the dispute between Rhodesia and Britain was "coming to a climax" and he felt it important to "keep negotiations going."

War Slackens Awaits Manila

SAIGON (AP)—Fighting slowed on the ground in the Viet Nam war Thursday, while attention focused on next week's Manila summit conference and smouldering dissension in the cabinet of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

A U.S. spokesman said 74 Americans were killed in action and 432 wounded in the week ended Oct. 15 compared to 91 killed and 604 wounded the previous week.

BOMBERS POUND

While ground fighting came to a near standstill, U.S. B-52 bombers pounded a suspected North Vietnamese staging area just south of the demilitarized zone where U.S. military officials believe the Communists soon will attempt an offensive.

From the Mekong Delta came delayed unofficial reports indicating that 138 Viet Cong Guerrillas were killed and placing government losses at least as high as those of the Viet Cong and probably higher.

SHOWS WORLD

Ky told a news conference in Saigon that the Vietnamese delegation to the Manila conference opening next Monday would show to the world that his country is the victim of Communist aggression and will fight on until that aggression ends.

Ky's heavy bodyguard and a carefully controlled question period kept reporters from inquiring about the cabinet crisis. All seven rebellious members of Ky's cabinet were at their jobs Thursday, but the question about their resignations remained unresolved.

Cabbie Acquitted Of Capital Murder

VANCOUVER (CP) — Bark Kent Chan, 28-year-old taxi driver, Thursday was acquitted of capital murder in the robbery slaying of his supervisor, taxi operator Ernest Yet last April 15.

A B.C. Supreme Court jury, after an hour's deliberation, found that Chan was not responsible for the bludgeon slaying of the 74-year-old Yet in the latter's garage in an early-morning attack in which the taxi operator's wallet containing more than $2,000 was taken.

Throughout his trial Chan denied prosecution charges that he planned the robbery of Yet and then counselled a 13-year-old boy — now 14 — to carry it out.

The boy, who testified for the Crown at the trial and admitted hitting Yet on the head repeatedly with a crowbar — he said on Chan's instructions — has already been convicted in juvenile court. He is serving an indefinite term.

Police Stay Unarmed In Britain

LONDON (UPI) — The British government ruled Thursday against arming the nation's police forces.

Home Secretary Roy Jenkins told the House of Commons "my mind in this respect—and all ranks of the police service are in agreement—is very strongly against any move towards any general policy of arming the police."

Jenkins said arms are available to be issued to police officers on protection duties or who need them for self-defence when engaged on particularly dangerous duties and who have been trained to handle them.

McCarthy Methods

AS ONE OF THE spokesmen presenting the case for the establishment of a chartered bank with its head office in British Columbia before the Commons finance committee, Mr. Einar Gunderson has been singled out for a particularly vicious attack by certain Liberal members of the committee.

His rough treatment at the hands of these Liberal members of Parliament was apparently due to certain political "crimes" he had committed in British Columbia. These "crimes" were and are:

1. He is a provisional director of the proposed bank.
2. He is executive director of the provincially-owned B.C. Hydro and Power Authority.
3. He is a former minister of finance in the Socred government of British Columbia.
4. He is a personal friend of, and adviser to, Premier W. A. C. Bennett.
5. He is a fund-raiser for the provincial Social Credit party.

Because of these things, according to his Liberal inquisitors, Mr. Gunderson is not to be trusted. He may, they suggested, even be hatching a dark plot to bring the proposed bank under the control of the B.C. provincial government.

The Torquemada of the hearing, B.C. Liberal MP Ron Basford (Vancouver-Burrard) then attempted to link Mr. Gunderson with American millionaire Harry Stonehill who was ousted from Canada as an undesirable and Mr. Al Williamson, a B.C. publicist who was convicted of forging the signature on a letter to Prime Minister Pearson's office asking for consideration for Mr. Stonehill.

Whatever personal antipathy the questioners may have toward Mr. Gunderson it is reprehensible to the extreme that any elected member of Parliament should employ such tactics to make a political point.

Indeed, that any private Canadian citizen voluntarily appearing before a parliamentary committee should be subjected to such McCarthy-like third-degree treatment, complete with all its accusations, bullying and innuendoes is shocking.

Certainly this unhappy interlude will do nothing to burnish the reputation of either the present government or of Parliament.

Question of Ethics

THE GREAT BULK of public opinion in this country will certainly support Dr. John B. Macdonald, the president of the University of British Columbia, when he questions the ethics of members of the university faculties who are working to help American draft dodgers.

He was referring to the announcement of the formation of a committee of eight professors from his own and Simon Fraser University to assist young men anxious to escape service in their country's armed forces to emigrate to Canada.

The fact that the professors are opposed to the Viet Nam war and that draftees might be obliged to serve there against their will, is hardly an excuse for Canadians to encourage defiance or evasion of the laws of the United States by citizens of that nation.

When the people of this country operated what was known as "the underground railroad" to help escaped slaves in the United States to sanctuary in Canada their humanitarianism was generally applauded. But the same grounds of morality hardly apply in the present case.

Indignation and resentment would have been high in Canada had an American organization offered a refuge to Canadians who did not wish to serve in the Second World War. And the same hostility will be aroused among Americans by any such interference on the part of Canadians.

If there are young men who, on the grounds of conscientious objection or for other reasons, do not wish to bear arms for their country, whatever it may be, it is not for persons of other nationalities to dissuade them. If they choose to emigrate to escape their responsibilities as citizens that is their own affair. Whether they are acceptable immigrants or not is another matter. But it is not for persons in public service to induce or encourage them to break the law of their land. As Dr. Macdonald says, it is not ethical.

The fact that some of the draft dodgers may be eligible to enter our universities does not alter the case. There is no more reason to assist them in evading their responsibilities than there would be to encourage youths from the farms or the mines, or the slums, for that matter, to cross our border to escape an obligation of American citizenship.

The professors may mean well but that does not mean they are morally or ethically right.

'Mr. Hockey'

ICE HOCKEY is Canada's national winter sport and as the cream of its talent, the NHL, begins another season this week attention cannot fail to centre on its most illustrious player, Gordon (Gordie) Howe, the super star from Saskatchewan who takes the ice for his 21st continuous year with the Detroit Red Wings.

Stars there have been aplenty in the topmost echelons of hockey but none so seemingly indestructible or so scintillating as the man who has spent more than half his years deploying his amazing skills and resiliency at this demanding professional sport. If there has to be a "Mr. Hockey" this accolade must be accorded to the man from Floral, Saskatchewan, who holds scoring records galore and who has in the course of his long career collected practically every hockey honor worth having.

Not because in signing afresh with the only NHL team that has enjoyed his virtuosity that his remuneration is higher than ever it has been, a paradox that owes itself to the inflationary trends of two decades. It is not that nothing can dim his eminence or add to his calibre. But certainly it is of uncommon notice that at an age when normally most players have retired from the ice he should still be the symbol of hockey at its finest level.

Obviously Mr. Howe has a tenacity and a spirit that is as unusual as his superlative skills, as well as a gifted strength of body and mind that makes his longevity as a player match his achievements all through two decades. He stands forth as the new NHL season begins as hockey's most remarkable product, representative of the national pastime at its most durable and best.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax . . ."

By TOM TAYLOR

FROM the mail pile on my desk awaiting my return from vacation I pick three items for this morning's causerie.

One, from a reader, very wroth himself, enclosing a TV Guide clipping wherein an Ontarian takes umbrage at the "swiping of the British Commandos' green beret by our neighbours across the line, and the use of the "Desert Rat" title in the current "Rat Patrol" television series.

I haven't watched this series but if it implies that the long-range desert patrols of Montgomery's army included American troops then obviously something is out of kilter.

As to berets they are like the tartan, colors and all, free to all except perhaps for some bow to propriety.

This made me recall a chap I met a few years ago in Britain. He had been a Commando, and he was spluttering at the mouth as he told me that the Boy Scouts over there had co-opted for their use his beloved green beret. This to him was to make child's play of a coveted distinction.

If he knows of the "swiping" complained of I daresay he'll have apoplexy.

Two, an effusion from the National Geographic Society in Washington about the game of football, or soccer, as North America, alone in the world, calls it.

It is the champion spectator sport of all, says the NGS with some verity. It commands some 200,000,000 fans around the globe.

And, cites this geographic bulletin, the ancient Romans played a similar game, and so did the Chinese, the Aztecs and the Polynesians. It could be added I suppose that the cavemen did too when one of them first swung his foot to emit a stone towards the goal — his cave. But the modern game was born in England.

In elucidating the game's mysteries for its national readers the NGS explains that the key offensive weapon is the foot. That much might be deduced from the title of the game, football, except that American football for the major part eschews the use of the terminal part of the leg.

Professional leagues are currently being formed across the line, however, so that "soccer" bids fair to become soon a familiar of the U.S. sports scene.

Three, a letter from an Oak Bay lady, a peace and wartime nurse of former days, who sends along a recent copy of Maclean's Magazine containing an article on the "Meaning of Death."

She writes that she finds it revolting. I agree with her sentiments.

Death is hardly a subject to be dealt with in the manner of an abattoir, with a macabre description, written seemingly with relish, of how a human body is dissected and emptied during an autopsy — "there's a lot of fluid in your abdominal cavity, so he (the technician) takes a soup ladle and begins to spoon the yellow fluid into a gallon-sized plastic jug that he lodges between your thighs," for instance — and other gory and long-extended gruesome details about what happens there and later at a funeral home.

I don't think this is the meaning of death, which deserves to be regarded with some degree of reticence, reverence and respect, and not as my corrspondent remarks as though a game was being played with the corpse.

Ottawa Offbeat

A Five-Drawer Cabinet

By RICHARD JACKSON
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

WATCH the Liberals eggheading it at one of their national "think-ins" like last week's convention at Ottawa's Chateau Laurier.

Or follow them at their day-to-day business of minding their political store on Parliament Hill.

And be you Liberal leftist "swinger" or rightist "establishmentarian," be you Conservative or New Democrat, one thing must strike you about them over all others.

This: their cabinet of many drawers.

With a durability built into the very stick-togetherness of its interchangeable parts.

It has four, perhaps five drawers.

Top. Middle. Bottom.

And well, you know, a cabinet has what any housewife calls the "junk" drawer," for odds and ends.

As with housewives, so with governments. This Liberal government, at any rate.

The fifth drawer?

That's a special one for Judy LaMarsh, as only befits the special LaJudy.

With its readily interchangeable — and even easily disposable — parts, this five-drawered Pearson cabinet has remained in one piece, withstanding some of the stresses and strains inherent in minority ministries that shattered the Diefenbaker model.

Flexibility is the word for its special quality of shock resistancy.

In the top drawer, of course, Prime Minister Pearson and those two most remarkable and currently unmatchable practitioners of the political and parliamentary arts, veterans Paul Martin and Jack Pickersgill, both old Mackenzie King pros.

And with them Mitchell Sharp, the C. D. Howe protege, Paul Hellyer, and his astonishing cool, George McIlraith and his quietly efficient talent for ringmastering the Commons cat-and-dogging, and Robert Winters of the purring charm.

★ ★ ★

The second drawer, really, is the interesting one.

In it, the men-on-the-way-up.

Solicitor-General Lawrence Pennell, whose efficiency, sincerity, courtesy and instinctive decency have made him the best-liked and one of the most respected of these men-on-their-way.

Agriculture Minister Joe Greene, the most colorful of the whole crew with his outrageously likeable affinity for the cracker barrel.

Revenue minister and treasury board boss Edgar Ben Benson, the management-man, the take-charge guy, the trouble-shooter they call in when the complicated equipment of the working parts, the mechanics of government operation need fixing.

Then there are second-drawer hands, Welfare Minister Allen MacEachen, Manpower Minister Jean Marchand and Energy Minister Jean-Luc Pepin.

MacEachen and Marchand, both leadership aspirants among the young-men-in-a-hurry, are the pushers for bigger if not better federal spending.

They're the "swingers" for cradle-to-grave social security.

With MacEachen going so far as to claim it's no more than part of the Canadian birthright for a man, if he's so inclined, to enjoy lifetime comfort, without so much as lifting a finger for himself, on a sort of perpetual vacation as a guest of the taxpayer.

Pepin's strength is that of a quiet, courteous competent who does his homework and knows the job.

Out of the top and second drawers will come the new Liberal leader, with Prime Minster Pearson now expected to call it a truly great public service day within the next year, or two at the most.

The rest, and there are 14 others in the cabinet, are all distributed — except, of course, for LaJudy who has a drawer all of her own — in the bottom and "junk" drawers.

Those in the bottom drawer are the men of little talent lacking both promise and prospect, doing little more than a get-by job.

With the "junk" are the odds and ends, in the cabinet solely because of their faith or the region from which they come, and in certain special cases, their language.

David Ben Gurion

Turbulent 80 Years

By MOLLY COOPER
from Tel Aviv

THE spill of adjectives, the eulogies of friends, opponents and followers, officialdom's cold note of congratulation, his pernickety and meticulously kept diaries — all tell the story of David Ben Gurion's turbulent 80 years. But all tell it only in part. Indeed, the Jewish boy from a Polish village, rebel, Zionist, innovator, leader, scholar, ex-prime minister, the eminence in the desert, whose birthday Israelis have been celebrating, may never be seen wholly in the round, not even through the telescopic lens of time.

The public glare of the birthday celebrations raised again the riddle of a personality that can be so many things to so many men, mount so many public brawls, have so many private friends, make such bitter enemies and build a country.

The morning's chilling headline: "B-G Running Temperature," at once became everyone's concern. "Perhaps," some said, "he's already done too much this weekend. After all . . ." No one used the word "old."

But by mid-morning when we reached his green wooden hut at Sde Boker, the desert kibbutz where he now lives, Ben Gurion had already swallowed a dose of antibiotics and received two delegations. The third was just then climbing out of dust-caked cars. The fourth, Isreal's chief of staff, was on his way by plane to bring a parchment inscribed with the Order of the Day issued by Ben Gurion, 18 years ago. It was his first act as the prime minister of the new Israel.

Inside the air-conditioned but simply furnished lounge of the hut Ben Gurion received his callers.

He had not spoken to some of them for three years: certainly not since the day he split Israel's Labor Party, the party he had founded and built, and took with him its bright, young hopes to set up a new establishment. He has repeatedly, and publicly, insulted the present prime minister, Mr. Levi Eshkol, whom he nominated as his successor. Mr. Eshkol was not among the official callers at Sde Boker.

Lunch was a family affair with a pudgy grandchild, and food came in a billycan from the communal kibbutz kitchen only because he was unwell. On a more normal day Ben Gurion eats in the bare, impersonal kibbutz dining room.

But it was 2 o'clock that brought the strangest contingent yet. Forty black-suited, solemn-hatted men laden with brief cases, climbed out of a fleet of cars and crammed into the lounge, now transformed with a long table down the centre. This was the Bible Study Circle. To honor the founder of the Circle these 40 professors, judges and Bible scholars who make up the esoteric membership, decided to transfer their usually monthly discussion to the kibbutz to mark Ben Gurion's 80 years.

Nor was this the end. At 4 o'clock came more distinguished visitors. Then, two-hours later, muffled inside a dark sweater, with his wife beside him, he drove out into a wild desert wind to a rally of 10,000 people.

Here the students of the College of the Negev handed him their gift "of this college with great love. We make our pledge to you, our grandfather, that we will make the Negev our home. Stay with us to guide us."

If his old colleagues, as he claims with a roar of reminiscent laughter, only supported him "because it was good for the party" and not because of his ideas, these children have redeemed his dream to make "the Negev the industrial heart of Asia and Africa."

During the next 10 years that David Ben Gurion has set aside to write his life story, this extraordinary man may still live to confound the world. As he himself says, "So many crazy schemes have built this state."

A Long Way From Equality

From the Winnipeg Free Press

HOUSING is one measure of a standard of living; other things being equal, the more one pays for housing, the higher one's standard of living is likely to be.

That being so, Canadians as a whole can take little pride in housing costs given in Parliament this week by the secretary of state, Judy LaMarsh. According to Miss LaMarsh, last year the per capita investment for housing — new investment, that is, houses built last year — in Canada was just over $190. But for Indians the figure was just $25 per capita. In other words, the amount spent on housing for a white person was well over four times the amount spent on an Indian. It would seem that there is still a long way to go before Indians achieve anything approaching equality, in an economic sense, with white Canadians.

Today in History

By The Canadian Press

The British fleet, under Lord Nelson, annihilated the Franco-Spanish fleet 161 years ago today — in 1805 — at the battle of Trafalgar. It was the climax of a year-long chase from France to Egypt to the West Indies and back. The British lost 450 men killed and 1,250 wounded in their fleet of 37 ships but captured 19 and sank one of the enemy's 40 ships, taking 12,000 prisoners. Nelson was killed by a sniper during the battle, but his victory assured British command of the seas for decades to come.

1879 — Edison tested the first practical incandescent light bulb.

1880 — The contract for building the first trans-Canadian railway was signed.

First World War: Fifty years ago today — in 1916 — Count Sturgkh, the Austrian premier, was assassinated; 650 French guns at Verdun began the barrage for Gen. Mangin's great counterattack; Russo-Romanian forces retreated north of Bucharest.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago today — in 1941 — the German command in France ordered 50 hostages shot for the assassination of a Nazi Colonel in Nantes; another German officer was assassinated in Bordeaux; London announced 66,000 Commonwealth troops were in enemy prison camps.

Vocational School

IF the parents and teachers of this island allow the building of a regional college or any other sort of academic college to take precedence over the long-overdue Greater Victoria Vocational School, then they are more apathetic and indifferent than they have been for years. Both these groups are well aware of the problem facing the student who has reached his academic potential at the end of or during Grade 10.

Dr. Taylor says the university should get on with the humanities and leave job preparation to other agencies. What agencies? The Nanaimo school is already overcrowded, with a long awaiting list. A boy writing there is told he can expect to wait at least a year and a half and he cannot get in till he is 21. What is he to do in the meantime?

The Lansdowne setup, splendid as it is, cannot help this student unless he can somehow pick up and go on with academic work. Many are trying but many know that this is not what they want and need. The suggested makeshift which the department is setting up in some discarded building can only cater to a very restrictive program and they know it.

All right, workshops cost money, but we have seemingly plenty of that for less important things. It is some 15 years since we have first aired this problem and frustration is an understatement for what we feel. We coach some of these lads; we have never had a lazy one.

In the name of common humanity, parents and teachers get behind and push for the vocational school. We have the site; what are we waiting for? Public demand. Let's have it and forget this "everybody to university" which is just a form of intellectual snobbery.

For the Defence

I find myself in total disagreement with your correspondent A. W. Gollmer regarding A Taste of Honey.

The play was to me a beautiful and moving experience. The performance one of great imagination and pathos.

When Mr. Gollmer speaks of Honey as "dreadful example for our young people," is he aware that at the time of writing the author was herself only 17 years of age.

Congratulations to Bastion and Pat O'Neill for giving Victoria a taste of modern, intellectual theatre. Taste of Honey I found a thought-provoking play.

Many of us Victorians are bored to death with the usual vapid pot-boilers. We want something for the mind. Please let us have more plays like this one.

To one who has become somewhat nauseated by photographs of local VIPs and sundry ordinary Joes grinning into the eye of the camera, it was a real pleasure to see that picture of the three Chinese children on Sunday's front page.

How Robin Clarke managed to catch it at the precise moment is a mystery to this oldtime amateur photographer and he (Clarke) is to be congratulated.

Turnaround

Before the B.C. election Premier W. A. C. Bennett assured us that B.C. was prosperous as never before. Industry, we were told, was flourishing in fine old style and everyone in the province was very happy indeed. The premier was all smiles. Not any more. Now he bares his teeth and it is not a pleasant thing to see. He accuses trade unions, businessmen, bankers, stores, almost everybody, of pressing for more wages and benefits or higher profits and threatens us with a crash.

Was there ever such a turnaround? His own pet PGE railwaymen are not behind hand in asking for even more than the great national rail workers expect to receive. Mr. Bennett decreed that the PGE would remain closed until the men return to work. How about the industry and their communities utterly dependent on the railroad?

Who is the biggest spender by far in this fair province of ours? The B.C. Social Credit ("money doesn't matter") government. By pushing ahead with the Peace River and Columbia Hydro colossal projects at one and the same time (not to mention the museum complex and other large buildings) the government has taken every able-bodied worker at the highest wages ever paid, it has made inflation and soaring prices inevitable.

Our finance minister (Mr. Bennett) blames everybody but his own mad government policy for the present chaos. What is wrong with profits? Profits are heavily taxed, those retained must be spent or re-invested to make more jobs. We citizens have been overtaxed for years, yet B.C. is never tired of demanding more handouts from Ottawa. Subsidies for the hydro projects, for the PGE; subsidies are now being paid for our hospitals but we don't have the beds. Let Mr. Bennett take the mote from his own eye before he bawls out other people.

Witty's Lagoon

The proposed purchase of Witty's Lagoon, at a time when the premier is warning against unnecessary expenditures, or at any other time, is foolish. The public at all times have had access to this beach as they have to Cordova Bay and other beaches. The unfenced Witty property lying above the high-water line has in the long history of public use of the beach, rarely attracted seashore picnickers.

Why should the government seek to expropriate the Witty property situated in a sparsely settled rural area? A public park at Witty's Lagoon will be a deserted place during most of the year and will not be a much frequented one in the summer months, even if park attractions were installed. The Witty property is attracting attention as a commercial resort area, and there have been negotiations in progress to that end.

Commercial development of the property would enhance the value of the surrounding area, and give impetus to the development of the Metchosin district. The proposed park will be a sterile thing, an unnecessary capital expenditure and an upkeep burden to the taxpayer.

Tariffs

So the Liberal party is going to do away with the tariffs between Canada and the United States?

It is common knowledge that most of the American manufacturing corporations generally operate at around 70 per cent of their actual capacity. If Canadian manufacturers are going to compete with the huge American corporations without the aid of tariffs they will be operating contrary to all previous experience.

When the Americans set up their early companies to build their own manufactured products they kept out the British who had been first in the field by tariffs. If Canada hopes to retain her manufacturing activities she must retain tariffs or go down before the giant corporations of the United States.

Millions of immigrants have entered Canada in the last century and millions of native-born Canadians have left Canada to enter the huge corporations which grew up in the United States under the protection of American tariff barriers.

Without the protection of a Canadian tariff Canada will supply the U.S. with raw material of every description but will lose much of its population to the gigantic corporations which supply the American market and still have enough surplus capacity to meet all Canadian needs.

Changeable

At the last session of the legislature in Victoria, the Liberal leader said Mr. Bennett had overtaxed the people of B.C. because the figures for the fiscal year of the province showed a healthy surplus. Mr. Perrault said it was blood money. Prior to the election he also said Ottawa had millions of dollars for the province if Mr. Bennett was to ask for them. In fact he had a cabinet minister from Ottawa come to Vancouver in support of his contention.

Today, as reported in the Colonist, he claims Mr. Bennett having asked for some of this money, the province must be in financial difficulties.

The fact of the matter is, although Ottawa subsidizes both the CNR and CPR with hundreds of millions of dollars to help pay the higher wages demanded by the unions, the PGE has never had even a construction grant. Whereas Ottawa agreed with B.C. to construct the Columbia River dams for a stated sum, they no sooner got back than they put on an 11 per cent tax on construction materials, thus increasing the cost of putting up these dams by $30 million.

I am very much afraid the opposition changes its policy from day to day regardless of whether it benefits our province or not. I wonder if the weathercock is on their coat-of-arms.

Johnson's Changing Moods Create Dilemma

One Day It's Peace, Next Day It's War

★ ★ ★

BACKGROUND

★ ★ ★

By CARL T. ROWAN
From Washington

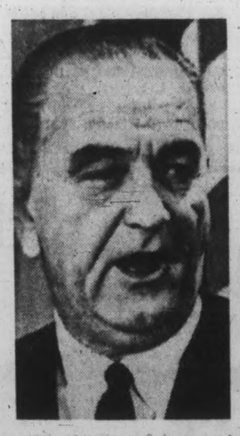
When he is talking peace, as he was this week at the start of his Asian trip, nobody talks peace with more heart than Lyndon Baines Johnson.

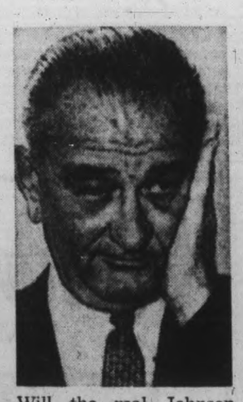
When he is gloomy, feeling hemmed in by an ugly war he cannot get rid of, confounded by Hanoi's rejection of his every offer, nobody puts a raspier edge on talk of war than Lyndon Baines Johnson.

★ ★ ★

As his moods change from that of the statesman seeking peace to that of noble defender determined to resist wrongdoing to the bitter end, a lot of people get confused—Americans, America's friends and America's enemies. And therein lies President Johnson's and America's dilemma.

Johnson's departure speech in Washington and his speech in Hawaii made it clear that he wants "peace" to be the dominant theme of his Asian journey.





Will the real Johnson please stand up?

"We shall together seek ways of bringing about an honorable peace at the earliest possible moment," the president said at farewell ceremonies in Washington.

★ ★ ★

In Hawaii he spoke of his journey as "a trip whose purpose is peace," and he expressed certain knowledge that "the world we seek cannot be won by arms. It must be built with ideas."

One listens to the Lyndon Johnson of this week and feels like applauding — except for an eerie feeling that the man who wrote this week's remarks is not the man who fashioned the answers to questions at Johnson's press conference last week.

★ ★ ★

Knowing that the British, the Canadians, the Indians, the Russians, UN Secretary-General U Thant and many others have said that there is no chance for peace talks unless the United States halts its bombing of North Viet Nam, a reporter asked Johnson if he planned another bombing pause.

"We have had two pauses," Johnson snapped, adding that during both "our boys sat there and watched" while the foe threw his hand grenades ... lobbed his mortars ... and killed our marines, our airmen and our army soldiers."

Mr. Johnson added: "I see nothing on the horizon that would justify my asking all 300,000 or 400,000 Americans to stand there with their hands in their pockets because someone here suggested they pause — unless their enemy would pause."

Speaking here was the "though" Lyndon Johnson, making anyone who suggested a bombing pause look a little less patriotic than himself, a little more cavalier about the death of "our boys" over there.

★ ★ ★

The really distrubing thing, however, is that he was beating down a straw man — and using the facts a little loosely to construct his straw man.

During neither of the pauses in the bombing of North Viet Nam did American troops just "sit there and watch." During the five weeks last December and January when the last and longest bombing pause was in effect, the Pentagon said 316 Americans were killed, 1,434 wounded and seven captured or missing in action.

In the same period, 3,497 Viet Cong were killed and 715 captured. Estimates are that another 7,000 Viet Cong were wounded.

★ ★ ★

Obviously, U.S. troops did not have "their hands in their pockets" during that pause. And Johnson knows that, whether it is wise or unwise, another cessation of bombing of North Viet Nam would in no way require that U.S. troops to act like sitting ducks for the enemy.

Johnson's great wish is that the Soviet Union would do something to help get the Viet Nam issue to the conference table. After his talks last week with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, the Soviets were making such surprisingly positive utterances that people began to speculate that there might be some movement soon.

But after Johnson's press conference, the top Soviet leader, Leonid Brezhnev, apparently felt compelled to comment on what he called Johnson's "strange and persistent delusion" that he can wage peace with the Soviet Union while waging war in Viet Nam.

What the Soviets are saying to each other is that the Johnson who talks peace is a decoy but the one who talks war is for real.

Nothing for the Mind

Education Abolished In Red China

By ROBERT S. ELEGANT, from Hong Kong

The Peking regime is abolishing formal education as that process is understood in any conventional sense—bourgeois, Marxist, or Chinese.

Except for "class struggle," which is reflected in the bitter struggle for control of the Communist party — and China itself — there is nothing more important than education in the eyes of the Chinese Communists.

It is the process that shapes the perfect "new man" who is to be the finest product of the new era of Mao Tse-tung, and thus provides the essential "revolutionary successors" to the present generation.

But the Communists define education so broadly and so oddly that the term — and the process itself — lose almost all meaning. The purpose of education in Communist China is neither to inculcate certain highly technical skills, nor to provide the student with a body of general culture, nor to enable him to think for himself.

Prescribed Method

The true prupose and the prescribed method were defined by a recent dispatch in the peculiarly polluted language of the official New China news agency:

"Our schools must make Chairman Mao's works the main course, arm the students with Mao Tse-tung's thought and ... turn our schools into Red bases, where successors to the revolutionary cause of the proletariat are cultivated and trained, and into great schools of Mao Tse-tung's thought in which students can take up agricultural or industrial work and can wield a pen as well as a gun or a pickax."

In pursuit of the goal thus defined, the Chinese Communists have cast aside all the guidelines — physical, administative, and curricular — that normally determine the shape of an educational institution. Schools in China are no longer schools as they exist elsewhere, but "fighting units in the economic and class struggle."

Since political indoctrination is the chief purpose of education, it is not merely unobjectionable, but actually desirable to suspend classes for extended periods to rally the strength of students and teachers to ideological campaigns.

Most recently, the Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution closed the doors of all senior classrooms for a six-month period that will probbly be extended to at least eight months.

Since struggle against the bourgeoisie is the essence of education, it would be deleterious to give either place or honor to "bourgeois specialists" in any academic discipline. Such savants are now being humiliated and swept from the schools.

Past 'Bourgeois'

Since traditional Chinese, Western, and Soviet knowledge in fields as diverse as history, agronomy, archaeology, and metallurgy are but "feudal, bourgeois, and revisionist superstitions," there is no need to refer to the past experience of mankind.

Students are, instead, creating their own "revolutionary knowledge" from their own direct experience, seasoned with the "profound experience of the revolutionary masses."

Formal institutions of learning are being half-destroyed and half remade by this cultural anarchy, which is combined with the most stringent political authoritarianism.

The process of destroying the old to build the new — the slogan of the cultural revolution — is now in full swing at Peking University, China's oldest and most prestigious institution of higher learning.

In the current phase of destruction, "an irresistible revolutionary storm is raging on campus" and both teachers and students who resist are being attacked — verbally and, occasionally, physically.

The ideal educational institution, the goal toward which the Communists strive, is glowingly described as the Tarim Institute of Land Reclamation.

It was established in 1958, the year of the first Great Leap Forward in Sinkiang province in China's remote northwest.

Schools Bookless

In reaction against the hegemony of the well-lettered, which was the foundation of the Confucian system, the Communists have created a school that operates without books — except, of course, for innumerable little pamphlets enshrining the works of Mao Tse-tung.

The institute is a strange amalgam of primitive communism, idealistic self-help and Marxist-Leninist dogma as codified by Mao Tse-tung.

Its chief formal course is constant study of the canons of Mao Tse-tung, intensified at irregular, but close-set intervals by "ideological remolding" campaigns. Its chief activities are farming and training students in simple military exercises.

The institute does not strive for intellectual distinction in training or in research, but rather to "oppose any attempt to reduce the three big differences — difference between workers and peasants, between town and countryside, between mental and manual labor."

The institute is dedicated to producing men and women who "display none of the nasty arrogant air peculiar to intellectuals." They are but simple workers, peasants, and soldiers—all in one—with a little more learning than the average worker, peasant, or soldier — deliberately, very little more learning.

Above all, they are faithful servants of Chairman Mao and the revolutionary masses.

Unbend Or Fight

CP, from Winnipeg

A Franco-Manitoban education group will mark its 50th anniversary this year with a militant campaign to restore its long-banned language to the province's public schools.

If there is not some unbending of Manitoba's rigid public school laws at the next session of the legislature, public demonstrations will be organized and support sought from French-Canadians in other provinces.

The group is l'Association d'Education des Canadiens Francais du Manitoba, devoted to preserving French language and culture in the province.

Kenya Corrals Hostile Somalis

The London Observer, from Nairobi

Life has become tougher than ever for the 250,000 Somalis inhabiting the northeastern corner of Kenya.

From time immemorial they have barely existed in this inhospitable desert country in the horn of Africa. But now the hostile acts of Shifta bandits, fighting for this part of Kenya to be handed over to the Somali Republic, have directed the wrath of the Kenya government against the entire tribe.

★ ★ ★

What has upset the Kenya government is that the authorities in Somalia have finally dropped the mask of non-participation in the three-year campaign and revealed that they are backing the Shifta.

Under Kenya's tougher measures, the Somali nomads are no longer free to roam over the thousands of square miles of barren desert but instead are being forcibly put into villages and concentrated in trading centres, where they can be kept under constant observation.

★ ★ ★

A nightly curfew is being rigidly enforced to prevent any movement from dusk to dawn and aid from Somalia is being effectively sealed off by a 15-mile-wide prohibited strip, stretching the entire 500 miles of the border.

Another new move has been the compulsory registration of all Somali males, who must also take an oath of loyalty to President Jomo Kenyatta.

The recent discovery of captured Shifta weapons bearing Arabic inscriptions, similar to markings of the United Arab Republic, has also aroused suspicions here that support for the Shifta bandits may be coming from even further afield than Mogadishu.

Albertans Split on Fluoride

Sunday Sports Winner

EDMONTON (CP)—Four Alberta cities split 2-2 on the question of fluoridation and a number of communities approved Sunday sport in Wednesday's province-wide civic elections.

Enabling legislation passed at the last session of the legislature requires incoming councils to enact bylaws instituting fluoridation or Sunday sport if either issue is approved by a majority of the voters.

FLUORIDE MOVE

Previously, the legislature had required approval by two-thirds of the electorate before allowing a community to add sodium fluoride to its water supply. There had been no previous provincial legislation permitting Sunday sport although some municipal plebiscites in recent years have favored it.

The cities of Edmonton and Drumheller supported fluoridation in Wednesday's voting while Calgary and Camrose were opposed. Edmonton, Calgary, Red Deer and several other centres favored Sunday sport, which was a winner wherever it appeared on the ballot.

FIFTH-TIME WIN

Edmontonians, voting for the fifth time on fluoridation, approved it by a margin of 71,618 to 46,255, a majority of 63.32 per cent. In Calgary, where the question was on the ballot for the third time, it was rejected by a vote of 40,706 to 33,923.

The Sunday sport bylaw, approved by substantial majorities in a dozen communities, permits operators to charge admission for a number of specified sports including football, hockey, baseball and golf between 1:30 and 6 p.m. Still specifically barred are horse and dog racing, boxing and wrestling.

Strangler Strikes

CINCINNATI (UPI) — An elderly woman was found murdered in her first-floor flat Thursday night and police in this fear-struck city said she appeared to have been the latest victim of the Cincinnati strangler.

The victim was identified as Mrs. Rose Winstel, 81.

Vandalism, Boycott Spur School Dispute

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Two fire bombings Thursday extended Oakland's racial disorders into a third straight day while an argument raged over whether a school boycott was to blame for them.

The strict attorney said it was that the boycott promoters were "professional agitators" who placed themselves open to prosecution.

A boycott leader called this intimidation.

The superintendent of schools also blamed the boycott, called Wednesday for three days to protest the quality of Negro education.

But City Manager Jerome Keithley and Police Chief Robert Preston both said Thursday they saw no connection between vandalism and the boycott.

Voters Return Big Julie

EDMONTON (CP)—Big Julie didn't head the poll after all but she'll be throwing her considerable weight in the deliberations of Edmonton city council for another two years.

When the computer sputtered through the first flood of returns Wednesday night, Mrs. Julia Kiniski was leading the field of 44 aspirants for 12 council seats, to the joy of all advocates of color in civic politics.

The 67-year-old founder of the Civic Rights League, mother of six children including professional wrestler Gene Kiniski and one-woman welfare agency, was seeking her third term as an alderman after 11 stormy but unsuccessful efforts to get elected.

"I've heard so much malarkey about so many candidates that I don't even trust myself any more," she complained during this year's campaign.

★ ★ ★

The voters trusted her — not to the extent of keeping her on top of the poll, but with enough support for a respectable third-place finish and two more years of battling "those wolves in sheep's clothing who are taking the taxpayers to the cleaners while they fill their pockets with gold."

★ ★ ★

The only other woman on the new council, in marked contrast to the tempestous Mrs. Kiniski, is Una Maclean Evans, soft-spoken former president of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women and wife of columnist Art Evans of the Edmonton Journal.

Six other sitting aldermen besides Mrs. Kiniski were re-elected while a seventh, Kathleen McCalium, barely failed to make it.

The other holdovers were Dr. Morris Weinlos, who headed the poll for the second time in a row; Leslie Bodie, former mayor of East Kildonan, Man.; Ivor Dent, Frank Edwards, Ed Leger and Angus McGugan.

Other newcomers besides Mrs. Evans were James Bateman, Cec Purves, Neil Crawford and Reg Easton, who preciously served on the council between 1957 and 1959.

MP Challenges Reporter

'Worst Kind of Disservice'

By FRASER KELLY
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — A quiet, unobtrusive member of the National Press Gallery may be hauled before the bar of the House of Commons to defend a story which an MP charged Thursday was designed to "stir up trouble between religious groups."

Marcel Pepin, 25, a reporter for Le Droit, Ottawa's French language daily, Thursday night made no comment about the accusations levelled at him in the Commons by Tory Terry Nugent.

"My editor in chief has said he will read Hansard (the record of debates) and make a statement if it is necessary," he said.

FIFTH POINT

Rising on his fifth point of privilege in the past few days, Mr. Nugent said Mr. Pepin, his editor, and his informants should be called before the Commons to justify a story which appeared Oct. 14.

The story concerned Mr. Nugent's attack on defence minister Hellyer for an alleged tampering with evidence before the Commons Defence Committee.

"A complete reading of the article would show that this writer declared that the charges

Nugent

Pepin

* * *

I made in the House ... are really the culmination of a plot by some Conservatives who want to see the navy remain British and who want to keep Irish Catholics out," Mr. Nugent said.

"The suggestions contained therein do such a disservice to the country and to parliament that we cannot allow them to go unchallenged ...

"It is the worst kind of disservice to this country to misinterpret facts in an attempt to stir up trouble between religious groups ..." he went on.

Mr. Speaker Lamoureux reserved judgment, stating he wanted to look up precedents. Only twice before have members of the gallery been called before the House — in 1906 and 1873.

Mr. Pepin's article appeared under the headline "Some Admirals wish to preserve the Anglo Protestant Character of the Navy."

PART OF PLOT

It said Mr. Nugent's repeated attacks on Mr. Hellyer were part of a plot by retired admirals and navy officers to keep the Navy British and Protestant. The plotting, it said, goes on in Halifax's Chester Club.

Mr. Pepin described the club as a "classic WASP (White-Anglo-Saxon Protestant) institution."

He charged that this group is upset by the appointment of General Jean V. Allard, a French Canadian to head the integrated command structure of the armed forces and Rear Admiral J. E. O'Brien, an Irish Catholic, to head Maritime Command.

CORRIDOR-HAUNTERS

He named fired Admiral William Landymore and former Rear-Admiral Jeffrey Brock (whom he called Brott in his article) as the leaders of the plot. He said they haunted the corridors of Parliament last week.

He wrote that Admiral Brock had directed Mr. Nugent's attack on Mr. Hellyer. Ironically Admiral Brock was again in the public gallery Thursday when the matter was brought up.

WELL ACQUAINTED

Mr. Pepin said he received his information from an "English-Canadian military man very well acquainted with the situation."

Mr. Nugent told the House tha Admiral Brock had not directed him in the Commons when he attacked Mr. Hellyer.

"Nothing I said could be considered as suggesting for one second that the Department of National Defence had ever discriminated against anyone on religious grounds, and nothing I said could be taken to mean that the government had at any time discriminated between English and French-speaking Canadians.

INFORMANT TOO

"There is further contained in this article the suggestion that the writer is acting on the advice of an informant ...

"I suggest that his informant, should, perhaps, also be brought before this House. Certainly the editor of the newspaper which was guilty of allowing such a scurrilous article to be published should appear.

"It is the worst kind of yellow journalism and the House may wish to consider seriously whether it will allow any representative of an editor of that kind to attend sittings of this House," Mr. Nugent said.

GROSS DISTORTION

He branded the story a "gross distortion of the facts." He said Mr. Pepin should be "dealt with" by parliament.

Conservative J. M. Forrestall rose on a point of order and added: "The report of the presence of Rear-Admiral William Landymore in this House is absolutely unfounded and false. I speak as his member of parliament when I say that."

During Mr. Nugent's speech Conservative House Leader Michael Starr interjected; "Whoever wrote that must be mental."

Recruiting Climbs If Hellyer Quits

OTTAWA (CP) — Gordon Churchill (PC—Winnipeg South Centre) invited Defence Minister Hellyer to resign Thursday in a light, but barbed, Commons exchange on the fighting fitness of the navy.

Mr. Churchill, a former defence minister, asked whether the fighting efficiency has been reduced or increased by the berthing of nine destroyers.

Six of the ships are Second World War frigates, Mr. Hellyer said. In their case, fighting efficiency would be increased by the inactive role.

Mr. Hellyer added that he would like to get the others back to sea. He hoped Mr. Churchill would do what he could to recruit good personnel to man the ships.

Mr. Churchill shot back that the resignation of the minister would do the most good for recruiting.

He asked about the anti-submarine effectiveness of the navy in the light of the inactive ships due to manpower shortages.

Mr. Hellyer concluded the exchange by saying that never in peacetime has the navy had the operational capability in its anti-submarine role that it now has.

Jail Break Adds 11 More Years

WINNIPEG (CP)—One of 10 men who broke out of Manitoba's provincial jail at Headingley Sept. 1, was sentenced Thursday to a total of 11 years in prison.

Archibald Demas, 23, of the Red Lake, Ont., Indian reserve, received a four-year term for escaping from the jail and two more years for armed robbery.

He pleaded guilty to the charges in provincial magistrate's court. Magistrate Harold Gyles also imposed two-year concurrent terms for unlawfully confining another person, and breaking and entering and theft.

Jewish Writers Will Share Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Poet Nelly Sachs, a German - born Jew, and novelist Samuel Joseph Agnon of Israel were jointly awarded the 1966 Nobel Prize for literature Thursday.

The Swedish Academy of Letters cited Miss Sachs—who fled from Hitler to find refuge in Sweden—for "her outstanding lyrical and dramatic writing." The academy awarded Agnon his share of the prize "for his profoundly characteristic narrative art with motifs of the Jewish people."

Academy secretary, Dr. Anders Osterling, praised them in a television address as "two outstanding Jewish authors, each of whom represents the message of Israel in our time . . . who complement each other in a splendid striving to present the cultural heritage of the Jewish people by the written word."

BIRTHDAY

To Miss Sachs, the award and her half of the $60,000 prize—to be presented in glittering ceremonies in Stockholm Dec. 10—will mark an extra special occasion, her 75th birthday. Agnon, who lives in Jerusalem, is 78.

This is only the second time since the Nobel literature prize was first awarded in 1901 that it had been shared. The last time was in 1917 when the prize went to K. Gjellerup and H. Pontoppidan, Danes.

Agnon had been reported to be a winner two days ago, and at that time, when told of the report, he said "my life won't change." He is noted for two novels, The Bridal Canopy and A Guest for the Night, both mixtures of humor and prophecy.

MYSTERY PLAY

A frail woman with brown eyes, Miss Sachs has published collections of poems including Quarters of the Dead, And Nobody Knows Anything More and Escape and Transition. She also wrote a mystery play called Eli.

The prizes were set up under the will of Alfred Nobel, the Swedish inventor of dynamite. The prize for medicine and physiology was awarded jointly Oct. 10 to two U.S. cancer researchers, Canadian - born Dr. Charles Huggins of Chicago and Dr. Peytonrous of New York City.

The committee announced Tuesday no peace prize will be given this year.

Still to come are the selections for Nobel Prizes in physics and chemistry.

Regional Carriers Get Boost

OTTAWA (CP) — Regional air carriers will be offered limited subsidies and may be allowed to compete with Air Canada and Canadian Pacific Airlines on segments of main-line routes, Transport Minister Pickersgill announced in a policy statement tabled in the Commons Thursday.

The statement said the subsidy formula will "place an incentive upon the carrier to develop more traffic and become more efficient."

tralia's war dead by placing a wreath at the national memorial.

He and Mrs. Johnson were greeted by thousands when they arrived Thursday. Friday school children thronged the spacious approaches to the memorial and cheered loudly as the president shook hands with veterans' organization officials and walked toward the remembrance stone.

As he toured the capital after the wreath-laying ceremonies, Johnson used an amplifier to shout greetings to the crowds.

'GLAD TO BE BACK'

"Hello, glad to be back. I didn't know Australia had so many people."

Newspapers throughout the country published special sections marking the visit and the radio and television coverage is the most extensive ever made in Australia.

Editorial opinion was generally friendly.

The Johnson - Holt statement said: "It was agreed that the military position in Viet Nam now is demonstratably such that North Viet Nam could achieve no military victory. It was, however, clearly recognized that it would be necessary firmly to maintain the present military effort until a satisfactory settlement could be negotiated."

IN PARLIAMENT

Johnson's speech was before Australian parliamentarians. He said the U.S. would be friends and partners with countries that work together for the future of Asia.

Noting the U.S. has long been friends of those who had worked toward unity in Western Europe and toward stronger regional ties in Africa, he added: "We shall also be the friends and partners of those in Asia who work together to fashion their own destiny."

BOOS AND CHEERS

The president, greeted by both boos and cheers when he arrived at Parliament, also said he sees success ahead in Viet Nam mainly because other countries are joining in a common effort to stem aggression.

"I believe there is light at the end of what has been a long and lonely tunnel.

"I say this is not just because our men are proving successful on the battlefield. I believe it for this reason:

"There is a widening community of people who feel responsible for what is happening in Viet Nam.

BRIGHTEST SIGN

"Of all the signs this is the brightest."

His itinerary for the visit was left in shreds, as were the nerves of his security officers, as he seized every opportunity to meet welcoming Australians.

There were some anti-war demonstrators.

Viet Nam is a domestic political issue in Australia, where general elections will be held Nov. 26. The Labor party opposition to Prime Minister Harold Holt's government is against his sending of conscripts into Viet Nam.

SIGNS UP

The demonstrators were relatively few. They milled about in front of Johnson's downtown hotel in anticipation of his arrival.

While they shouted, "go home Yank" to American reporters, they appeared to be more in high spirits than angry. They bore placards saying, "end the war in Viet Nam", and "No more Aussies for Viet Nam."

Placards were frivolous, such as "Eat at Joe's," "I like beer," and "God save Ireland."

The students never got a look at Johnson. The president stopped off at Holt's mansion for an unscheduled dinner. Later he slipped into the hotel through a back entrance. Guards kept tight security.

Thornburn Elected

Geoffrey Thornburn has been elected chairman of the Victoria chapter of the Royal Canadian College of Organists. Elections were held recently at St. Mary's Anglican Church.

Other officers elected for the 1966-67 season are: W. M. Barss, vice-chairman; Phyllis J. Pollard, secretary; Mrs. C. Errington, treasurer; J. Ingram Smith, publicity; Charles Palmer, program; Mrs. P. Boese, social convener; Peter Bishop, Diapason correspondent; Rev. W. Bulloch, Eric Edwards, Hugo Spilker, Richard Proudman, committee.

Brief Presented

Premier Urges Chamber To Take Federal Stand

Premier Bennett suggested Thursday that the executive of the B.C. Chamber of Commerce go to Ottawa to back up the B.C. government's demands for increased federal aid.

About 30 directors from chambers throughout the province were here Thursday to present a brief to the cabinet on the resolutions and policy views which were approved at its annual convention last June.

Chamber president William Harrison of Vancouver said later that the "government gave us a very good hearing on the brief and urged we make a personal presentation to Ottawa" on those items which were of national interest.

He said the premier told them they should send a large delegation to Ottawa to ask, in particular, for a larger share of tax money, for more money for roads - to - resources programs, and for a subsidy for development and operation of the government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

"I told the premier we would certainly consider the suggestions," said Mr. Harrison.

But the chamber chief said his delegation pointed out to cabinet that it already made representations to the federal government through individual members who were going east, through the mails and through the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Harrison also said the premier reminded the group of his recent call for restraints to slow down inflation, and that the premier was advised the chamber had already endorsed his stand.

Labor Force Down

Unemployed Number Up in September

The number of unemployed in B.C. increased in September by 2,000 over the previous month, and was considerably larger than in the same period last year.

Figures just released by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics showed 29,000 unemployed in B.C. in September as opposed to 27,000 in August, and 19,000 in September last year.

The number of employed showed a drop—697,000 in September as opposed to 724,000 in August.

The drop was described as usual for this time of year when students finish their summer jobs and return to their studies.

Number of employed in the province in September last year was 649,000.

From August to September, the B.C. labor force dropped from 751,000 to 726,000. It stood at 668,000 in September last year.

Population 14 years of age or over in B.C. rose from 1,303,000 to 1,309,000 between August and September.

Tsartlip

Scouts Need Leaders

Tsartlip District of the Boy Scouts is looking for at least nine men to act as leaders and assistants in the district council, which covers an acrea on the Saanich Peninsula from Royal Oak to Swartz Bay.

District president William Stewart indicated the need for Scout leaders, assistants and lay supporters at a special meeting in Saanichton fire hall this week.

He said men are needed as badge secretary and as members of camp, honors and awards, organization and expansion, and programs and training committees.

SPECIFIC NEEDS

Specifically, Mr. Stewart said, a leader and two assistants are needed in the 4th Tsartlip-Royal Oak Pack, which is composed of boys from 8 to 11 years of age.

Scouts, from 11 to 13, need a leader and one assistant for the 4th Tsartlip-Royal Oak Troop; one assistant for the 5th Tsartlip-Cordova Bay Troop; a leader for the 9th Tsartlip-Elk Lake Troop and a leader and one assistant for the 9th Tsartlip-Saanichton Troop.

INVITATION

The 4th Tsartlip-Royal Oak Venturer Company, boys 14 to 17 inclusive, needs a leader and assistant.

Mr. Steward, 891 Falaise Court, invited interested people to attend the annual district meeting at 8 p.m. Nov. 15 in he Saanichton fire hall on East Saanich Road.

Example Urged In Driving

Motor Vehicles Superintendent Ray Hadfield has asked B.C.'s civil servants to set an example for the public in safe driving. Their example at the moment, he indicated, is not the best.

In a front page editorial in the monthly B.C. Civil Service Newsletter, he said, "The rate of increase in highway deaths is nothing short of alarming."

Mr. Hadfield said many of the deaths are the result of poor driving, which covers a range of faults from driving while impaired to speeding and failing to obey stop signs.

'DISTRESSING'

He said he found it "distressing" that an increasing number of government employees are becoming involved in road accidents, both on and off duty.

Mr. Hadfield urged all government employees to check their driving habits, always anticipate what the other driver might do, and "develop an attitude of complete awareness of what is going on around us on the highway."

"Let's all make highway safety our personal contribution. Our success will be an inspiration to the other citizens of our wonderful province," the editorial said.

Living in U.S. Costs More

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite a slight drop in U.S. food prices, the cost of living went up again in September, the bureau of labor statistics reported Thursday.

The consumer price index climbed three-tenths of 1 per cent last month — from 113.8 to 114.1. This means goods and services that cost $10 in the 1957-59 base period cost $11.41 last month. The September index was up 3.5 per cent over September, 1965.

Visits Moscow Next Month

Martin Will Ask Russians To Stop Underground Blasts

By FRASER KELLY
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — External Affairs minister Paul Martin announced Thursday he plans talks with top Soviet officials aimed at banning underground nuclear testing.

He told a news conference preliminary discussions on the test ban as well as on the non proliferation of nuclear weapons have already begun.

He will meet with the Soviet leaders during a visit to Moscow next month. He said he will make courtesy calls on Soviet leaders Leonid Brezhnev and Alexei Kosygin, then conduct negotiations with Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

OLD FRIEND

"I look forward to visiting with my old friend Mr. Polyansky," he added. Soviet first secretary Dmitry Polyansky argued with Mr. Martin about American involvement in Viet Nam when he visited Canada recently.

Mr. Martin discussed the role of the United Nations in Viet Nam if a settlement of the war is reached.

MAY BE ROLE

"When the war is over, there may be a role to play. If there is, we want to make sure the UN is ready," he said. He hinted the UN could play another peacekeeping role. He discussed the possibility of the International Control Commission, composed of Canada, India and Poland, being expanded or taken over by the UN.

Martin

* * *

Mr. Martin said prospects for a reconvening of the Geneva conference over Viet Nam is unlikely, so the ICC could play a critical role in reaching a settlement.

REGRET EXPRESSED

He expressed regret that bombing had been resumed in the demilitarized zone between North and South Viet Nam.

The external affairs minister also told newsmen that Canada opposed the moving of NATO headquarters from France to Belgium.

"We have had and continue to have reservations about the moving of the NATO council from Paris to Belgium. We believe we must foster the maximum possible association of France with the alliance.

UNITY IMPORTANT

"We also believe it is important to maintain the unity of the 14 countries who support the principle of a unified structure," he said.

He said the French government had recently reaffirmed its belief in the importance of NATO but opposed the principle of an integrated force with integrated command.

INTEGRATION REQUIRED

"We believe that an efficient organization requires an integrated structure," he said.

Mr. Martin said that the UN would likely impose limited mandatory sanctions against Rhodesia if present sanctions and talks don't bring progress towards settling the crisis.

He said the UN action would likely come by the end of the year.

Hospital Council Elects Hemmings

Dr. C. H. Hemmings, of Rest Haven Hospital, Sidney, was elected chairman of the Greater Victoria Hospital Planning Council at the annual meeting Wednesday.

Dr. Hemmings succeeds Joseph W. Casey, who has led the council for a number of years and who assumes the office of immediate past president.

Ald. Michael Griffin, representing St. Joseph's Hospital, was elected vice-president; and secretary-treasurer William Morrison retains his post.

A number of the council members are attending a meeting of the Vancouver Island Regional Hospital Council in Parksville today. Speaker will be Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

They All Respect Steelers

Victoria Steelers may be the only winless club in the Pacific Football League but none of their five rivals takes them lightly and all are hoping that it won't be them when the Steelers finally get everything put together.

It could happen on Saturday at Macdonald Park, where the Steelers meet Portland Thunderbirds at 2 p.m. in the third of their five home games.

Steelers were not certain last night just how many of their ex-B.C. Lions would be available but they said that lineman Gary Schwertferger and flanker Ron Morris would be here and they had hopes that fullback Nub Beamer and end Jerry Janes would be able to make it.

Even without Beamer and Janes and with Pete Ohler not likely to start at quarterback, the Steelers have a backfield which poses a few problems for the opposition. Major Lincoln, Bill Taylor and Jim Pannell are among the most dangerous runners in the league and Morris, who can tote the ball, has been an outstanding pass-catching threat.

Thunderbirds, 3-3 for the season and 31-9 over Edmonds in their last game, are managed by Frank Leahy, Jr., and coached by Tom Hughes, a Notre Dame alumnus. They are big, actually huge in many areas, and experienced.

On offence, they are led by quarterback Charlie Ganter, a 200-pounder from Oregon Tech. Ganter can call on Mike Calvert, a 220-pound fullback from Pacific University, and Sam Owens, a 228-pound halfback from University of Oregon, to do the running and some pass-catching.

Main pass targets are Warren Woodworth, ex-Oregon State flanker, and ends Ron Hasse from Lewis and Clark College and Bob Wendell of Pacific U.

Getting to Ganter could be troublesome. His tackles are 265-pound Jim Wiley from University of Michigan and 253-pound Carl Banker from Brigham Young University. At guard are two other huskies, Chuck Withers and Mike Claboe.

Thunderbirds are even bulkier on defence, where the tackles are 272-pound Carl Reehl from University of Nebraska and 255-pound Gene Grosse from University of Southern California and the ends are 260-pound Bill Schade, once with Dallas Cowboys of the NFL, and 232-pound Denny Schweitzer of Linfield College.

Don Heldt, a 230-pounder who was with Denver Broncos of the AFL, and 196-pound Joe Rainwater from Linfield and 230-pound Charlie Leech from Pacific U are the linebackers and the Thunderbirds have speed and size in the defence backfield.

VIEWS of SPORT

By Red Smith

A sign hanging high in St. Louis's Busch Memorial Stadium read "Judgment Day," but it was in the wrong ball park. It was Yankee Stadium where Armageddon was fought, and after five false starts the forces of good (pronounced Allie Sherman) prevailed.

In Houston, the Oilers squashed Joe Namath like a bug, but their 24-0 conquest of the Jets only salved wounds opened by Namath and his accomplices in that 52-13 hog-killing in Shea Stadium a month ago. It still left Sonny Werblin's capitalistic crew leading the American Football League's Eastern candidates for a slice of the melon Sen. Ev Dirksen has grown in Congressman Manny Celler's backyard.

While Giants were butting heads with Redskins, Cowboys tangling with Cardinals and Namath was fleeing for his life before the Houston rushers, a bigger competition than any of these was going on. Within the next year or two, the lifting of pro football's traditional television blackout figures to have much farther-reaching effects on the business than any team's success or failure on the field.

In New York, for example, two ordinary teams were meeting in a game almost totally devoid of significance.

At the same time, however, Metropolitan TV screens were showing the two biggest games of the season this far, St. Louis-Dallas and Jets-Oilers.

Dance of the Dial

Does anybody seriously believe this competition won't affect gate receipts as time goes on? When winter comes and fans come to realize how much more they can get at home — bigger games and solid comfort — will they still tear their pants putting money down so they can suffer?

To be sure, most American homes are soon going to need at least two TV sets, for a man trying to keep abreast of two games with only one screen needs sharper reflexes than a corner back covering Bob Hayes.

There was no problem through the first half of the St. Louis-Dallas offering, which started at 2 p.m. Viewers could sit still watching Danny Villanueva send the Cowboys off in front with a 17-yard field goal, and life was still free of distractions when the Cardinals finally took a 7-3 lead on Charley Johnson's pass to Bobby Joe Conrad.

Then it was 3:30 and the dance of the dial began. On channel 4, the Jets kicked off and Houston's John Henry Johnson got loose, putting the Oilers in front, 7-0.

By this time the second half had started on Channel 2. Dallas was moving. Snap went the dial, and here was Curt Gowdy remarking that Ernie Ladd hadn't yet appeared in the Houston defence. Namath missed with a third-down pass, allowing time for a quick gander at that other network.

This time it was St. Louis moving against Dallas. Jackie Smith made a fine catch to get the Cardinals in touchdown range.

Day of Judgment

Click. Oops, Namath slipped trying to throw and Johnny Baker, a Houston linebacker, intercepted on the Jets' 40. Things were beginning to blur.

With less than a yard to go for a Cardinal first down, St. Louis fans chanted, "Go for it" but instead Bakken came in and got a 10-10 tie with a goal from the 27. Better stay with this one now until it's over.

In punt formation on fourth down, Villanueva "caught the Cardinals not thinking at all" (Jack Drees), made a first down running. Charley Johnson completed three passes in a row and called on Bakken to win it all with a 42-yard place-kick. Bakken missed.

From there on it was easy again, with all the action on Channel 4. It could be a tough season, though. When you have to jump up and reach for the dial after every other play, the legs go first.

Island Champions To Play Mainland

Winner of the Vancouver Island Juvenile Football League playoffs will get a chance for official recognition as provincial champions this year.

The provincial final, between the Island winners and the Mainland champions, will be played at Macdonald Park the afternoon of Nov. 11. The first provincial playoff has been sanctioned by the Canadian Football Union through the B.C. Amateur Football Association.

Meanwhile, it will take four games to decide the Island champion in a playoff which starts Sunday with two semi-final games.

League-champion Farmer's Construction will meet Nanaimo Redmen in one sudden-death semi-final at Carnarvon Park and Victoria Hornets play Cowichan Timbermen in the other at Duncan. Game time in each case is 2 p.m.

Lacrosse Kings Feted

It was "awards night" for the Victoria Minor Lacrosse Association last night, and 265 youngsters showed up at the Britannia Branch, Canadian League, Hall on Blanshard Street for the trophy presentations, the goodies and an interest-holding performance by magician Owen Fowler, who donated his services for the evening.

Among the youngsters attending were members of four provincial championship teams — Saanich Tykes and Pee Wees, Victoria City from the novice division, and McDonald's Bakery, the B.C. bantam kings. M & M Home Service received the Victoria Sporting Goods Trophy as Vancouver Island winners.

Awards to outstanding players went to Jim Boyd (Tyks), Johnny Podiedzielnik (novice), Bruce Newman (pee wees), John Hamilton (bantams) and Tom Somner (midgets).

Other awards were:

Terry Bower and Dwayne Ferguson, most improved and best rookie in the novice division; Norm Baker, Jr., and Kim Bowles, top scorer and most improved in the pee wee division; Jim Lynch, Paul Scott and Ricky Baker, high scorer, most sportsmanlike and most improved, respectively, in the bantam division, and Mike Beaulac, Al Lister and Bill Utterson, high scorer, most sportsmanlike and most improved, respectively, in the midget division.

Hockey Draft Ruled Unjust

QUEBEC (CP)—Gerald Martineau, president of Quebec Aces of the American Hockey League, says the proposed universal draft agreement between the National Hockey League and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association is an "injustice" and a "sellout to the Americans."

Martineau was attacking the pro-amateur draft which will come into effect next June, after ratification by the two bodies.

JUNIOR PLAYERS

The proposed universal draft will allow the expanded 12-team NHL six team choice or a total of 72 amateur players no longer eligible for junior hockey.

The nine-team AHL will pick up 27 players, or three per club. The seven teams in the Western Hockey League will each pick three and the Central Pro League and any subsequent development league which may be organized will have two choices per team.

POOL TALENT

"It is important to note that of all the major teams allowed to choose in this pool of talent, only two of them are Canadian—Toronto and Montreal," he said in a statement.

In calling for government legislation against the proposed agreement, Martineau said he regrets the throught that "this so - called agreement benefits only the American clubs, especially in view of NHL expansion."

Horne Sets Record

Esquimalt High School swimmers set two new records Thursday in the annual inter-house swim gala at the Crystal Gardens.

Marilyn Horne won the open 50-yard breaststroke in 37.5 seconds to better the old record of 42.0 set last year by Janice Denniston. Judy Vessey trimmed three seconds off the novice 50-yard backstroke with a time of 43.0.

DOUBLE WINNERS

Double winners, in the open 50-yard backstroke and free-style events, were Lynn Grossman and Ray Stewart.

Who Loses Femininity Asks Women Golfers

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Don't tell the girls competing in the women's world golf team championship here they lose their feminity when they take up tournament golf. You may get a golf ball rammed down your throat.

"Certainly, we hear it all the time," said statuesque, blonde Marina Ragher of Italy. "I think it is ridiculous. If we weren't playing golf, we would be playing tennis, water-skiing or doing something else.

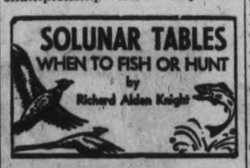
BEAUTY QUEENS

Miss Ragher and her Italian team-mate, Marion Tadini, in their 20s have been encouraged by friends to enter the Miss Universe contest.

Gayle Harvey Moore, a young, brown-eyed teacher who has trouble getting her high school male students in Vancouver to concentrate on books doesn't think golf makes her masculine.

"I think a girl is naturally feminie or she isn't," explained the attractive Mrs. Moore.

"Golf has nothing to do with it. You see a lot of girls who play golf all their lives who never lose their feminie grace and appeal."



According to the Solunar Tables calculated for this area, the best times for hunting and fishing today and tomorrow will be as follows (times shown are Pacific Daylight Time):

Welts Gives U.S. Lead

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Ann Quast Welts, a Mt. Vernon, Wash., housewife, playing with a borrowed driver and a museum putter, fired a one under-par 71 to give the United States a one-stroke lead over Italy in the first round of women's world amateur golf championship Thursday.

Mrs. Welts' score, bracketed with a 74 by Mrs. Theodore Boddie of Shreveport, La., gave the Americans a team total of 145.

WHL, AHL Could Veto

Brewer Given NHL's Blessing

NEW YORK (CP)—President Clarence Campbell said Thursday night the National Hockey League has reached a formula that will permit Carl Brewer to join Canada's national hockey team, if the American and Western hockey leagues agree to it.

Campbell declined to say how long it will take to put the formula into effect. He also refused to say what the formula is.

"We consider it is a fair and acceptable arrangement and we'll have to put it up to the other leagues."

He said after a meeting of the six NHL governors that the league has drafted a "revised concept of voluntary retirement" to cover this and future cases of players who, while still good enough to play professional hockey, want to leave it for the amateur ranks.

NEEDS APPROVAL

"This will require presentation to the two big minor professional leagues for their concurrence. Uniform action is needed because under the existing rules, all professional teams must waive their rights to a player before he can apply for reinstatement as an amateur."

Campbell seemed optimistic that the minor leagues will accept the proposed formula for dealing with Brewer, a Toronto Maple Leaf defence star for many years before his suspension in the fall of 1965, and with similar cases that may arise.

UNANIMOUS

As for the six NHL clubs, he said. "They are unanimously agreed that if the concurrence of the American and Western leagues is gained, they are prepared to put it into effect."

How soon might this be?

"It could take months. It could possibly be done in two or three days if you got all the right people in the right place at the right time.

"It may take a fair amount of explanation and persuasion to adopt the formula we would like to have adopted."

"No minor-league club will be able to get Brewer. You can dismiss that as something that won't happen. The motivation of any minor team opposing this arrangement would, therefore, have to be something other than the expectation that Brewer will play for it."

Asked whether the NHL clubs had any sentiment about helping Canada's national team, Campbell said, "I think Montreal and Toronto may conceivably have, but I can't think of any reason why the four teams based in the United States should have."

Canada's national team has two international tournaments during the Christmas - New Year's holiday period, the Walter Brown Trophy competition in Colorado Springs, Colo., and the confederation centennial tournament in Winnipeg. Then there will be the world championship in Vienna in March. Canada hasn't won the world title since 1961.

Campbell admitted that had it not been for the 28-year-old Brewer's rejection of professional hockey and his wish to play for the Canadian national amateur team, the NHL governors wouldn't have considered a new formula.

Leafs Lineup Set for Totems

There'll be no lineup changes for Victoria Maple Leafs tonight when they go after an extension on their unbeaten and unscored-on record in Seattle against the Totems.

Rightwinger Mike Labadie and rookie-centre Mike Laughton, both on the injured list, won't make the trip.

OPERATION

Labadie had his infected elbow operated on yesterday and it will be about two weeks before he will be able to play. Laughton, nursing strained knee ligaments, showed up for practice yesterday wearing a brace but was told to take a rest until his injury had time to heal. It is expected he will be able to resume workouts next week.

GET JUMP

Tonight's game is the only road game for the Leafs until Nov. 6, when they start a five-game road trip in Portland. They then play two games in Los Angeles and two in Oakland before returning home for their first go against Vancouver Canucks on Nov. 16.

With seven of their first eight games at Memorial Arena, where they had a 24-6-2 record last season, the Leafs are faced with a great chance to get a jump in their bid for a Western Hockey League championship.

They got away to a fine start with 2-0 and 5-0 shutouts over Oakland Seals and Portland Buckaroos, probably their top two rivals.

After tonight's game, they come home to test the strengthened San Diego Gulls tomorrow night and again on Wednesday. Then it's the Los Angeles Blades, Seattle and Oakland before that second road game.

"The hottest fishing I have ever seen," is the simultaneous report this week from Roy Smith and Dick James, who have been fishing Cowichan Bay waters.

The boundary line has been lifted and anglers have been taking the big coho along the weed line and every other place in the Bay.

Limit catches are being taken on blue and white, gray and white and purple and white bucktails, reports Brian Ferguson from Ordano's.

This week's heavy rain is just what the doctor ordered for the salmon. It will move them into the river mouths and it has come just in time to get them started up the rivers. It was almost too late. Rivers have been low and the salmon have been waiting some time to get up the rivers, especially chinooks.

Coho fishing is drawing to a close this year, but there is still some good coho fishing left in the Campbell River area, the Bowser-Deep Bay area, Alberni Inlet, and in the Deep Cove-Saanich Peninsula waters.

Juan de Fuca net fishing has been stopped for the season this week after netters averaged only 10 coho a day early in the week, and also ran into bad weather. But the closure is too late to do sports fisermen much good. All commercial fishing stops in Juan de Fuca, Nov. 1 and in the waters off the rest of the Island, as far north as Kelsey Bay, it stopped Oct. 1.

Behind the coho come the winter chinooks.

A few have shown at Pedder Bay. Oak Bay guide Howard Pepper, reports excellent chinook fishing in Oak Bay close to shore, along the Golf Links, off the floats, around Fiddle Reef and Cattle Point. Seventy-five feet of line, only six or eight ounces of weight and Super Strip-Teaser or Minnow-Teaser are getting them. Crack of dawn has been best time.

★ ★ ★

Gordon Murphy reports plenty of chinooks and coho still in Alberni Inlet, especially in the China Creek-Underwood Cove waters at daybreak.

Spin-casters with T-Spoons are getting big tyee in the Stamp River although some are a little dark. Limit of tyee, springs and coho in the rivers is two fish. Some rivers, like the Nanaimo and the Sooke, are closed to angling.

The odd winter chinook is showing around Duncan Bay at Campbell River.

Saanich Inlet is pretty well plugged with small fish, most of them just on 12-inch keeper size. Coho are becoming a little more plentiful in the Inlet and some fair-sized chinook salmon have been taken down the Finlayson Arm end.

Lake fishing is still a good bet and river fishing is on the upswing as rivers come alive with salmon and the trout mingle with them to feed on the eggs.

Ray Flynn and Russell Motion of Campbell River had a wonderful time at Marble River in the north Island. They had difficulty getting their lures through the trout, but if they could get them through the rout they managed to hook a steelhead on pretty well every cast. To top it off they bagged an elk in the Nimpkish Valley on the way back.

Nitinat River is producing some trout and so is the Cowichan. Cowichan Lake is rated good.

A No. 3 Dimple half-and-half spoon is the lure to use just now in Elk Lake, off the shore along the Patricia Bay Highway. The trout are feeding on small sunfish fry. Fishing his been fairly good for trout in the Sooke Basin off Billing's (Jackson's) Spit and the mouth of Roche Harbor.

The Amalgamated Conservation Society, which represents 14 lower Island groups, has voted to become an associate member of the B.C. Wildlife Federation. As such the ACS will have a voice, but not a vote in Federation activities. Big advantage will be the mutual exchange of ideas between the two groups and it should be a step forward to eliminate some misunderstandings that have occurred in the past.

The B.C. Wildlife Federation will hold its annual convention in Victoria the first week in May next year.

Bruce Colegrave has been elected secretary-treasurer of the ACS to replace Bill Hoskin, who has moved to Vancouver.

Moose harvest by hunters in northern and central B.C. is up 695, to 3,204 moose compared to 2,509 up until Oct. 16 last year according to latest figures from the Cache Creek checking station. Deer harvest is up 90, to 404, from 314. Caribou hunters have been hitting it lucky, up 101, to 262 from 131.

Resident hunters are up 1,169 to 7,764 and non-resident hunters checked through the station are up 421, to 2,091.

Par Made The Hard Way

KELOWNA (CP) — Andrew Makinson made par the hard way Wednesday at Kelowna Golf Club.

He smashed his tee shot into a pond on the par three 15th hole and took the usual two-stroke penalty.

Lying two, he earned his third shot for a hole-in-one which turned out to be only a tough par.

Boucher

Separate Association Outlaws Next Step

REGINA (CP) — Frank Boucher, commissioner of the outlawed Canadian Major Junior Hockey League, said Wednesday he is working on plans to form a national junior hockey association.

Boucher said in an interview he has received requests from all parts of Canada to form a new and independent junior association.

YEARS WORK

"I have worked on the formation of a junior association for more than a year and when the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association decided the CMJHL could not be affiliated with its organization, the need for such an association became even more obvious."

CENTENNIAL CUP

Formation of the independent association would open the way to a second national junior final, he said. CMJHL clubs are ineligible to compete in the Memorial Cup final this season.

Boucher said a sportsman has offered to donate a Centennial Cup which would be up for annual competition among teams in the new association.

All players in the new association would be signed to contracts similar to those now used by CMJHL clubs. Players would not be affected by a new agreement allowing the NHL to consider all graduation juniors in a universal draft, Boucher said.

The new association would put the operation of junior hockey "in the hands of the men how spend time and money in fostering the game," he said.

"It would give them an opportunity to work out an agreement with professional teams interested in signing players from the association."

He said the new association would leave the CAHA free to negotiate with professionals for financial support of its minor hockey program which covers youngsters up to junior age.

Boucher, long an advocate of increasing the age limit for juniors to 21, said establishment of the proposed junior association would make the increase possible.

Trust Immunity Given Football

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House granted the National and American football leagues Thursday the anti-trust immunity they wanted to go ahead with a merger into one league.

In approving the merger, the House rejected a final protest by Rep. Emanuel Celler, (Dem. N.Y.), chairman of the judiciary committee, who wanted to study its possible repercussions in extensive hearings.

Final Senate approval is needed to send the measure to the White House, but that will be a formality. The Senate already has passed the legislation.

EXPANSION NEXT

As outlined by the leagues last June, the merger calls for expansion of the present 24-team operation into a 26-team league by 1968, with possibly two more franchises to be awarded before the merger is actually completed in 1970.

Mexico's Little Olympics Test Indicates Jumpers Will Fly

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The experimental Little Olympics close here today with most of the doctors and experts apparently agreed that people and things may fly farther through the light air of Mexico City's 1½-mile high altitude. On the ground and in the water, however, times and performances suffer in any event requiring any degree of endurance.

Proved originally in swimming, where marks of 200 metres and over were far slower than the best, the fact was emphasized in the track and field competition.

Only one Olympic record was broken during the entire week. Romauld Klin of the Soviet Union threw the hammer 230 feet, 4½ inches, almost two feet farther than his winning toss at Tokyo.

On the other hand, only two men in a field of 40 were able to break four minutes in the 1,500-metre trials, were the listed world record is Herb Elliot's 3:35.6.

SEVERE DRAIN

A Czechoslovakian doctor, Horak Aarmir, said the 20,000-metre walk and the 1,500-metre runs put a severe drain on the athletes.

"No other test was as frightening," he said. "The men who run and walk the long distances suffer a great strain."

Sports Law Passes Test

EDMONTON (CP) — Approval of Sunday sport plebiscites Wednesday at Calgary and Edmonton means the two cities now will be able to charge admission to sports activities on the Lord's Day between 1:30 and 6 p.m.

The legislature passed a bill during the last session of the legislature clearing the way for municipalities to decide whether they wanted commercial Sunday sports.

However, the bill specified that horse races, dog races, boxing, wrestling "or other like exhibitions" still would be prohibited.

Which whisky do the Jones' really drink?

When it comes to whisky, the Jones' can afford to please themselves.

Yet they don't let others dictate their taste. They have taste of their own.

Which is why it's not surprising that so many of the Jones' drink Bonded Stock.

This is a smooth, mellow whisky with a flavour you don't have to disguise.

One other thing: you don't have to be one of the Jones' to appreciate Bonded Stock.

All you need is a taste for good whisky.

Gooderham's have been distilling fine whisky since 1832.

Courtroom Parade

Youth's Bark Brings Court Bite

Barking out of turn cost Brian Cuningham, 18, of 989 Londonderry, $50 when he appeared in central magistrate's court Thursday charged with causing a disturbance.

The barking youth was telling off Saanich police dog Rex, which was shut in a police car.

It all began when about 50 youths from a party at 569 Kelvin got out of hand and into the street, shouting and swearing.

MORE CHARGES

One youth was fined $50 Monday when he pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance. Another is scheduled to appear in court next Monday after pleading not guilty. Police indicated Wednesday there would be more charges laid.

Cunningham admitted barking at the dog, which barked back.

Court was told beer bottles were strewn about the porch, roadway and driveway at 569 Kelvin.

Cunningham told the court he had previously been picked up for being a minor in possession, intoxication and careless driving.

Magistrate William Ostler warned Cunningham he was falling into a familiar pattern.

"Are you not bright enough to see where you are heading?" asked the magistrate. "If you keep this up, you will end up in jail.

"A disturbance like this, where people are brought out of their homes or their beds by a bunch of young rowdies, is outrageous," said Magistrate Ostler.

Leslie Ironside, a former bailiff, was sentenced to nine months on a charge of theft over $50 and nine months on each of six charges of false pretences. Sentences are to run concurrently.

Ironside's counsel, Bruce K. Arlidge, told the court a set of circumstances had forced his client to these events. To begin with, he lost his job in June, Mr. Arlidge said.

He said the offences were silly and Ironside had been driven to it.

'LIVE MODESTLY'

Crown prosecutor John Macintyre pointed out that Ironside was an educated man, and added the acts had been premeditated.

"You want to be what you are not," said Magistrate Ostler. "You must persuade youself to be what you are. You must learn to live modestly. You shouldn't try to run before you can walk."

A 35-day jail term was imposed on Carl Berikoff, 2943 Bridge Street, for making false declarations which netted $116 from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Berikoff had already spent a week in jail awaiting a pre-sentence report. He made seven false statements.

"This is clearly not a case for a fine," said Magistrate Ostler.

The all-new Triumph 1300 with front-wheel drive.

This revolutionary car has 16 important benefits. The first eight are safety features:

1. "IMPACTOSCOPIC" collapsible steering column telescopes upon impact. And it adjusts 2 ways for maximum driving comfort.
2. Super-strong monocoque body construction of pre-stressed steel actually absorbs impact. (It's the same principle which is used in aircraft design.)
3. Recessed door handles and fold-away window winders. No sharp projections to catch clothing (or injure passengers in an accident!)
4. Childproof safety locks. When locks are set, rear doors can be opened only from the outside.
5. Protective padding on dashboard, armrests, parcel shelf, sun visors and seat backs.
6. Front disc brakes stop on a dime. They're self-adjusting, fade-free and unaffected by weather.
7. Daytime headlight flasher lets you flash your high beams in case of emergency.
8. Patented air-extraction system changes the air in the car every 3 minutes; keeps the rear window fog-free.
9. Front wheel drive eliminates the drive-shaft hump in the floor. It means faster, safer cornering, and gives excellent traction in mud and snow because the engine presses down on the drive wheels. And the 1300 turns completely in only 31 feet—easily the best in its class!

Engine & front assembly mounted in sub-frame

10. 61-hp engine whisks you to 50 mph in only 13 seconds; tops 85 mph where conditions permit.

Body by Michelotti of Italy

11. 4-wheel independent suspension soaks up the roughest bumps.
12. All-synchromesh 4-speed gearbox. Crisp, fingertip control makes shifting a real pleasure!
13. Full instrumentation includes fuel gauge, temperature gauge, ammeter, speedometer, trip meter, plus exclusive "all-systems-go" bank of warning lights.
14. Super-large Canadian-type heater with powerful booster fan.
15. 11-cubic-foot trunk has interior illumination.
16. Luxury throughout! Contoured front bucket seats in soft, breathable, 2-way stretch Ambla. Back seat with centre pull-down armrest. Armrests on all 4 doors. Wall-to-wall carpeting. Walnut trim on dash and doors.

Faster, safer cornering

We've thought of everything for your comfort and safety in the new Triumph 1300 sedan. See it for yourself at your nearest Triumph dealer.

'Stuff Floating Around'—But Reports Hearsay

Drug Story Rocks University Officials

By BILL STAVDAL

Surprised disbelief was voiced Thursday by University of Victoria officials following a report in the student newspaper that marijuana and LSD are being sold on campus.

The report was attributed to anonymous sources in a headline story in the student newspaper, The Martlet.

University president Malcolm Taylor said Thursday that he immediately notified the "proper authorities," meaning the police.

"The university will co-operate fully in any investigation they decide is necessary," said Dr. Taylor.

The Martlet story by editor Tim Glover said:

"Large quantities of marijuana and possibly LSD are circulating on the Gordon Head campus.

"There is so much of the stuff floating about the campus that it is a sure bet that somebody at your table in the Student Union Building cafe will have the stuff,' I was told by one student."

The editor quoted the nameless student as saying: "I think it is mostly marijuana, but I have heard that some LSD and possibly heroin is here."

PENALTY FOR 'POT'

Possession of marijuana carries a heavy penalty, but there is no law against having the hallucinogenic drug LSD.

Glover said he had heard of "at least two weekend 'pot' (marijuana) parties in the last 10 days. There are reports of many more."

He said in an interview Thursday that his information came from "personal knowledge and personal friends." Mr. Glover refused to name any of his informants.

He added that he knew of "more than 50" students who have smoked marijuana and four who have taken LSD.

FREE SAMPLES

Mr. Glover said there is an off-campus pedlar of marijuana in Victoria who lately has been giving free samples.

He also said in the interview that three Canadians who recently returned from California are selling marijuana.

Another student Martlet staff member who asked that his name not be used said he knew of 10 people either at university or on the fringes of university life who have smoked marijuana or taken LSD.

Saanich police Det.-Sgt. Robin Stewart said Thursday that the department had been receiving reports of marijuana on campus for about six months, and had been investigating them.

An RCMP spokesman said the force would investigate "any information that comes to us."

"I don't believe there has ever been a founded complaint (about marijuana) to date," he added.

Stephen Bigsby, president of the university student council, said:

"We would certainly co-operate with the authorities if we felt such allegations are substantially correct."

"COMPLETE SURPRISE"

He observed that the Martlet story suggested that use of drugs among the 3,500 students is widespread, and added that the report was based on "heresay and generalization."

"It comes as a complete surprise," said Dr. Taylor. He said he had talked that day with the dean of student affairs, the director of the university health service, the director of counselling, the co-ordinator of women's activities and the president of the student council.

"Not one of these has any evidence that drugs are being used or distributed on campus," he said.

REAL PROBLEM

"Nor had any of them previously heard these rumors, though they are in contact with the students daily."

He added:

"It's not possible for any of us to know the off-campus behavior of 3,500 students.

"The real problem for us is to decide how much credence to place in an article that is admittedly based on hearsay."

"AS YOU LEAVE . . ."

Dr. Taylor joked about the story Thursday evening as he introduced writer Pierre Berton to an audience in the Student Union Building.

He told several hundred people:

"I must warn you that as you leave, all the marijuana and LSD you have with you will be seized and sold to the highest bidder. The proceeds will go to the building fund."

Berton later added:

"There's a better story for university papers this year: 'No drugs on campus.'"

CHEVRIER RESIGNS U.K. POST

Chevrier

OTTAWA (CP) — Lionel Chevrier has resigned as Canadian high commissioner to Britain, Prime Minister Pearson announced Thursday.

He will take up a new post as commissioner general for state visits to Canada in 1967.

The Pearson announcement said Mr. Chevrier wanted to return to private life.

Unions Must Bring Forth Proof of Irresponsibility

PORT ALBERNI — Jim Spencer, vice-president of Local 592 of the International Brotherhood of Pulp Sulphite and Papermill Workers here says he is not surprised that Local 8 of the Canadian Union at Harmac did not manage to have the international Local 695 decertified.

"The only way the Canadian union can have the international decertified is to prove it is "an irresponsible body," Mr. Spencer explained.

"This is something they will never be able to do."

Mr. Spencer explained aspects of the Labor Relations Act which, he declares, Mr. Wickham, president of the Canadian local, has failed to make clear to his membership or to the public.

"Unless they can prove our union irresponsible, the Canadian local can only apply for decertification of the international during the 11th and 12th months of our contract year. This is what the Labor Relations Act states," Mr Spencer explained.

WAIT UNTIL MAY

"Just because they claim they have a majority of the members, this does not change the fact they can't apply again legally until next May or June," he said.

"I am not saying that the Labor Relations Act is just perfect, or that changes do not need to be made in some areas of it, but I do say that is how the act reads, and like it or lump it, it applies to us and it applies to them."

The international union has always acted in a responsible manner, Mr. Spencer contended.

HELD MEEETINGS

"Even after the breakaway by Local 8, Harmac 695 continued to represent the employees at Harmac. They kept on holding regular meetings, processed grievances, formed all the necessary committees for various negotiations and took care of all monies just as if nothing had happened."

Unless irresponsibility can be proved, the international can continue to represent Harmac legally, so long as a quorum can be formed, the union official said. Under present charter, a quorum consists of seven dues-paying members.

Which group actually has the largest dues-paying membership among the 800 or so Harmac employees?

"We know how many we have, and we can make a close guess as to how many the Canadian union has," Mr. Spencer said. "But right now I'd say there are about 450 men who aren't paying dues to either union. They're sitting on the fence, waiting to see the legal outcome of this battle."

Mr. Spencer said the international had represented Harmac employees since the mill's inception and that claims of international skullduggery were a smokescreen of nationalism.

"Majority of membership cannot be used as a gimmick to decertify our union during this interim period.

"Right or wrong, that's how the law of the land stands at this time. We have conformed to the laws of the Societies Act and of the Labor Relations Act.

TWO-YEAR PACT

"We have a two-year contract. They are welcome to try again . . . next May or June as the law provides."

Meat Boycott Target

By MARY TAYLOR

PORT ALBERNI — Alberni Valley housewives are being asked to join a boycott on meat in supermarkets starting today and sticking it out for a full week.

Mrs. Valerie Hill, who sparked formation of CRAG, the Consumer Research and Action Group, in the Albernis says she and her supporters intend to do everything possible to make the boycott effective.

★ ★ ★

Although Crags have had trouble getting into high gear locally, the young chairman says she is impressed with the backing the proposed "retreat on meat" is getting from other housewives.

The idea has snowballed in a most encouraging way, Mrs. Hill said.

The group does not plan any unusual activity to coincide with boycott "this time," she said.

★ ★ ★

"We are just relying on the sincerity of all those women who have said they are backing us," she stated.

Ucluelet Chief Dead

UCLUELET—One of the most highly thought of Indian fishermen on the West Coast passed away this week in the person of Charles McCarthy an hereditary chief of the Ucluelets. He was the only grandson of the Chief Wickaninnish for Wickaninnish Bay. Chief Wickaninnish was a principal chief of the Clayquots which comprised Opitsah Clayquots and Ucluelets. The late Charles McCarthy is survived by three sons and four daughters, 34 grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren; the eldest son, Alec McCarthy, chief of the Ucluelets; and two daughters, Mrs. Edith Severen and Mrs. Rose Coutts, who reside in Ucluelet. The rest of the family lives at Port Alberni. Funeral services will be held at Stevens Funeral Home, Port Alberni, at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, burial at Mountain View Cemetery, Port Alberni.

Truck Route

Harbor Ferry Urged

A resident of Victoria since 1891 has suggested to city council a ferry system in the Inner Harbor might alleviate heavy truck transport congestion in the downtown area.

In a letter to council, D. S. Hobbis, 349 Windermere, said trucks headed for Ogden Point from up-Island and Victoria West could be placed aboard ferries plying the Inner Harbor from a ramp on the old Sidney Roofing property to near the CPR docking area.

FREE TRANSPORT

Soon-to-be-retired B.C. ferries could be used for the purpose, providing free transport for the trucks, Mr. Hobbis said.

Such a move, Mr. Hobbis suggested, would cut down the amount of heavy traffic presently plowing through central downtown.

BETTER USE

City planner Geoffrey Greenhalgh said the idea was "intriguing," but that the money spent on the ramps might better be used at some future date for the start of a new bridge.

Victoria Food Prices Not Out of Line

Food prices in the Victoria area are "not out of line" a spokesman for the Consumers' Association of Canada's B.C. branch said Thursday—and no boycott of Greater Victoria food stores is planned.

Mrs. W. E. Rolls, provincial vice-president of the association, said a lot of the food cost to housewives "could be cut by good management."

Following an executive meeting Wednesday, local members of CAC stressed that prices could best be reduced by retailers by cutting out "questionable giveaways, trading stamps, gimmicks, contests, expensive and deceptive packaging and services."

"Prices in Victoria aren't too terribly out of line when compared with down east, or in the U.S.," Mrs. Rolls said.

She pointed out an imminent rail freight increase should add only a fraction of a cent to cost of goods per pound.

Exorbitant price hikes on this account should be held suspect, Mrs. Rolls said.

Scouts Win

For the second year in a row, Juan de Fuca Scouts have won the provincial commissioner's adventure award.

District Scoutmaster Robert Muir of Glen Lake, who led 36 Scouts on a summer hike, announced Thursday that the badges and certificates will be presented Wednesday night at Langford fire hall.

Moscow Found More Than Humor

The Russians Are Coming Wins Over Soviet Critic

By RAY KERR

Most Victorians who saw the movie The Russians Are Coming, The Russians Are Coming, which played here recently, must have got a chuckle or two out of it.

* * *

Cast of The Russians Are Coming, The Russians Are Coming includes Carl Reiner, Eva Marie Saint, Theodore Bikel, Brian Keith, Alan Arkin, Jonathan Winters, Paul Ford.

* * *

But what about a real Russian? How would he react to the film?

Favorably, judging by a review in Komsomolyskaya Pravda, the Communist organ in Moscow for young Russians. It was written by Vladimir Pozner of the Soviet's Novosti Press Agency.

Says Mr. Pozner:

"During the last century a famous Frenchman visited Russia. After a whirlwind trip — seven days in St. Petersburg, four in Moscow and a month on the road (travel was a leisurely thing in those days) — he went back to Paris where he acquired new fame by joining the select ranks of specialists on Russia. Perhaps they were then called Czarologists.

* * *

"Be that as it may, he published a much-discussed book on the slumbering northern giant, and virtually stunned readers by stating that, contrary to public opinion, Russians did not have horns or tails. He made other equally astounding affirmations, all true, and further enhanced his authority. At one point he depicted a highly poetic scene in which he exchanged friendly words with Russian muzhiks (peasants) while sitting in the "shade of a majestic kliukva tree."

* * *

"Now this is all good and well," says Mr. Pozner, "but to keep the record straight, the kliukva (Ozycoccus palustris) is not majestic. Nor, for that matter, is it a tree. It's a small bush, bearing red berries, and grows in swampy areas.

"Not wishing to bore you with botanics, let me simply say that our Russian specialist coined the expression "majestic kliukva" which has been used here ever since to describe faulty statements made by foreigners about Russia. Or, to use the vernacular, just plain bull."

Mr. Pozner is quick to point out, however, there's very little "majestic kliukva" in the American movie about the Russian submarine which gets temporarily stuck on a sandbar off an American island.

* * *

"This is a highly gratifying and praiseworthy fact, considering the overwhelming difficulties of making such a picture without even a single Soviet consultant. Some kliukva berries are obvious to a Soviet spectator, however.

"For instance, the way orders are given and answered on the Russian sub is wrong. They should be snappier, and words themselves don't correspond to those used in our navy. Nor are the uniforms quite right, especially the headgear. I counted four different types — twice as much as needed (one for officers, one for sailors).

* * *

"Then, of course, there's the problem of Russian per se," Mr. Pozner continues. "How would you get American actors to speak the language so that Russians can at least recognize it: The cast is to be commended, because their Russian is better than anything I could have expected. Just how one of them acquired a Georgina accent I'll never know.

* * *

Saint

* * *

Bikel

"Yet these are minor flaws. If anytring, they make the picture even funnier to a Soviet spectator.

"Humor is a strange thing — an international phenomenon with a national flavor. Probably the belly laugh is the one most widely shared by people. Such scenes as the one in which the old lady who runs the post office is bound and gagged and hung up on the wall, or the sequence which ends with the New York writer and the local telephone operator lying body-to-body on the sidewalk, or the Russian first mate getting caught half-in and half-out of a window. All these, and more, had the Russian audience (probably Americans and others, likewise), in hysterics," Mr. Pozner writes.

"However," Mr. Pozner adds, "I do not want to imply that The Russians Are Coming would be considered as only a comedy, and a very good one, by the average Soviet spectator. There are three key episodes which evoked a hartfelt response.

* * *

"One is that of the Russian sailor on the beach as he flings a stone toward the far-off horizon, crying: 'I don't want to hate anybody!' This true reflection of the average Soviet's feelings coincides with the way he has been brought up.

"Another is the human pyramid scene — a symbol the vast majority of my compatriots would be only too happy to see come true.

"The third is when the Soviet submarine is escorted out to sea by a small armada of American fishing boats, cutters, yachts, etc. At the private showing where I saw the movie the sophisticated audience reacted to this scene with unusual enthusiasm.

* * *

"Afterwards, a friend and art critic of repute said: 'That escort episode will go down in history as somethink on a par with the Odessa steps sequence in The Battleship Potyomkin.' There is no sense in discussing the relative merits of Eisenstein's masterpiece and The Russians Are Coming, but this emotional reaction — and I would qualify it as just that — is indicative of one Russian's feelings on the matter.

"The message of the picture is multiple and human, one to which we, as a people, are receptive. Here is how I, for one, read it. There are plenty of idiots, squares, trigger-happy ninnies. Okay. There always have been, there always will be, but they are a minority.

"Most of us are normal human beings, more prone to be friends than enemies, to love than to hate, people with basic sympathy for each other, with the belief that, in the long run, whatever the difficulties, we will be able to envisage a future devoid of the spectre of war.

* * *

"It's a nice thought, one that makes people feel good. And anything that contributes to that basic feeling of optimism is to be applauded.

"That is why I applaud The Russians Are Coming," Mr. Pozner concludes.

No Weak Ones Here

Giant anchor chains, among world's largest, were unloaded Thursday from freighter Canada at Esquimalt Graving Dock. Twenty of the 540-foot-long chains, with each link weighing 300 pounds are destined for use with floating oil drilling rig being built by Victoria Machinery Depot.

Mystery Mine Found

Tunnel, Shaft in Goldstream Unrecorded

By JACK FRY

Government biologists are baffled by a mystery mine discovered in Goldstream Park.

An old tunnel and an abandoned mine shaft, which may date back to the years preceding the 1864 gold rush to Leechtown, have been found on a hill in the provincial park north of Victoria.

The mysterious workings are being checked by Dr. Peter Eastwood, a field geologist in the provincial mines department.

No Clues

He has checked annual mining reports from 1939 back to 1919 without finding a clue, and admits it is possible he may never find any records at all.

Dr. Eastwood is convinced, however, that the workings must have been carried out in the search for gold. "There are quartz veins in outcrops around there, and if it were copper there would have to be some yellow copper mineral in the quartz," he said Thursday.

There are some old Crown-granted copper claims near Goldstream Park, on Mount Skirt, which is north of the eastern entrance to the park.

Copper Mines

Ronald McCrimmon, who will become B.C.'s chief gold commissioner Nov. 1, recalls that when he was a boy living at Langford Lake in the 1920s and early 1930s, he used to climb around some of the old copper mine tunnels on Mount Skirt.

Active copper mining operations were carried out in the Mount Skirt group between 1898 and 1902, and in 1924. Mr. McCrimmon said he used to find "peacock-colored copper ore" near these mines when he was a boy, but that he did not know of the existence of the mystery mine on the other side of the Trans-Canada Highway.

Dr. Eastwood said a 25-foot trench leading into a 55-foot-long tunnel, or adit, was recently found by Hugh Salmond, in the vicinity of a proposed nature trail through the park.

Dr. Eastwood visited the site and found tree roots growing right along the floor of the tunnel and into its face. He trudged around the hillside and soon found an old mine shaft with an opening about 3½ feet square.

He said he couldn't see how deep the shaft was, so he lay down on his stomach at the edge and tossed a pebble in. "From the time it took to hit bottom, I would guess it is at least 30 feet deep."

The geologist is now digging through old records, but he said, "I think eventually I'll have to take equipment out to go down that shaft and see if there is any mineralization to be seen.

"In some of these quartz veins in that country rock they've got traces of gold, and it is generally believed those veins were the origin of placer gold, but there has never been a lode gold mine on southern Vancouver Island," Dr. Eastwood said.

'End Jurisdictional Ping-Pong'

University Students Urge Single Control

By BILL STAVDAL

Spokesmen for B.C. university students today will urge Education Minister Peterson to demand from the federal government the responsibility and revenue to improve higher education.

The students are critical of "jurisdictional ping-pong" between Ottawa and the provinces.

The students also ask for a long-term "education blueprint" in a brief to be presented to the minister this morning.

THREE UNIVERSITIES

The joint brief will be given to Mr. Peterson in a meeting with Stephen Bigsby, president of the student council of the University of Victoria, and his counterparts Peter Braund of UBC and John Mynott of Simon Fraser University.

Mr. Peterson will attend the federal-provincial conference on financing of higher education in Canada, to be held in Ottawa Oct. 24-28.

"Students in British Columbia, like their counterparts in all Canadian provinces, have become increasingly dissatisfied with an arrangement of joint control which prevents either the federal or the provincial governments from accepting full responsibility for the financing of higher education," says the brief.

LARGER PROBLEM

". . . Such a system leads inevitably to an abrogation of responsibility and a policy of 'jurisdictional ping-pong' . . .

"The issues of education financing cannot be solved until we have overcome the larger problem of the definition of responsibility, and it is a question that we can no longer afford to evade," the joint brief says.

The students endorse the policy of the Canadian Union of Students.

REDUCED FEES

It says in part: "The federal government should surrender sufficient taxing powers to enable the provincial governments to fulfill their financial obligations in the field of education."

Besides pushing for a five-year education planning period, the students ask that B.C. begin reducing tuition fees beginning with abolition in the first year, as Newfoundland has done.

In speaking of "higher education" the student brief refers to universities, community colleges, nursing, technical and vocational schools.

Currant Event Marks Emily Week

Emily Carr's white currant bush has been found — appropriately on the eve of Emily Carr Week.

The bush was, throughout the famous B.C. artist's life, always something of a symbol to her.

★ ★ ★

She once wrote of the currants that if they "were just a wee bit clearer, then perhaps you could see them living inside."

—Robin Clarke

Langdon, Hoare hang Carr painting

The bush was discovered on the property of her old home at 207 Government — which was floodlit Thursday, and will be lighted each evening throughout the week given to her memory.

An exhibition of her paintings opened Thursday at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria.

Herman Voaden's play, Emily Carr, opens Wednesday at the McPherson Playhouse.

★ ★ ★

Finder of the bush was Victoria artist Emily Sartain, who came across it while her Victoria Horticultural Society volunteers spruced up the garden in front of the old home.

Over Lack of Machinery

Teachers Back Pupil Protest

Greater Victoria's industrial education teachers Thursday criticized the school district's failure to equip shops in time for the 1966-67 term.

It was a reply to district superintendent Joseph Chell, who earlier Thursday was reported as saying there was "really nothing" in reports of delay in getting power tools for new vocational wings.

A group of vocational students at Victoria high school Wednesday started an abortive protest against lack of equipment. They said they were forced to do nothing but theory while waiting for the machines to be installed.

Ross Regan, a teacher at Vic High, president of the local industrial education teachers' association and also president of the B.C. Shop Teachers' Association, issued a statement Thursday night. It carried the endorsation of the executive of the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association.

He noted that on Sept. 23 the Greater Victoria Industrial Education Teachers' Association passed a motion reading:

"That this association express dissatisfaction and concern over incomplete teaching areas in District 61 to the GVTA executive."

Mr. Regan's Thursday statement added:

"Pupils are forced to study extra theory to occupy the school time until the shops are completed.

'CAN'T BE ASSUMED'

"It cannot be assumed that they will be able to catch up on the practical work and thus they are being disadvantaged in this district."

"There are many delays, but few who will accept the responsibility, and meanwhile the pupils are not benefitting by this confusion," said Mr. Regan.

No Guides For Teachers

The British Columbia Teachers' Federation has complained to Education Minister Peterson that some curriculum guides were unavailable when school opened this year.

"Absolutely inexcusable," stormed the federation's director of professional development, W. V. Allester, in a letter to the minister.

"If a teacher does not get a guide, he either has to act on a hunch on what he should teach, or he starts teaching last year's course."

Complaints from several sectors of the province indicated some textbooks had been late in arriving at schools this year, the letter said.

Vintage Whaling Vessel Will Be Raised, Scrapped

By BOB PETHICK

The vintage whaling vessel Green, now lying on her side in Victoria harbor, will soon be no more—but her memory will linger on.

Possibly the last survivor of the once-great whaling fleet, she is to be refloated and sold for scrap. Her owner, crusty old sealing skipper, Max Lohbrunner, will donate the whaling gun on her bow, and her mast and crowsnest, to the Maritime Museum.

The aging, rusting vessel, which has been a part of Victoria's waterfront for years, gave up last April and settled to the bottom on her side.

NO PRESSURE

Since then the department of transport has wanted the hull removed. Authority to order the move lay in the second part of the Navigable Waters Protection Act, but no pressure was applied.

So now the Green lies on her side, slowly settling into the mud but in danger of slipping into the navigable channel when winter winds whip through the harbor. The crowsnest juts out of the water at an angle.

Thursday, Mr. Lohbrunner gave his consent for the Green to be moved, and department of transport officials heaved an unofficial sigh of relief. But they have promised that the raft covered with marine second-hand goods, and the little fishboat in which he lives, will remain.

ALL NOT LOST

So the harbor will lose a familiar mark, but Max won't have completely lost his pride and joy.

On days when he is feeling low he can always walk along to the Maritime Museum and see the harpoon gun, mast and crowsnest, suitably marked with plaques naming him as the donor.

Travers Freed By Assize Jury

An all-male assize jury deliberated from 11:35 a.m. Thursday until 3:10 p.m. before finding Sidney Allan Travers, 28, not guilty on a charge of breaking, entering and theft.

Mr. Justice F. C. Munroe began his charge to the jury at 10:35 a.m. and went to great pains to instruct the jury on the rules of circumstantial evidence and also on the doctrine of recent possession.

He also reviewed the cases of both the Crown and the defence.

He told the jurors that the evidence of identification should be reviewed with the greatest of care.

Travers was charged following the theft July 5, 1965, of a safe from Fairfield Pharmacy.

The Crown's case was based on the testimony of city Constable Peter Voth, who testified he saw the accused in the front seat of a station wagon which was later found to contain a safe stolen from the drug store.

Following their verdict on the first charge, the jury returned a verdict of not guilty on a possession charge, as directed by Mr. Justice Munroe.

'Liberals Gave Up Last Week'

Fast-Draw Berton Shoots Holes in Canadian Scenery

Shooting from the hip in all directions, Pierre Berton blew holes in almost everything Canadian Thursday night.

He punctured the federal government, the press, television, the education system, patriotism and the status quo in general before a responsive audience of 400 or more at the University of Victoria.

Mr. Berton, prolific writer and much-viewed TV broadcaster, returned to his alma mater to discuss contemporary Canada, what's wrong with it, how it's changing and what may become of the country.

The balding alumnus of Victoria's Monterey elementary school, Oak Bay High and the old Victoria College took most of his shots at the education system.

★ ★ ★

"When my two-year-old daughter reaches kindergarten she'll be a much more sophisticated girl than her mother was.

"She'll know Greek mythology because she saw Kirk Douglas playing Ulysses on television.

★ ★ ★

"She will know what the Brazilian jungle looks like. Ilya Kuriakin was down there two weeks ago.

"So what will she do when she goes to kindergarten? She'll color little pictures.

"When they teach her history in school they'll read a book and sometimes show her a still picture."

★ ★ ★

"But television could reproduce visually every incident of history.

"Why can't the best teachers talk to 20,000 students via TV?

"We havn't done it and we are scarcely starting to think about it."

But things are changing fast, he said. Half the population is under 25.

"The take-over generation is about to take over once again, and it's younger than ever before."

★ ★ ★

He said he sensed that the public response to the "Seven Days" TV controversy and the Stephen Truscott trial was symptomatic of unrest with the old ways of doing things. He added that the government and the papers and television had failed to sense the change.

"The reason people got so het up over Seven Days and the Truscott cases was because they felt involved."

★ ★ ★

Mr. Berton blasted traditional press coverage of election campaigns.

He said candidates go through a "ritual dance" of reading speeches before a handful of party faithful in empty halls so the press can cover a "pseudo event."

★ ★ ★

"The press doesn't even come, because they've been given a copy of the speech.

"But if I, as a candidate, speak to 1,000,000 people on television the press doesn't even cover it because it's just a TV program.

He advocated full-time television coverage of Parliament so anyone could tune in and see what's happening.

★ ★ ★

"I tell you they'd do a hell of a lot more than they're doing now," he said, drawing applause.

He attacked social cliches. Among them: "My country right or wrong."

"It's not good enough for someone to say to me: 'You're drafted. Go pour burning gasoline on that family.' That sort of thing went out with the Nuremburg trials.

"Adolf Eichmann used that excuse."

★ ★ ★

Censorship: "What bloody right has a city council telling me what I should or shouldn't read?"

And of Canada's future as a nation independent of the U.S. he said:

"I think Canadians have given up. The Liberal party gave up last week.

"As long as we won't pay more taxes for the privilege of being Canadians, we haven't much of a chance."

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is a thoracic surgeon. He has operated on hundreds of people whose lungs have been ravaged by cigarets. As you know, medical science has discovered a link between cigaret smoking and lung cancer.

We are very proud of our two teen-age daughters. They have been warned of the dangers of smoking and I doubt seriously they will ever take up the habit.

Both girls are popular. They go to many house parties and their friends seem to be level-headed and sensible. Drinking is not allowed at these parties since we parents have agreed to ban it.

Now my husband wants to impose an additional ban when these teen-agers come to our home — no smoking. He has explained that it is not a moral issue but a health issue.

Our daughters are unhappy about it and have let him know it. They feel that this rule will keep some of their friends away.

I do not want to challenge my husband's authority as head of the house, nor do I question his professional conclusions. But I DO question whether it is wise to impose our health standards on others. Will you express your opinion, please? — SURGEON's WIFE.

Dear Wife: If your husband were a teacher or a clergyman I would agree with you. The teen-agers would certainly interpret the cigaret ban as a moral issue in spite of his protestations and they would resent it — as well they might.

Since your husband is a surgeon, however, I feel that the ban against smoking in your home would serve as an effective reminder that cigarets can be deadly. A sensible teenager would not be resentful of the prohibition, he would be respectful — and perhaps even grateful. I say more power to your husband.

Dear Ann Landers: Who gives the wedding when the girl's parents are divorced?

My first husband (the father of the girl) wants to foot the bills, which is just fine with me. My present husband has never met my first husband and has no desire to meet him. He says he will not go.

I, on the other hand, dread the whole affair because my ex-husband's wife will be there and I despise her.

Our daughter doesn't care who gives the wedding or who attends. She is interested only in having the most elegant and glamorous affair possible. In other words she's selling out to the highest bidder. What do you think about this? — N.Y. MESS

Dear N.Y. Mess: Let the girl's father pay for the wedding. Leave your present husband at home. This is little enough to do for a girl who undoubtedly has shed many tears because her parents could not make it together.

Confidential to CAN'T FIGURE IT OUT: If you think that's a mystery, just how do you explain the phenomenon of a minister living on a salary fixed ten years ago and staying out of debt?

Confidential to CHANGE PICTURES — YOU LOOK LIKE A MONKEY: Thanks a lot. I'd rather look like a monkey than sound like a jackass. Your essay on what makes life worth living was the most asinine piece of tripe I've ever read.

Admiring the Saanich Diamond Jubilee Trophy and plaques to be played for in the Saanich Diamond Jubilee Bonspiel are Mrs. Rod Pratt, bonspiel chairman; Saanich Councillor Ed Lum, and Mrs. Paul Raike, president of Allans Ladies' Curling Club. The trophy and plaques were donated by the 1966 Saanich Diamond Jubilee Committee. The bonspiel will be held at Allans Curling Club Oct. 28, 29 and 30. It will be officially opened by Saanich Councillor William Campbell at 3:45 p.m., Oct. 28. Entries for the triple event will be accepted until 6 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 25.—(William A. Boucher)

Dryer Treasure To Career Girl

How would you like to have perfect drying weather every time you wash clothes? It's yours at the "turn of a dial" when you have an automatic clothes dryer.

Perfect drying weather is available morning, noon and night — anytime you care to wash. This is particularly appealing to the homemaker who doubles as a career girl. She never has to let the laundry pile up — can do a washing every night if she wishes. Clothes dry fluffy and fragrant — ready for ironing or wearing — perfect for storing, too.

There are many fabrics on the market today which are ideal for the automatic clothes dryer, and require no ironing when dried to specifications received when the article is bought. Many of the new knits can be dried beautifully in an automatic clothes dryer. Inquire when you buy as to drying instructions. When drying, remember to take the garment from the dryer when "just dry" and hang carefully on a hanger. This will prevent wrinkling so that the garment will require little or no ironing. What a saving in time, dry cleaning bills and clothing costs! You get much better mileage from your clothing because you can launder them yourself.

Fall Bazaar Raises $250 For LOBA

Victoria Purple Star, No. 104, Ladies Orange Benevolent Association held a successful fall bazaar and tea in the Douglas room of the Hudson's Bay store. The sum of $250 was realized. The affair was declared open by Miss Elizabeth Forbes, who was introduced by the Worthy Mistress, Mrs. L. Hamilton. Miss Forbes and Mrs. Hamilton were presented with corsages by Mrs. E. King who with Mrs. O. McKay were the joint conveners of the affair.

Many and varied were the stalls which were a hive of activity all afternoon. Mrs. B. Blevins was in receipt of customs. Mrs. H. Weeds and Mrs. J. Johnston with a capable committee were in charge of the afternoon tea; homecooking, Mrs. R. Alexander and Mrs. F. Smith; fancywork, Mrs. G. Davies and Mrs. E. Bousfield; aprons, Mrs. N. Wilson and Mrs. S. Patterson; novelties, Mrs. O. McKay; white elephant, Mrs. M. Joyce and Mrs. M. Townsend; Centennial Lavendar Lady, Mrs. M. Nice; doll raffle, Mrs. V. Keatley.

Mrs. T. H. Smith, at right, president of the Victoria Opti-Mrs., presented a $150 scholarship to Miss Constance Barloewen of 1551 Brooke Street. The presentation was made at a luncheon Wednesday at the Cranmore Road home of Mrs. John Robertson. Miss Barloewen is a 1966 graduate of Victoria Senior Secondary School and is at present enrolled at the University of Victoria.—(Kinsman)

Mother's Prayer Book For 'Something Old'

CHEMAINUS — All Saint's Church in Westholme, was the scene of a lovely autumn wedding when Reverend W. J. Hill performed the double-ring ceremony uniting in marriage, Elizabeth Anne, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Thornett, Chemainus, and Paul Gallagher, of Duncan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Gallagher, of Manchester, England.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. George McKay, and the church was decorated with chrysanthemums in white and autumn colors.

The dark-haired bride entered the church on her father's arm. Her peau de soie gown in traditional white, was fashioned in classic simplicity and featured an Empire waistline and lace-edged train which fell gracefully from the shoulders. Her chapel-length veil was held in place by a coronet of miniature flowers, and for "something old" she carried her mother's white satin prayer book encrusted with a floral spray.

Attending her sister as maid of honor was Miss Penny Thornett, who chose a gown of misty green silk styled after the bridal gown. She carried a spray of gold and bronze chrysanthemums and her headpiece was of matching flowers. The groom was supported by Mr. Travis Netley, as best man, and ushers were the bride's brother Mr. Alan Thornett, and Mr. James Irvine Jr.

★ ★ ★

Centre of attraction on the bride's table at reception in the Legion Hall was a three-tiered wedding cake, decorated in all-white by Mrs. T. C. Bolderston, and flanked by tall white tapers in crystal holders. Toast to the bride was given by Mr. Alan Hickman, of Victoria, uncle and also godfather of the bride. Mr. James Irvine Sr. was master of ceremonies.

For going away the bride donned a paisley dress in tones of turquoise and a beige turquoise top coat. Her accessories were beige. On their return the newlyweds will make their home in Duncan.

★ ★ ★

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Fjukstad, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Hickman, Mrs. Nellie Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Mac McCleod, Mr. and Mrs. T. Netley, Mr. and Mrs. David Goodacre, Mr. and Mrs. H. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. H. Jones, all of Victoria; and Mr. H. Kuufman, of Duncan; Mr. and Mrs. Ian Bruce, Mr. and Mrs. A. Doumont, and Mr. and Mrs. Alan Thornett, all of Nanaimo.

Calling All Graduates

The School of Nursing and the Nursing Division of the Alumni of the University of British Columbia are anxious to contact graduates of all programs.

Since the school began in 1921 there have been many changes and recently the UBC Senate has approved the addition of a Masters program.

To keep records complete the school would like information from graduates pertaining to their maiden and married names; recent address; year of graduation and program.

This information should be sent to: School of Nursing, c/o Miss Joan Funk, University of British Columbia, Vancouver, B.C.

Two Haunt Castle

Queen Mother Elizabeth Not Afraid of Ghosts

LONDON (UPI) — Queen Mother Elizabeth is a bit superstititous but she's not the least worried by ghosts — two of whom she has been happily living with this fall.

The plump and popular Queen Mother, 66, is vacationing this month at her 16th century castle of Mey, perched on the rocky cliffs of the wild north-east Scottish coast.

Although she was born in England and had an English mother, the queen mother considers herself a Scotswoman because her father, the 14th Earl of Strathmore, belonged to one of the greatest and oldest Scottish families. She spent her childhood summers at his Scottish ancestral home, storied Glamis Castle, scene of Shakespeare's "Macbeth."

Out on a trip one day she spotted the ruined castle of Mey, bought it in 1953, and transformed it into a gracious and comfortable retreat.

Mey is said to have two ghosts, one the betrayed daughter of an ancient earl who flung herself from the top of the wier, and the other a British soldier who shot himself there during the last war when the castle was a military guard post.

But that's all right with the Queen Mother. "There's plenty of room for us all," she says.

She does, however, pay heed to Scottish superstitions.

She owns a special coral necklace which she puts around the neck of each baby girl born into the royal family and that is for "highland good luck."

★ ★ ★

When she spends each New Year's Eve with the family at the royal Sandringham Estate in eastern England, she keeps to the Scottish superstition of sending the darkest man in the house outside just before midnight.

★ ★ ★

As the hour strikes, he must knock three times on the door to be let in, carrying coal and salt to ensure there is warmth and food for the next 12 months.

This ceremony takes place in darkness. At Sandringham they tell of the tale of how the Queen Mother once let in the darkest man and kissed him affectionately, under the impression it was her brother.

The footman was extremely surprised.

Princess Alexandra and husband, Angus Ogilvy, are pictured leaving their home in Richmond Park for their visit to Portugal, where they will be guests of the new British Ambassador in Lisbon, Sir Anthony Lambert. It is thought that Mr. Ogilvy will attend a meeting of a company that owns the Mozambique-Rhodesia Pipeline, of which Mr. Ogilvy is a director. — (Fednews photo)

Drugs Topic Oct. 24 Of Panel

Are you interested in The Use and Abuse of Drugs? This will be the subject of a panel discussion sponsored and organized by CAC at 7:30 p.m., Oct. 24, at the Forest Research Laboratory, 506 West Burnside Road.

Chairing the discussion will be Mr. J. Ross Elliot of the Food and Drug Directorate. Panel members will be Dr. T. G. Rose; Mrs. Peter Bunn, housewife; Mr. R. M. Duffett, president of Southern Vancouver Island Pharmaceutical Association.

This promises to be an interesting and rewarding evening and all members and friends of CAC are urged to attend. Members of the general public are cordially invited.

Prospects Improved, Still Problems

U.S., Russia Nearer Nuclear Spread Ban

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The United States and the Soviet Union said Thursday that prospects were improved for agreement on a treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons. Both also warned that substantial differences remained.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg and Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko made the statements in opening the annual disarmament debate in the assembly's 121-nation main political committee.

Goldberg said that substantial progress has been made in the 17-nation disarmament talks in Geneva. The U.S. also was encouraged by statements made by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko after his recent talks with President Johnson and State Secretary Rusk in Washington.

With that in mind Goldberg added that he was happy to inform the committee the U.S. and the Soviet Union "have agreed to take advantage of this new and more promising situation."

"We are engaged in a continuing and joint search for mutually acceptable ways of overcoming our remaining differences. Our discussions at this stage must of necessity be exploratory. They will not be easy since important differences remain."

In a similar manner Fedorenko said that some changes for the better could be discerned in prospects for agreement on the problem of non-proliferation of nuclear weapons. He said this was a "fact which we, of course, cannot but welcome."

It was plain from Fedorenko's speech that the Soviet Union considered West Germany's role in nuclear defence planning by the NATO powers as a major issue still to be resolved.

Space Show 'Routine'

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union launched two earth satellites Thursday in a show for leaders of eight Communist countries linked to the Kremlin in a space research agreement.

First to blast off from Baikonur, the Soviet space centre on the edge of the central Asian steppes, was No. 130 of the Cosmos series. It was part of a series, started March 16, 1962.

Several hours later the orbiting of a Molnyia satellite was announced. It is the fourth in a series of satellites that soar to almost 25,000 miles above the northern hemisphere to relay television and radio signals.

Communist sources said the leaders of Bulgaria, Cuba, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Hungary, Mongolia, Poland and Romania were at Baikonur with Soviet leaders. The space show was a high point of a gathering that, the sources said, included discussions of the Viet Nam war and China's refusal to co-operate on aid for Hanoi.

DID NOTHING SPECIAL

Some Communist sources had said the visiting leaders would be shown the first Soviet manned space venture since March, 1965. But the hosts stuck to apparently routine launchings of well-known types of non-military satellites, so far as the public announcements went.

Venturers Now Added To Scout Establishment

OTTAWA (CP)— Officials of the Boy Scouts of Canada announced Thursday that scout-cub training programs will be split into four new divisions Jan. 1 in the largest reorganization of the association's 60-year history.

Behind the change, affecting some 280,000 boys between eight and 17 years, is formal creation of the new Venturer Scout Division for senior boys aged 14 to 17.

The Venturer program already has attracted some 10,000 boys on an ad hoc basis. One scout official estimates that within a year membership will near 25,000.

GROUP NARROWED

The Boy Scout Division, long the best known, will have its present 100,000-member age group narrowed to 11-13 years from 11-17.

Purpose of the change is to develop programs for specific age groups, thereby providing better training.

The age for wolf cubs, largest of the four divisions with some 170,000 members, will be narrowed to boys of eight to 10 years, from the present age limit of 11.

The only program to remain essentially unchanged is Rover scouting, for the 17-23 age group.

The Venturer program was 2½ years in planning to check the high drop-out rate among Boy Scouts in their mid-teens. The new program has a built-in latitude covering major interest areas of the age group.

One scout official said activities of Venturer groups are limited only by the resources of the communities within their reach and by their own imagination.

Venturers will be encouraged to show leadership and initiative in adult activities and to meet adult standards.

The program, to be initiated on an 18-month trial, then reassessed, will include its own dress uniform but allow individual groups to select uniforms which suit their activities.

Leaders will be advisers primarily, leaving operations and decisions to the groups, part of the design to earn them adult recognition and prepare them for adult living.

'Not Me'–Staley

Minister of Labor 'Playing Politics'

B.C. Federation of Labor president E. T. Staley of Victoria expressed complete disagreement Thursday with Education and Labor Minister Leslie Peterson's analysis of the school construction program.

"Mr. Peterson is playing politics, not me," he said.

"The school construction program was curtailed by the department of education," Mr. Staley said in reply to Mr. Peterson's published statement that Mr. Staley had been talking nonsense in criticizing the holdup in school construction.

SHOULD BE LAST

"I think the minister and provincial government should be the last persons to criticize honest union people for political hacking," he said.

"Mr. Bennett, Mr. Peterson and their colleagues have just been through an active election campaign in which they praised the province's financial condition. Now, one month later, they are warning us of dire problems, the province's tottery financial condition and the need for retrenchment.

LIKE TO KNOW

"If that is not political manoeuvring, I would like to know what it is," he said.

Mr. Staley said the carpenters' union, involved in a strike-lockout this year, recognized the importance of school construction and made it possible for it to continue.

He said he feels Mr. Peterson has shown less interest than the union in seeing the schools' program is continued.

"Mr. Peterson's present actions are a mockery after the concern he displayed over the strike," he said.

Mr. Staley added:

"I feel the young people of today must receive the best possible education or they will lose out on tomorrow."

He deprecated the shelving of plans for a vocational school in Vancouver.

MORE IMPORTANT

"We must build schools. I feel schools are more important than developing the hydro power of two rivers," he added. "One would have been enough."

Thursday morning, Mr. Peterson said of Mr. Staley's Wednesday accusation that he had used duplicity against the carpenters' union: "Mr. Staley is talking a lot of nonsense and in his non-political moments he knows it."

IVORY TOWER

Mr. Peterson said the province spent $35,000,000 in the first nine months of this year on construction of schools, compared with $25,000,000 last year and $15,000,000 the year before.

"If Mr. Staley is at all close to the scene at the grass roots level and not sitting in an ivory tower in a union office he would have known this," Mr. Peterson said.

'Still Mad'

Barron's, Bennett At It Again

Premier Bennett and the weekly Wall Street financial paper, Barron's, are at it again.

The conservative publication said Monday that Premier Bennett's new austerity measures were made in an effort to get more money for public power projects, and that the change apparently marks an end to the economic boom in this province.

But the premier retorted, on his way to a morning cabinet meeting, that Barron's is still mad about the provincial takeover of the B.C. Electric Company in 1961.

'MORE LIQUID'

"B.C. is in its best financial position ever, and is more liquid than any other government," said the premier, adding that provincial money has kept the banking system going here.

"Instead of owing the banks money, they owe us $100,000,000." "If we hadn't been doing this, money would be a lot tighter than it is."

OPTIMISTIC

Mr. Bennett said money fed into the banking system during the tight-money period meant a lot of people would benefit from having this $100,000,000 in circulation.

He said he was optimistic about the future of this province, but that a mild recession could be avoided here if restraint was imposed at this time.

Float Bill Jumps $900 —Aldermen Won't Pay

Sending the city float to the Portland Rose Festival in June cost $1,779 — $879 more than estimated, aldermen were told Friday. They balked at payment.

Members of the city council finance committee were also told that when the float got to the American city it was found that it was not provided with plastic flowers. It was necessary to buy fresh blooms for decoration. They cost $700.

It was decided that the committee chairman, Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, and Ald. Percy Frampton would take the matter up with the executive of the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association which sponsored the appearance of the float along with "Miss Victoria" in the Portland parade.

"I sure don't think we should go along with this," said Ald. Clyde Savage referring to a celebrations association request that the city reimburse the association.

MAXIMUM COST

"As I recall it we were told that the maximum expenditure for all this would be $900. We should spend no more than that of city funds. If they wanted more than the $900 they should have asked for it at the time,' Ald. Savage said.

"Well it seems they got to Portland with the float and found they didn't have any plastic flowers so they had to go out and buy $700 worth of fresh ones," said Ald. Percy Frampton.

Scouts Plan Bottle Drive

A bottle drive will be held Saturday by the 2nd Douglas Scout Troop and the 4th Cedar Hill Troop. The Douglas Troop drive will be from 10 a.m. on, and the Cedar Hill drive from 10 a.m. to noon.

Oak Bay Setting For Sailing Races

Sailing races are to be held Sundays at Oak Bay Marina during the winter, a new sailing committee has announced.

R. V. James, 25 Wellington, himself a member of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club, said official races have been slated for this Sunday and again on Nov. 20, Dec. 11, Jan. 29, Feb. 19 and March 19.

Already, 30 boats will likely be entered in the first races at 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

"These, and others, are boats that have been laid up during winter prior to this. We expect a good turnout each weekend — and especially for the official races," said Mr. James.

A full sheet of instructions and information on the proposed races has been prepared, Mr. James said.

Races will be held in Oak Bay off the marina, making use of existing marks and islands. they will be sailed under CYC rules.

Byelection Coming

Ground Rules Spelled Out For Bonner

Bonner

The stage was set Thursday for the forthcoming byelection for Attorney-General Robert Bonner, who was defeated in Vancouver Point Grey on Sept. 12 — although Premier Bennett made no announcement about where or when it would be held.

Thursday was return day, for the Sept. 12 election writ, when the government was given another five-year term until Oct. 20, 1971, and when the 55 winners of the provincial election officially became members of the 28th Legislative Assembly which will hold its first regular session in January.

Fred Hurley, B.C.'s Chief Electoral Officer, will soon send a certificate to deputy provincial secretary L. J. Wallace, giving the names of the 33 Social Credit members, 16 New Democrats and six Liberals which are to be entered in journals of the House on opening day.

IN WRITING

Any Socred MLA stepping down to make room for Mr. Bonner will now have to submit a written resignation to two other MLAs, who will then notify the cabinet.

A cabinet order would then be passed stating that a vacancy exists and a byelection should be called on a certain date.

Mr. Hurley will then issue a writ, similar to those which came in Thursday from the 48 ridings throughout B.C., advising the returning officer that a byelection is to be held.

SEVEN DAYS

The voters list for that particular riding will have to be open for at least seven clear days after the writ is issued, and then there must be at least 14 clear days before a nomination day is held.

The actual byelection would probably take place about one month after issuance of the writ for the byelection.

Premier Bennett has said that a byelection will be held for the attorney-general but as of Thursday it was still a closely guarded secret in which riding it will be held.

Grant Boosted

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver Art Gallery Association won a $9,295 increase in its annual grant Tuesday by unanimous vote of city council, bringing the gallery's total 1966 grant to $84,285.

Beach Menace

Bottling Firms Facing Action

Recreation and Conservation Minister Kiernan figures he'll have to get tough with the soft drink bottling industry.

He said Thursday his earlier warnings against the use of throw-away bottles had little effect, and that he is now thinking of drafting some regulations to recommend to cabinet.

The problem with throw-away bottles is that they get thrown away, littering parks and beaches with dangerous broken glass.

Mr. Kiernan said more no-refund bottles are appearing on the market in B.C., and unless something is done, the breweries might follow the example set by the soft-drink companies.

8 CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our relatives and many friends and neighbors for the kindness and expressions of sympathy received by us during the illness and loss of a loving wife, mother and grandmother. Special thanks to Dr. Oscar Lucas, the nurses and staff of Royal Jubilee Hospital and to Rev. R. J. Morris for his words of consolation.—Mr. James Loudoun and family.

I wish to thank ever so sincerely the friends who sent kind messages and beautiful floral arrangements in the recent loss of my dear husband, Ted. Special thanks to Dr. R. C. Smith, Dr. N. Mellor, nursing staff of 2nd Royal, Royal Jubilee Hospital, and the pallbearers. — Margaret Barnes.

SERVING VICTORIA FOR OVER 60 YEARS

SECLUDED COTTAGE
LOVELY LAKE VIEW
$6,500

In spotless condition, this 3-bedroom home stands on a private roadway close to the Trans-Canada Highway with unobstructed view of Langford Lake and the Sooke Hills. Additional attractions are a well built cabin on the property suitable for children, and an area of over half an acre thus QUALIFYING FOR VLA financing. So, for the retired veteran, or for the young family looking for an inexpensive home and special setting, this is the chance of a lifetime. Being close to the highway you will be able to drive into town in 20 minutes yet have all the pleasures of country living. The price is set for a quick sale FOR CASH, as the owners have bought another house. This is really an opportunity for someone who appreciates seclusion and the peaceful view of lake and hills against the sunset. The house is small but in tip-top condition; drive-in garage in basement; lovely little front garden and your own wooded hillside in rear for youngsters to play. For further details and appointment to view please contact J. R. Ford, 384-1363 or 383-3411. If no reply,

Compleat Angler Adds Three

Big Ones Needed for Buttons In King Fisherman Contest

To win Colonist King Fisherman Prince Buttons for fish caught in September it took a 14.12-pound coho, a 30.7-pound spring (chinook) salmon, a 45.8-pound tyee, a 2.5-pound lake trout, a 1.12 bass and a 2.0-pound river trout.

King Fisherman Compleat Angler Sid Upton captured three gold buttons, for his contest-leading 6.8 bass and 17.8-pound steelhead and for a 4.10 trout, other than steelhead or rainbow.

Prince Buttons are awarded for the heaviest 25 fish each month in each of the three salmon categories and for the 15 heaviest fish in each of the three freshwater categories, with five of the river trout crests reserved for river trout other than steelhead or rainbow. In September only five steelhead were weighed into the contest, so the smaller trout win more buttons.

ONE EACH

Only one Prince Button may be won each year in each category, except for gold-plated Prince Buttons which are awarded for the heaviest fish, regardless to the number of other buttons an angler may have won.

Prince Button winners for September:

King Fisherman

Steelhead Hunt May Net Tyee

Anglers who are fishing for steelhead in the Stamp and Somass Rivers are running into some exciting tyee fishing.

John Skroda using a T-Spoon and 12-pound test line hooked and landed a 58.2-pound tyee in the Stamp Falls area.

Simon De Waal was spinning in the vicinity of the paper mill dam on the Somass, also with T-Spoon and 12-pound test line, and hooked and landed a 47-pounder.

But there isn't any need to wait until they are in the rivers. Bright fresh tyee and coho are being taken in the early mornings down the Alberni Inlet off China Creek and in Underwood Cove.

No Effect on Prices

Food Buying 'Dull' Without Gimmicks

OTTAWA (CP)—A vice-president of Loblaw's said Thursday that abolishing supermarket give-aways would take all the romance out of grocery shopping and do nothing to lower prices.

The money now spent on premium stamps, lucky draws for free automobiles and sales gimmicks like free chinaware brings more customers into the stores and helps boost sales. If such promotions were outlawed, supermarkets would have to spend the money on other forms of advertising.

The result, said George Meech, vice-president and secretary-treasurer of Loblaw Groceterias Co. Ltd., would be to denude shopping of its attractiveness.

"How dull it would be for the housewife to go into a store and see nothing but the merchandise of the farmer on display. We'd loose all the romance out of life."

Mr. Meech stated his view before the joint committee of the Commons and Senate on consumer prices, and though committee members laughed at his statement, he said it with only a slight smile.

Flanked by a score of Loblaw executives, Mr. Meech said advertising and sales promotion is essential to the supermarket chains.

THE BACKBONE

"Newspapers are the backbone of our advertising."

Max Saltsman (NDP—Waterloo North) asked whether advertisement of trading stamps and lucky prize draws added to the cost of food items.

Mr. Meech agreed they were gimmicks, "a product of the fertile imagination of merchandisers to get ahead of their competitors."

"Many of the merchandisers would like to see them abandoned, but a lot of people are anxious to play games — it has become a part of our way of life."

NOT AFFECTED

Later, Mr. Meech said that if sales promotion gimmicks were outlawed or regulated, so that all competitors would have to drop them, Loblaw Groceterias would be happy. But he insisted they do not add to food prices.

The Loblaw witnesses said their firm, substantially owned by the George Weston interests and in turn owning majority interest in National Tea Co. in the U.S. and several subsidiaries in Canada, is a colossus in wholesaling, distributing, processing and other lines of food work in addition to retailing.

TWO PER CENT

Retailing in Canada amounted to more than $611,000,000, last year, but this was only a quarter of the whole enterprise's sales. And profit on the retailing was less than two per cent.

Mr. Meech said that as a result of hearing testimony of other supermarkets, the Loblaw organization plans to increase the number of its own brands of products it sells in competition with nationally-advertised brands. Loblaw's main private brands have been tea, coffee, peanut butter and sausages.

USUALLY LOWER

The private brands are produced either by the supermarket chain itself or by one of the existing large food processors. They are given prominent spots on Loblaw shelves, but are not advertised elsewhere than in Loblaw advertisements. Prices are usually substantially below national brand prices.

Walter J. Kraft, right, Vancouver, chairman of Canada Safeway, Ltd., told Commons-Senate committee on living costs Thursday that a high profit "does not mean in any way that prices are too high," Going over figures with him are John A. MacAuley, left, Winnipeg, Safeway vice-president and committee co-chairman Ron Basford, Vancouver.—(CP)

Deceptive Packaging Now Against Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill intended to protect shoppers against unfair or deceptive methods of packaging and labeling consumer goods has cleared Congress after five years of effort.

But the two senators most responsible for its passage, Senators Philip Hart (Dem. Mich.) and Warren Magnuson (Dem. Wash.), do not see eye to eye on it.

Congressional action was completed Wednesday with Senate acceptance of what virtually was the version the House of Representatives insisted on rather than the bill the Senate originally passed.

Magnuson, chairman of the Senate commerce committee, said he agreed to the House version with great reluctance. But, he told the Senate, the only alternative was to have no bill at all.

In contrast, Hart said he regarded the House bill as "actually stronger than the Senate's." He was the author and chief sponsor of the Senate bill.

Federal Taxes Boost Drugs

OTTAWA (CP)—Bryce Mackasey (L — Montreal Verdun) said Thursday the federal government could lower the costs of drugs by 10 per cent by abolishing its sales tax on such products.

Mr. Mackasey, parliamentary secretary to Labor Minister Nicholson, made the remark as the Commons special committee on drug prices ended five hours of questioning officials from the Switzerland-based drug company, Hoffman-Laroche Ltd.

Mr. Mackasey said MPs were "beating their brains out" trying to get lower drug prices for Canadians.

The government now could save them $1 of every $10 they spend on drugs.

EXTRA PRICE

Replying to a question from Mr. Mackasey, Hoffman - Laroche accountant C. A. Nowolney said a $4.50 item his company sells to a druggist carries an additional 50 cents for the federal tax.

Mr. Nowolney said the same item would have a retail price of $10 since this was the "usual markup."

Mr. Mackasey said that without the federal tax, the item would sell at wholesale at $4.50 and carry a $9.00 retail price.

NO ASSURANCE

Dr. Harry Harley (L—Halton) said there was no assurance that lifting the federal tax would result in such a saving.

Mr. Mackasey asked whether a committee chaired by Dr. Harley two years ago hadn't made such a recommendation. Mr. Harley said it had not.

The company suggested drug prices could be lowered by changing patent laws to protect new discoveries.

Woman Speaks Up

Bad Shopping Habits One Reason For Rising Prices

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — While 20 housewives picketed a downtown supermarket Thursday, the city's only female alderman was blaming the high cost of food on women's bad shopping habits.

The protest march on a Dominion Store on Queen Street in the business section will accomplish nothing, predicted Alderman Vera Falldien, herself a housewife.

"It's up to the individual to be careful about what she buys," she said in an interview.

'DON'T BUY IT'

"If steak is too expensive, then don't buy it — our family can't afford it.

"Last week one type of meat was selling at $1.29 a pound. I bought a cheaper cut at 69 cents. If you cook it right, it's just as nutritious."

Price would drop if all women followed a practice of individually boycotting expensive items.

MOVE CRITICIZED

Wilf Hussey, manager of the Sault Ste. Marie Chamber of Commerce, also criticized the housewives' protest.

"If they are going to picket at all, they should picket as many stores as possible at the same time. Indirectly, picketing one store gives it a bad name. People will automatically think this store is the worst offender."

Mrs. Joseph Kilbride, organizer of the protest, said the store manager already had called her to ask why his store had been chosen.

GOOD LOCATION

"I told him it wasn't because we didn't like his store, but because the downtown location would attract more attention."

The 20 housewives arrived at 4 p.m. and planned to stay until it closed at 10 p.m. The protest was to continue daily until Saturday evening.

WILL HIT OTHERS

Next week, Mrs. Kilbride said, the women intend to picket other stores.

Mrs. Falldien said women who demand bonuses with purchases help keep prices high.

She also criticzed women who do not plan their shopping and their meals in advance.

Mrs. Kilbride was asked what her family would do for food while she is out picketing.

"I still have to look through the newspaper and pick out the specials. If the store isn't too far away then I'll do my shopping wherever I get the best deal."

1866...A very good Year

A very good year for the Crown Colonies on the Island and the Mainland, which joined together to become the province of British Columbia. Undoubtedly, a good deal of toasting went on. And undoubtedly, a good deal of toasting will mark B.C.'s 100th birthday. To honor the occasion, Andres introduce Richelieu – the aristocracy of wines – specially set aside for Centennial celebrations. Sherries, aperitif and golden cream; rich full bodied Burgundy and crisp Riesling; Champagnes bubbling with excitement.

Garden Notes

Fruit Tree Time

By M. V. CHESNUT

Late October and early November is just about the best time of the year to plant or transplant the stone fruit trees such as peach, plum, cherry, apricot and the nectarine — which is actually just a fuzzless peach. They could go in with reasonable prospect of success any time through the early winter or in early spring, but it seems to me they always get away to a better start when the planting is done just around the time of leaf-fall.

Many of our peach trees hereabouts are planted against a wall facing south, southwest or west in order to protect the very early blossoms from frost. Or, to be a little more accurate, to shade the frosted blossoms from the morning eastern sun and give them a chance to thaw out slowly. Because the wall is for protection from early morning sun rather than from frost, a west wall is actually better than one facing due south.

In planting these trees against a wall, one very common mistake is to put them in too close to the wall. Such a position is usually very dry, and often the soil is too alkaline from excess lime given off by the stucco wall and concrete foundation. Two feet should be the minimum distance between the roots and the wall, and three feet would be better. The topgrowth can be trained in closer, and in fact it SHOULD be pulled in under the overhang of the roof, for protection from drip in this way tends to prevent leaf-curl disease. The roots, however, should be well out.

Any trees planted too close may be moved now, preferably before the leaves have fallen. If the soil is enriched in the new site, the tree should crop next summer at least as heavily as before, and the following year it should show a dramatic improvement.

Young peach and apricot trees, both wall-trained and in the open, will often grow too vigorously, particularly on rich soil, making lots of branch growth but little in the way of blossoms or fruit. Such trees are greatly benefitted by transplanting now, even if you just dig them up and bung them right back in the same hole. This is often a routine operation in commercial peach orchards, with the young trees being taken up and transplanted every second year until a satisfactory balance is achieved between branch growth and fruit production.

This is really a form of root pruning. In digging up the tree, thousands of the tiny invisible root hairs are torn away, causing considerable shock to the tree. It reacts to this shock almost as if it were apprehensive of death, and in a frantic effort to perpetuate the race before it is too late, it rushes into the production of blossoms and fruit. The pits or seeds are the tree's "children," and its link with posterity.

This trick—scaring the living daylights out of a plant to make it bloom—has a wide application in gardening. This is why starving a geranium or potting it in a container just a little too small for comfort will often cause it to push out flower buds. I am convinced, too, that African violets treated with offhand neglect will almost always bloom more freely than those given constant mothering.

The reverse holds true, too. We go to a lot of trouble to keep lettuce, spinch, celery and onions happy and contented, for the last thing in the world we want is to see them bloom and go to seed; rough treatment or a good scare would have this effect.

ERMA BOMBECK Discusses Divorce

Extreme Cruelty Relative

Three-fourths of the divorces in the United States are granted on the basis of "extreme cruelty." Yet, the first 10 women I asked were at a loss to define what "extreme cruelty" meant.

One said she thought it was "aggravation that was beyond aspirin." Another said, "It's a nicer name than the other reasons for getting a divorce." A third one said, "Whatever it is, Fred's got it!"

★ ★ ★

When I approached an attorney, he snapped, "Extreme cruelty is when a woman is being a woman." When pressed to look up the definition in a law book it came out. "Conduct calculated to destroy the peace of mind or happiness of a married couple."

In any event, the solemn vow, "TO LOVE AND TO CHERISH FROM THIS DAY FORWARD," takes quite a beating each year from this calculated conduct. . . . Here are some actual stories of extreme cruelty clipped from newspapers.

"FOR BETTER OR FOR WORSE" . . . "She brought a poodle to our marriage bed." "Men used to insult me at parties and my husband refused to resent the insults." "I told Harry he could pick his boat or me. He picked the boat!" "She harassed me after we separated. She painted the windshield of my car black, poured glue between the window and the door and painted the headlights pink."

"FOR RICHER OR FOR POORER" . . . "He spent a fortune on guppies. Filled up the house with them and paid more attention to them than to me." "She sat around the house with her Phi Beta Kappa key around her dirty neck. I had to clean the house when I came home from work." "He stole tips from tables in restaurants." "I had to keep detailed ledgers telling where every penny of my allowance went." "We've been married 15 years and I still have to pay my half of the utilities."

★ ★ ★

"IN SICKNESS AND IN HEALTH" . . . "I didn't know he was a nudist until I married him." "He took an entire valise of pills and medicine bottles on our honeymoon. He even had pills to take so he could stand me!" "He dressed in the closet." "He fed the children wine." "He resented my first husband and broke the dentures my first husband had paid for."

"TILL DEATH US DO PART" . . . "She was always faking a suicide scene so that I'd walk in on it when I got home from work." "When I was sick in the hospital she sent me records every day . . . funeral dirges." "The bum went out for pizza five years ago and never came back."

★ ★ ★

The inventiveness of the reasons for dissolving a marriage could fill this newspaper, but would serve no great purpose. They're only entertaining when they don't apply to you. Instead, I prefer to end on a positive note . . . another newspaper clipping of a couple who had spent 50 years of married life together.

When asked to what they attributed their success as a team, the husband answered carefully, "We've learned to search for things in each other to love, and to tolerate all the rest."

They probably put up with "extreme cruelties" in their time, and just didn't know what to call it.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

First Came Fourth

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — I have just received a translation of an interview given by Xavier Cugat, in Madrid with his 21-year-old bride, Charo, in which he stated that he considered this marriage his first because the three previous nuptials were to women of a different religion than his. A bit late, isn't he? He also stated that Spanish mothers-in-law are not as bossy as Jewish mothers-in-law—he's had lots of experience with the latter. It happens that I have spoken with Cugat at the beginning of each of his last three marriages, and each time he berated the previous wife and everything connected with her. I have a feeling that the cute and energetic Charo will prove a match for her going-on-70 husband.

Joan Crawford, who can give Cugat almost 10 years, was happy — and says so — in her last marriage with the late soft-drink tycoon, Alfred Steele. She was staying in London, where she is starring in Circus of Blood, that she is lonely and would like to marry again. Most career women are lonely, and most — not all — would like to marry again.

★ ★ ★

Anna Magnani's movie career is picking up again after an unexpected lull. Her newest film is called Made in Italy, with Virna Lisi and Catherine Spaak.

★ ★ ★

George Hamilton telephoned me just before he took off for Europe for three months with his Jack of Diamonds movie. We made a date to have tea, lunch or dinner in Paris or Munich. I have a hunch — and George did not tell me this — that I will be beaten to the date by Lynda Bird Johnson. Her job with McCall's magazine is for part-time only, and in any case there should be some good stories for her to write about the young people of London, Paris — and Munich. I still believe the engagement will be announced at Christmas, if not before.

★ ★ ★

Richard Johnson has been a busy boy romantically since Kim Novak spurned his attempt at a reconciliation. First he was swooning for pretty publicist Pat Newcombe. Then it was the turn of British socialite actress Suzannah Leigh. It all got so complicated that the good-looking actor took off for Yugoslavia to make a movie. Suzannah was so disappointed when the labor guilds here said no to another co-starring role with Elvis Presley, in Easy Come, Easy Go. It seems that enough American girls were available.

★ ★ ★

It would be an important event if Marlon Brando returned to the theatre. Well, someone in Mort Gottlieb's office — he co-produced The Killing of Sister George — was sure that the boss was meeting with Jonathan Miller to discuss the direction of Gottlieb's play, Come Live With Me, for Broadway. And that Miller has signed Brando for a London stage appearance in The Old Glory. Fascinating, if true.

★ ★ ★

Georgy Girl, the far-out and quite naughty comedy starring James Mason and Lynn Redgrave, was the first movie to be approved under the new Jack Valenti code. Under the old code they had requested four cuts. While they were arguing, the new code came into being. Moral: When things are not going your way, stall.

★ ★ ★

It is not often I am caught napping, but I should have realized that Warren Beatty was planning to have Faye Dunaway co-star with him in Bonnie and Clyde when he asked me casually, about two months ago, "What do you think of her?" I thought he meant to be his girl—not his co-star. Of course, she could be both.

★ ★ ★

Robert Goulet took in 15 cities in three days, by chartered jet, to tell the people about his Brigadoon special. At the end of the promotion marathon, the bemused Robert took a shower and wondered why it felt different. He had forgotten to remove his clothes. He is now back in his California home—resting.

★ ★ ★

Max Schell is going almost plebeian in the romance department. The attractive European star who formerly beaued ex-Queen Soraya is now seeing a great deal of Countess di Bartoa, Italian, beautiful, but not royalty . . . Mary Tyler Moore and her dogs, used to the wide open spaces of California, were somewhat confused by the traffic in New York while she was rehearsing for Holly Golightly. Now that she is on the road with the show, Mary has put her canines in a New York dog training school so they will know how to beat the lights and stay in one piece. . . . The name of the movie starring The Rolling Stones is titled Back, Behind and in Front. "It sounds," says Mick Jagger of the group, "like the character in 'Marat/Sade' who showed his rear to the audience."

Talking about your fat can help you get rid of it. . . . Researchers found that group discussions among dieters did more than durg therapy to cause them to lose weight.

SAANICH ORDERS 'DABBLING' PROBE

By JOHN MATTERS

Saanich council has ordered a public inquiry into suggestions that some of its assessor's department employees have dabbled in real estate in the municipality.

The probe will be conducted by the provincial government into the activities of members of Saanich's assessment department who incorporated a company called Royal Oak Estates Ltd. in January, 1965.

Reeve Hugh Curtis wouldn't say Thursday night just who was involved in the company. There are approximately 10 employees in the assessor's department.

★ ★ ★

A statement from council said:

"As a result of its investigations, council believes that no wrongdoing was intended but that the activities of the employees have been ill-advised and, in the interests of Saanich and of the employees concerned, feels that an investigation by an independent body would be advisable."

Reeve Curtis said no members of council were involved with the company and at no time, to his knowledge, has council had any business with the firm on such questions as rezoning.

★ ★ ★

At least three secret meetings of Saanich council have been held this week to discuss the issue.

At a special session Wednesday night, council heard from two members of the assessment department and "were relieved to learn that the land transactions undertaken by this company since its incorporation almost two years ago have apparently been restricted to purchase

CHEVRIER RESIGNS U.K. POST

OTTAWA (CP) — Lionel Chevrier has resigned as Canadian high commissioner to Britain, Prime Minister Pearson announced Thursday.

He will take up a new post as commissioner general for state visits to Canada in 1967.

The Pearson announcement said Mr. Chevrier wanted to return to private life.

Tory Ranks Split

OTTAWA (CP)—A split opened in Conservative ranks in the Commons Thursday as the medical care debate continued for the sixth straight day.

Two former members of the Diefenbaker cabinet from Alberta became the first Conservatives to announce that they will vote against second reading—approval in principle—of the government's medical insurance plan.

Former defence minister Douglas Harkness and former veterans' minister Marcel Lambert said they favor some form of medical insurance, but not the four criteria in the Liberal legislation.

VOTES FOR

At the same time, Dr. Lewis Brand (PC — Saskatoon) announced that he will vote for the bill, even though he was concerned about serious shortages of medical personnel and facilities.

Several other Conservative speakers said previously they would vote for second reading of the government measure. The 21 New Democrats and the five Social Credit MPs also have promised to back the bill.

MOVE DEFEATED

A Conservative amendment that would have, in effect, killed the Liberal plan and urged a far different one, was defeated 125 to 68.

The Conservatives were alone in support of the amendment.

Johnson Applauds Australia's Help

From AP-Reuters

CANBERRA—President Johnson and Australian Prime Minister Harold Holt agreed today the troops allied with South Viet Nam have barred a military victory for North Viet Nam and should press ahead militarily "until a satisfactory settlement could be negotiated."

"Fighting could only end when it was clear that the great issues at stake had been secured," the leaders said in a joint statement.

The communique was issued after Johnson's main, two-hour meeting with the Australian government leadership.

Looking forward to the seven-country Manila summit conference on Viet Nam next week, "in the light of the improved military outlook, items connected with peaceful economic and social development would be examined in some detail."

ECONOMIC PROBLEMS

The two emphasized the urgency of bringing about conditions favorable to rapid economic and social advance and they commended recent initiatives by Asian countries for cooperation among themselves in the economic and political fields.

The Southeast Asia conference dominated the private discussion at the Australian capital.

Then Johnson went on Australian radio and television to call for a concerted effort of diverse countries to work together for the future of Asia. He also said success in Viet Nam will result because other countries have joined in the fight against a common enemy.

Earlier, the president had paid a special tribute to Aus-

Rampage Mere Warmup

TOKYO (UPI) — More than 2,000 leftist students Thursday rampaged through Tokyo, clashing with police in a "warm up" demonstration for a nationwide strike today to protest U.S. policies in Viet Nam.

First reports said 25 policemen were injured and 16 students arrested for resisting and obstructing police.

Junior Summit Begins

NEW DELHI (UPI) The leaders of India, Yugoslavia and Egypt assembld Thursday for a non-aligned summit meeting aimed at possible Viet Nam peace moves and bridging differences between the east and west power blocs.

Yugoslavia's president Tito flew in with a 30-man delegation and Egyptian President Nasser's plane landed seven hours later with an 80-member retinue. Their three-day conference with Indian Premier Indira Gandhi starts today.

Pre-Season Talks Open

MANILA (UPI) — Foreign ministers taking part in next week's seven-nation Viet Nam summit conference were en route to Manila today for private policy discussions on sensitive issues confronting the heads of state attending the Manila talks.

Snow Brushes Island

Winter's chilly breath nipped the high spots on Vancouver Island when snow was reported Thursday at various points.

A slight snowfall which quickly disappeared from the ground was reported at Kelsey Bay, about 50 miles north of Campbell River.

The snow on Mount Arrowsmith's summit is plainly visible from Port Alberni, six miles away.

Mount Benson, near Nanaimo, received a slight blanketing which mostly disappeared in Thursday's rain.

Snow was also reported on the hills around Duncan.

The first snow showers of the season accompanied by thunder moved into the Vancouver area Thursday afternoon.

The weather office says cool Pacific air will give showers to most of the province today.

Lower Prices, Big Volume Give Safeway Bigger Profit

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada Safeway Ltd. brought the most impressive profit record along with it Thursday as the fifth and last food chain to appear before the Senate-Commons committee on living costs.

Safeway said it reaped 2.56 cents on every dollar of its sales through Western Canada last year, a tidy profit as low-margin supermarket operations go. (See also Page 35.)

Did this indicate Safeway prices are higher than they might be? asked committee counsel John Urie.

★ ★ ★

Not at all, returned Safeway Secretary D. C. McGavin. It represented a picture of a low-price company, winning big volume business and efficiently employing the turnover to save money.

Earnings of other chains reported this week have all been below the Safeway mark. Steinberg's Ltd. reported 1.9 per cent on total sales, Loblaws Groceterias Co. Ltd. 1,92, Dominion Stores Ltd. 2.07, and A and P 2.34.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Urie said his curiosity was piqued by the record of Safeway's parent company in the United States, Safeway Stores Inc. The parent last year made a net profit of 1.6 per cent on sales of close to $3,000,000,000.

Walter J. Kraft, chairman of Canada Safeway, said he considers this return too low.

Bobbies Boo Boss

LONDON (AP)—Roy Jenkins, Labor home secretary in charge of Britain's law enforcement agencies, went to a meeting with London bobbies Thursday night—and got roundly booed.

Jenkins, known for his liberal reforming ideals, addressed 1,500 members of the London Police Federation. As he rose to talk, policemen jeered and booed him.

Then 300 bobbies walked out, protesting that the government had failed to meet demands for higher pay.

The bobbies also criticized Jenkins for defending the abolition of capital punishment.

Judge Quashes Deportation

'White Racist Mentality Exposed'

WINNIPEG (CP) — The chief justice of Manitoba Court of Queen's Bench, tongue-lashing the federal immigration department for betraying fundamental justice, quashed a deportation order Thursday against a West Indian.

Chief Justice G. E. Tritschler said in a 76-page judgment that the department did not give a fair hearing to Duphlal (Harry) Goolia, who arrived in 1963 to take ar. electrician's course.

The chief justice said "a provocative spirit" was shown by a special inquiry officer, Alfred E. Brooks, during an inquiry in July, 1965. The deportation order was served Aug. 12.

He added that Mr. Goolia was asked his marital status when the inquiry opened and replied: "Single."

Question: "Have you ever been married?"

Answer: "No."

Question: "Are you the father of any children?"

"The last was a grossly insulting question," the chief justice said.

"It exposes the mentality of some white racists who attribute to non-whites an abnormal laxity in sexual behavior. In the circumstances of the case, it was irrelevant and unnecessary.

"Possible solicitude on the part of the special inquiry officer for any bastards the applicant may have fathered, need not detain us. This opening must have been upsetting to the applicant who, according to the evidence, was a decent-living person not wanting for character references from people of good repute."

"Fighting could only end when it was clear that the great issues at stake had been secured," the leaders said in a joint statement.

The communique was issued after Johnson's main, two-hour meeting with the Australian government leadership.

Looking forward to the seven-country Manila summit conference on Viet Nam next week, "in the light of the improved military outlook, items connected with peaceful economic and social development would be examined in some detail."

ECONOMIC PROBLEMS

The two emphasized the urgency of bringing about conditions favorable to rapid economic and social advance and they commended recent initiatives by Asian countries for cooperation among themselves in the economic and political fields.

The Southeast Asia conference dominated the private discussion at the Australian capital.

Then Johnson went on Australian radio and television to call for a concerted effort of diverse countries to work together for the future of Asia. He also said success in Viet Nam will result because other countries have joined in the fight against a common enemy.

Earlier, the president had paid a special tribute to Aus-

VANCOUVER (CP)—A strike of non-operating employees was formally ended Thursday and within hours the first train over the Pacific Great Eastern railway line since Sept. 26 was on its way from the north.

Bathe with Her for $4,000

Real Lords Cost More

DALLAS (UPI) — Neiman-Marcus has come up with its usual sla shed-to-the-bone specials for Christmas, including his and hers bathtubs with gold-plated fixtures and everything mentioned in the ballad, "The 12 Days of Christmas."

★ ★ ★

The bathtubs go for $4,000, plus freight, installation and tax.

All the items in "The 12 Days of Christmas" come for $1,771.50, "subject to local taxes, delivery and handling charges, local union rates and the extravagance of your gesture."

For instance, a spokesman said, if a customer insists on genuine "twelve lords of leaping," that would run the cost up.

★ ★ ★

If the buyer settles for 12 male dancers, $1,771.50 would still be in the ball park.

The twin bathtubs come in white or six "decorator colors" and have 24-carat gold plated fittings with French rose scrollwork.

★ ★ ★

"Twin bathtubs, side by side, into which both can jump at the same time, go right on discussing that late party or exchanging early morning plans for the day," rhapsodized a description in the book.

"The 12 Days of Christmas also calls for a partridge in a pear tree, two turtle doves, three French hens, four blackbirds, five gold rings, six geese a-laying, seven swans a-swimming, eight maids a-milking, 10 drummers drumming and 11 ladies dancing.

★ ★ ★

"There are no reservations about this," a spokesman said. "If somebody insisted on real English lords, it would give us a problem, but we could arrange it."

Albertans Split on Fluoride

Sunday Sports Winner

EDMONTON (CP)—Four Alberta cities split 2-2 on the question of fluoridation and a number of communities approved Sunday sport in Wednesday's province-wide civic elections.

Enabling legislation passed at the last session of the legislature requires incoming councils to enact bylaws instituting fluoridation or Sunday sport if either issue is approved by a majority of the voters.

FLUORIDE MOVE

Previously, the legislature had required approval by two-thirds of the electorate before allowing a community to add sodium fluoride to its water supply. There had been no previous provincial legislation permitting Sunday sport although some municipal plebiscites in recent years have favored it.

The cities of Edmonton and Drumheller supported fluoridation in Wednesday's voting while Calgary and Camrose were opposed. Edmonton, Calgary, Red Deer and several other centres favored Sunday sport, which was a winner wherever it appeared on the ballot.

FIFTH-TIME WIN

Edmontonians, voting for the fifth time on fluoridation, approved it by a margin of 71,618 to 46,255, a majority of 63.32 per cent. In Calgary, where the question was on the ballot for the third time, it was rejected by a vote of 40,706 to 33,923.

The Sunday sport bylaw, approved by substantial majorities in a dozen communities, permits operators to charge admission for a number of specified sports including football, hockey, baseball and golf between 1:30 and 6 p.m. Still specifically barred are horse and dog racing, boxing and wrestling.

Voters Return Big Julie

EDMONTON (CP)—Big Julie didn't head the poll after all but she'll be throwing her considerable weight in the deliberations of Edmonton city council for another two years.

When the computer sputtered through the first flood of returns Wednesday night, Mrs. Julia Kiniski was leading the field of 44 aspirants for 12 council seats, to the joy of all advocates of color in civic politics.

The 67-year-old founder of the Civic Rights League, mother of six children including professional wrestler Gene Kiniski and one-woman welfare agency, was seeking her third term as an alderman after 11 stormy but unsuccessful efforts to get elected.

"I've heard so much malarkey about so many candidates that I don't even trust myself any more," she complained during this year's campaign.

★ ★ ★

The voters trusted her — not to the extent of keeping her on top of the poll, but with enough support for a respectable third-place finish and two more years of battling "those wolves in sheep's clothing who are taking the taxpayers to the cleaners while they fill their pockets with gold."

★ ★ ★

The only other woman on the new council, in marked contrast to the tempestous Mrs. Kiniski, is Una Maclean Evans, soft-spoken former president of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women and wife of columnist Art Evans of the Edmonton Journal.

Six other sitting aldermen besides Mrs. Kiniski were re-elected while a seventh, Kathleen McCallum, barely failed to make it.

The other holdovers were Dr. Morris Weinlos, who headed the poll for the second time in a row; Leslie Bodie, former mayor of East Kildonan, Man.; Ivor Dent, Frank Edwards, Ed Leger and Angus McGugan.

Other newcomers besides Mrs. Evans were James Bateman, Cec Purves, Neil Crawford and Reg Easton, who preciously served on the council between 1957 and 1959.

Strangler Strikes

CINCINNATI (UPI) — An elderly woman was found murdered in her first-floor flat Thursday night and police in this fear-struck city said she appeared to have been the latest victim of the Cincinnati strangler.

The victim was identified as Mrs. Rose Winstel, 81.

Vandalism, Boycott Spur School Dispute

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Two fire bombings Thursday extended Oakland's racial disorders into a third straight day while an argument raged over whether a school boycott was to blame for them.

The strict attorney said it was that the boycott promoters were "professional agitators" who placed themselves open to prosecution.

A boycott leader called this intimidation.

The superintendent of schools also blamed the boycott, called Wednesday for three days to protest the quality of Negro education.

But City Manager Jerome Keithley and Police Chief Robert Preston both said Thursday they saw no connection between vandalism and the boycott.

They All Respect Steelers

Victoria Steelers may be the only winless club in the Pacific Football League but none of their five rivals takes them lightly and all are hoping that it won't be them when the Steelers finally get everything put together.

It could happen on Saturday at Macdonald Park, where the Steelers meet Portland Thunderbirds at 2 p.m. in the third of their five home games.

Steelers were not certain last night just how many of their ex-B.C. Lions would be available but they said that lineman Gary Schwetfeger and flanker Ron Morris would be here and they had hopes that fullback Nub Beamer and end Jerry Janes would be able to make it.

SOME PROBLEMS

Even without Beamer and Janes and with Pete Ohler not likely to start at quarterback, the Steelers have a backfield which poses a few problems for the opposition. Major Lincoln, Bill Taylor and Jim Pannell are among the most dangerous runners in the league and Morris, who can tote the ball, has been an outstanding pass-catching threat.

Thunderbirds, 3-3 for the season and 31-9 over Edmonds in their last game, are managed by Frank Leahy, Jr., and coached by Tom Hughes, a Notre Dame alumnus. They are big, actually huge in many areas, and experienced.

On offence, they are led by quarterback Charlie Ganter, a 200-pounder from Oregon Tech. Ganter can call on Mike Calvert, a 220-pound fullback from Pacific University, and Sam Owens, a 228-pound halfback from University of Oregon, to do the running and some pass-catching.

MAIN TARGETS

Main pass targets are Warren Woodwarth, ex-Oregon State flanker, and ends Ron Hasse from Lewis and Clark College and Bob Wendell of Pacific U.

Getting to Ganter could be troublesome. His tackles are 265-pound Jim Wiley from University of Michigan and 253-pound Carl Banker from Brigham Young University. At guard are two other huskies, Chuck Withers and Mike Claboe.

Thunderbirds are even bulkier on defence, where the tackles are 272-pound Carl Reehl from University of Nebraska and 255-pound Gene Grosse from University of Southern California and the ends are 260-pound Bill Schade, once with Dallas Cowboys of the NFL, and 232-pound Denny Schweitzer of Linfield College.

Don Heldt, a 230-pounder who was with Denver Broncos of the AFL, and 196-pound Joe Rainwater from Linfield and 230-pound Charlie Leech from Pacific U are the linebackers and the Thunderbirds have speed and size in the defence backfield.

An Outstanding Quintet

Island Champions To Play Mainland

Winner of the Vancouver Island Juvenile Football League playoffs will get a chance for official recognition as provincial champions this year.

The provincial final, between the Island winners and the Mainland champions, will be played at Macdonald Park the afternoon of Nov. 11. The first provincial playoff has been sanctioned by the Canadian Football Union through the B.C. Amateur Football Association.

Meanwhile, it will take four games to decide the Island champion in a playoff which starts Sunday with two semi-final games.

League-champion Farmer's Construction will meet Nanaimo Redmen in one sudden-death semi-final at Carnarvon Park and Victoria Hornets play Cowichan Timbermen in the other at Duncan. Game time in each case is 2 p.m.

Lacrosse Kings Feted

It was "awards night" for the Victoria Minor Lacrosse Association last night, and 265 youngsters showed up at the Britannia Branch, Canadian League, Hall on Blanshard Street for the trophy presentations, the goodies and an interest-holding performance by magician Owen Fowler, who donated his services for the evening.

Among the youngsters attending were members of four provincial championship teams — Saanich Tykes and Pee Wees, Victoria City from the novice division, and McDonald's Bakery, the B.C. bantam kings. M & M Home Service received the Victoria Sporting Goods Trophy as Vancouver Island winners.

★ ★ ★

Awards to outstanding players went to Jim Boyd (Tyks), Johnny Podiedzielnik (novice), Bruce Newman (pee wees), John Hamilton (bantams) and Tom Somner (midgets).

Other awards were: Terry Bower and Dwayne Ferguson, most improved and best rookie in the novice division; Norm Baker, Jr., and Kim Bowles, top scorer and most improved in the pee wee division; Jim Lynch, Paul Scott and Ricky Baker, high scorer, most sportsmanlike and most improved, respectively, in the bantam division, and Mike Beaulac, Al Lister and Bill Utterson, high scorer, most sportsmanlike and most improved, respectively, in the midget division.

WHL, AHL Could Veto

Brewer Given NHL's Blessing

NEW YORK (CP)—President Clarence Campbell said Thursday night the National Hockey League has reached a formula that will permit Carl Brewer to join Canada's national hockey team, if the American and Western hockey leagues agree to it.

Campbell declined to say how long it will take to put the formula into effect. He also refused to say what the formula is.

"We consider it is a fair and acceptable arrangement and we'll have to put it up to the other leagues."

He said after a meeting of the six NHL governors that the league has drafted a "revised concept of voluntary retirement" to cover this and future cases of players who, while still good enough to play professional hockey, want to leave it for the amateur ranks.

NEEDS APPROVAL

"This will require presentation to the two big minor professional leagues for their concurrence. Uniform action is needed because under the existing rules, all professional teams must waive their rights to a player before he can apply for reinstatement as an amateur."

Campbell seemed optimistic that the minor leagues will accept the proposed formula for dealing with Brewer, a Toronto Maple Leaf defence star for many years before his suspension in the fall of 1965, and with similar cases that may arise.

UNANIMOUS

As for the six NHL clubs, he said. "They are unanimously agreed that if the concurrence of the American and Western leagues is gained, they are prepared to put it into effect."

How soon might this be?

"It could take months. It could possibly be done in two or three days if you got all the right people in the right place at the right time.

"It may take a fair amount of explanation and persuasion to adopt the formula we would like to have adopted."

"No minor-league club will be able to get Brewer. You can dismiss that as something that won't happen. The motivation of any minor team opposing this arrangement would, therefore, have to be something other than the expectation that Brewer will play for it."

Asked whether the NHL clubs had any sentiment about helping Canada's national team, Campbell said, "I think Montreal and Toronto may conceivably have, but I can't think of any reason why the four teams based in the United States should have."

Canada's national team has two international tournaments during the Christmas - New Year's holiday period, the Walter Brown Trophy competition in Colorado Springs, Colo., and the confederation centennial tournament in Winnipeg. Then there will be the world championship in Vienna in March. Canada hasn't won the world title since 1961.

Campbell admitted that had it not been for the 28-year-old Brewer's rejection of professional hockey and his wish to play for the Canadian national amateur team, the NHL governors wouldn't have considered a new formula.

Leafs Lineup Set for Totems

There'll be no lineup changes for Victoria Maple Leafs tonight when they go after an extension on their unbeaten and unscored-on record in Seattle against the Totems.

Rightwinger Mike Labadie and rookie-centre Mike Laughton, both on the injured list, won't make the trip.

OPERATION

Labadie had his infected elbow operated on yesterday and it will be about two weeks before he will be able to play. Laughton, nursing strained knee ligaments, showed up for practice yesterday wearing a brace but was told to take a rest until his injury had time to heal. It is expected he will be able to resume workouts next week.

GET JUMP

Tonight's game is the only road game for the Leafs until Nov. 6, when they start a five-game road trip in Portland. They then play two games in Los Angeles and two in Oakland before returning home for their first go against Vancouver Canucks on Nov. 16.

With seven of their first eight games at Memorial Arena, where they had a 24-6-2 record last season, the Leafs are faced with a great chance to get a jump in their bid for a Western Hockey League championship.

They got away to a fine start with 2-0 and 5-0 shutouts over Oakland Seals and Portland Buckaroos, probably their top two rivals.

After tonight's game, they come home to test the strengthened San Diego Gulls tomorrow night and again on Wednesday. Then it's the Los Angeles Blades, Seattle and Oakland before that second road game.

Hockey Draft Ruled Unjust

QUEBEC (CP)—Gerald Martineau, president of Quebec Aces of the American Hockey League, says the proposed universal draft agreement between the National Hockey League and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association is an "injustice" and a "sellout to the Americans."

Martineau was attacking the pro-amateur draft which will come into effect next June, after ratification by the two bodies.

JUNIOR PLAYERS

The proposed universal draft will allow the expanded 12-team NHL six team choice or a total of 72 amateur players no longer eligible for junior hockey.

The nine-team AHL will pick up 27 players, or three per club. The seven teams in the Western Hockey League will each pick three and the Central Pro League and any subsequent development league which may be organized will have two choices per team.

POOL TALENT

"It is important to note that of all the major teams allowed to choose in this pool of talent, only two of them are Canadian—Toronto and Montreal," he said in a statement.

In calling for government legislation against the proposed agreement, Martineau said he regrets the throught that "this so - called agreement benefits only the American clubs, especially in view of NHL expansion."

Horne Sets Record

Esquimalt High School swimmers set two new records Thursday in the annual inter-house swim gala at the Crystal Gardens.

Marilyn Horne won the open 50-yard breaststroke in 37.5 seconds to better the old record of 42.0 set last year by Janice Denniston. Judy Vessey trimmed three seconds off the novice 50-yard backstroke with a time of 43.0.

DOUBLE WINNERS

Double winners, in the open 50-yard backstroke and free-style events, were Lynn Grossman and Ray Stewart.

Who Loses Femininity Asks Women Golfers

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Don't tell the girls competing in the women's world golf team championship here they lose their feminity when they take up tournament golf. You may get a golf ball rammed down your throat.

"Certainly, we hear it all the time," said statuesque, blonde Marina Ragher of Italy. "I think it is ridiculous. If we weren't playing golf, we would be playing tennis, water-skiing or doing something else.

BEAUTY QUEENS

Miss Ragher and her Italian team-mate, Marion Tadini, in their 20s have been encouraged by friends to enter the Miss Universe contest.

Gayle Harvey Moore, a young, brown-eyed teacher who has trouble getting her high school male students in Vancouver to concentrate on books doesn't think golf makes her masculine.

"I think a girl is naturally feminie or she isn't," explained the attractive Mrs. Moore.

"Golf has nothing to do with it. You see a lot of girls who play golf all their lives who never lose their feminie grace and appeal."

Welts Gives U.S. Lead

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Ann Quast Welts, a Mt. Vernon, Wash., housewife, playing with a borrowed driver and a museum putter, fired a one under-par 71 to give the United States a one-stroke lead over Italy in the first round of women's world amateur golf championship Thursday.

Mrs. Welts' score, bracketed with a 74 by Mrs. Theodore Boddie of Shreveport, La., gave the Americans a team total of 145.

VIEWS of SPORT

By Red Smith

A sign hanging high in St. Louis's Busch Memorial Stadium read "Judgment Day," but it was in the wrong ball park. It was Yankee Stadium where Armageddon was fought, and after five false starts the forces of good (pronounced Allie Sherman) prevailed.

In Houston, the Oilers squashed Joe Namath like a bug, but their 24-0 conquest of the Jets only salved wounds opened by Namath and his accomplices in that 52-13 hog-killing in Shea Stadium a month ago. It still left Sonny Werblin's capitalistic crew leading the American Football League's Eastern candidates for a slice of the melon Sen. Ev Dirksen has grown in Congressman Manny Celler's backyard.

While Giants were butting heads with Redskins, Cowboys tangling with Cardinals and Namath was fleeing for his life before the Houston rushers, a bigger competition than any of these was going on. Within the next year or two, the lifting of pro football's traditional television blackout figures to have much farther-reaching effects on the business than any team's success or failure on the field.

In New York, for example, two ordinary teams were meeting in a game almost totally devoid of significance.

At the same time, however, Metropolitan TV screens were showing the two biggest games of the season this far, St. Louis-Dallas and Jets-Oilers.

Dance of the Dial

Does anybody seriously believe this competition won't affect gate receipts as time goes on? When winter comes and fans come to realize how much more they can get at home — bigger games and solid comfort — will they still tear their pants putting money down so they can suffer?

To be sure, most American homes are soon going to need at least two TV sets, for a man trying to keep abreast of two games with only one screen needs sharper reflexes than a corner back covering Bob Hayes.

There was no problem through the first half of the St. Louis-Dallas offering, which started at 2 p.m. Viewers could sit still watching Danny Villanueva send the Cowboys off in front with a 17-yard field goal, and life was still free of distractions when the Cardinals finally took a 7-3 lead on Charley Johnson's pass to Bobby Joe Conrad.

Then it was 3:30 and the dance of the dial began. On channel 4, the Jets kicked off and Houston's John Henry Johnson got loose, putting the Oilers in front, 7-0.

By this time the second half had started on Channel 2. Dallas was moving. Snap went the dial, and here was Curt Gowdy remarking that Ernie Ladd hadn't yet appeared in the Houston defence. Namath missed with a third-down pass, allowing time for a quick gander at that other network.

This time it was St. Louis moving against Dallas. ckie Smith made a fine catch to get the Cardinals in tou..down range.

Day of Judgment

Click. Oops, Namath slipped trying to throw and Johnny Baker, a Houston linebacker, intercepted on the Jets' 40. Things were beginning to blur.

With less than a yard to go for a Cardinal first down, St. Louis fans chanted, "Go for it" but instead Bakken came in and got a 10-10 tie with a goal from the 27. Better stay with this one now until it's over.

In punt formation on fourth down, Villanueva "caught the Cardinals not thinking at all" (Jack Drees), made a first down running. Charley Johnson completed three passes in a row and called on Bakken to win it all with a 42-yard place-kick. Bakken missed.

From there on it was easy again, with all the action on Channel 4. It could be a tough season, though. When you have to jump up and reach for the dial after every other play, the legs go first.

Helicopter-Carrying Tuna Ships

Yarrows Awarded $4,400,000 Contract

Yarrows Limited has been awarded a $4,400,000 contract to build two helicopter-carrying tuna-fishing ships, the biggest ever built on this coast. The announcement was made Wednesday in Victoria by Dan Scoular, marine director of Atlantic Sugar Refineries Co. Ltd., which will operate the vessels off the west coast of South America.

The Victoria yard now is building a $2,100,000 oceanographic ship for the federal department of mines and technical surveys. The yard was low bidder on a $2,500,000 fisheries protection vessel for the west coast, but no contract has yet been awarded.

OTHER WORK

Other work includes two 7,800-ton flat-deck barges with unloading equipment for Vancouver Tug Boat Co. (one has been sublet to Burrard Dry Dock Co., North Vancouver) and other barge orders are under negotiation.

Yarrows' payroll now stands at 650 men and is expected to rise to 1,000 in the next six months.

First of the two large combination trawler-seiners for Atlantic Sugar is now under construction at Yarrows. Designed in Holland, the ships will be of a radically different type with engines aft and fish cargo hold forward.

1,000 TONS

The 200-foot vessels will hold 1,000 tons of fish and will use a new fast-freezing fish storage process.

They will be based at St. Stephen, N.B.

The vessels will carry helicopters to spot schools of fish. The ships will carry crews of 19 men and will be away from their base for two to three months at a time.

The ships are part of a fleet of five now being built to supply the first wholly integrated tuna cannery in Canada, at St. Stephen, N.B. The other vessels are being built in a Montreal shipyard.

The factory is a subsidiary of the sugar company. Another subsidiary, a groundfish plant to prepare frozen fresh fish, is being established in Marytown, Nfld., and 10 trawlers now are being built in the east to supply it.

The vessels to be built by Yarrows, the J. H. Gairdner and the E. H. Gennis, are to be delivered in the late summer and fall of next year.

Srikes, Slow Orders

Vocational Wings Lack Machinery

Greater Victoria School District is having severe problems gettting the machines it needs to equip modern new vocational wings, school officials said Wednesday.

* * *

Strikes and the inability of busy manufacturers to fill orders on time are the main causes, said A. J. Longmore, assistant district superintendent.

A planned protest by dissatisfied vocational students at Victoria high school fizzled without action Wednesday. A group of students had announced they would picket the school to protest lack of power tools, some of which have arrived but are inactive.

* * *

The school administration said some electrical parts on the English-made machines did not meet B.C. Electrical Code standards, and had to be replaced.

"Some of our suppliers are unable to cope with the demand for their products," said principal Duncan Lorimer.

Stewart Gibson, supervisor of industrial education, said steel shapers ordered from England last February were promised for August. But at last word, they were to leave the U.K. in November, he said.

* * *

The school district is now building six major vocational additions under a federal-provincial agreement by which the district pays only 10 per cent of the capital cost. The agreement says they must be completed by the end of March, 1967.

A report delivered to the school board Monday said all but one—at Esquimalt senior secondary school—would be finished on time.

About-Face Charged

Education Minister Peterson has done an about-face on the question of school building, the president of the B.C. Federation of Labor charged Wednesday night.

T. T. Staley told a meeting of Victoria Labor Council that during the carpenters' lockout the minister said new school buildings were urgently needed.

"Suddenly, after all this great concern, and after the dispute was settled, the department announced it wanted to curtail school construction in this province.

"This is a real damned mockery."

Mr. Staley commented after a letter from the Vancouver Island Construction Trades Council was read to the meeting. The organization said it was "alarmed" about the cutback and hoped the edict wouldn't apply to vocational schools.

Bitter Winter Anticipated

A long, hot summer on British Columbia's labor scene will be followed by a "very bitter winter," Ray Haynes, secretary-treasurer of the B.C Federation of Labor, predicted in Victoria Wednesday night.

Speaking to Victoria Labor Council he said the trouble involving unions in B.C. this year has been forecast for years and he blamed most of it on ex parte injunctions.

Mr. Haynes explained that an ex parte injunction is one issued by a judge without the defendant being present to explain or defend his stand.

B.C.'s laws were unlike those of the United States, he said, where there is virtually no restriction on ordinary picketing. Even then, obtaining an injunction is an elaborate process which takes place in open court, with the presence of witnesses and evidence which shows the company suffers irreparable damage.

"In B.C. the use of injunctions has brought the courts into disrepute," said Mr. Haynes, adding that of the 280 injunctions sought between 1956 and 1965, 225 were granted ex parte.

This summer, two groups of unionists — longshoremen and six who picketed outside the Lenkurt plant — were sent to jail for disobeying ex parte orders.

DEFENCE FUND

He said such injunctions caused more strife than anything else in B.C. labor-management realtions. The Lenkurt dispute alone cost labor $40,000, he explained.

Later in the meeting, Murray Drew, delegate from the International Woodworkers of America in Victoria, was assured by E. T. Staley, president of the B.C. Federation of Labor, that the federation's defence fund was only being applied to such disputes.

It was not used to help one union in its struggle against another, such as the Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers in their jurisdictional dispute with the independent Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada.

City Official Taking Trip

Ald. Percy Frampton will represent the city at the national conference of mayors and elected officials Oct. 31, it was announced Wednesday.

To be held at the Canadian Emergency Measures College at Arnprior, Ont., the four-day conference is conducted twice yearly to assist municipalities with problems in the fields of nuclear and peacetime disasters. It will be attended by 80 to 100 delegates from all parts of Canada.

Ald. Frampton is chairman of city council civil defence committee.

Youths Sentenced, Molested Fish

LADYSMITH — Juvenile Court Judge Lance Heard has ordered two youths to write essays on the importance of conserving salmon for the commercial and sports fishery.

The youths pleaded guilty to molesting salmon at Holland Creek Oct. 7.

The pair also will have to spend two weekends with fishery officers performing various jobs.

Legion Marks 40 Years

PARKSVILLE — Mt. Arrowsmith Branch 49, Royal Canadian Legion, will observe its 40th anniversary with a gala party at the community hall this Satruday, starting at 8 p.m.

* * *

Invitations have been extended to former branch members. Also invited are representatives from other Legion branches, from Victoria in the south to Port Alice in the north end of the island, as well as on the mainland.

Charter and old-time members will be honored at the opening ceremony and color parties from various branches will be given a boost by pipers and drummers of the Canadian Scottish, Nanaimo.

* * *

It is believed there are only three charter members remaining from the formation of this branch in 1926. Two of them reside here, James E. Kingsley and Fred Gibbs, and a former Parksville resident Ted Bazett has left the district.

* * *

The first president of Mt. Arrowsmith branch was the late Major E. J. Feary of Errington who served from November 1926 to October 1929.

Port Alberni Boycott

Crags Open Bid Today

By MARY TAYLOR

PORT ALBERNI — Alberni Valley housewives are being asked to join a boycott on meat in supermarkets starting today and sticking it out for a full week.

Mrs. Valerie Hill, who sparked formation of CRAG, the Consumer Research and Action Group, in the Albernis says she and her supporters intend to do everything possible to make the boycott effective.

Although Crags have had trouble getting into high gear locally, the young chairman says she is impressed with the backing the proposed "retreat on meat" is getting from other housewives.

The idea has snowballed in a most encouraging way, Mrs. Hill said.

The group does not plan any unusual activity to coincide with boycott "this time," she said.

"We are just relying on the sincerity of all those women who have said they are backing us," she stated. "We are phoning our friends and neighbors and asking them to phone their friends in turn and spread the word.

"If all the people who have said they will boycott meat purchases in supermarkets do so, we should get some reaction from retailers."

Mrs. Hill says her group is levelling its actions at the supermarkets and chain stores because it is felt these retailers have the greatest control of prices, and the biggest effect on wholesalers.

★ ★ ★

"We are suggesting that if people must buy meat, do so at their corner store, or local packing house," Mrs. Hill said. "They may not save any money, but their absence should have some impact on the chain stores, and make operators aware we are seriously concerned about soaring meat prices."

When big business screams, government listens, is the idea behind the boycott, the housewives reason.

Mrs. Hill said she does not think any demonstrations will be held during the boycott, but if it is successful, bigger and better boycotts will follow, she hopes.

"RCMP officials told me I should consult a lawyer," Mrs. Hill said, "But neither I nor my group have any money for lawyers." What will happen if they find they have broken the law, in spite of their precautions?

"I guess I'd just have to sit it out in the jail," the attractive young mother of four children said.

"With meat prices the way they are, who could afford bail?"

Loss in One Case Gain in Another

COURTENAY—A lost legal action has indirectly benefitted the parties concerned.

Ordered to pay the costs of an appeal turned down in court, the District 71 Electors Association found it necessary to stage a fund-raising cabaret, which otherwise probably wouldn't have taken place.

At the annual general meeting in Courtenay this week, it was disclosed the money raised amounted to almost double what had been required.

Harmac Controversy

No Surprise At Decision

PORT ALBERNI — Jim Spencer, vice-president of Local 592 of the International Brotherhood of Pulp Sulphite and Papermill Workers here says he is not surprised that Local 8 of the Canadian Union at Harmac did not manage to have the international Local 695 decertified.

"The only way the Canadian union can have the international decertified is to prove it is "an irresponsible body," Mr. Spencer explained.

"This is something they will never be able to do."

Mr. Spencer explained aspects of the Labor Relations Act which, he declares, Mr. Wickham, president of the Canadian local, has failed to make clear to his membership or to the public.

"Unless they can prove our union irresponsible, the Canadian local can only apply for decertification of the international during the 11th and 12th months of our contract year. This is what the Labor Relations Act states," Mr Spencer explained.

"Just because they claim they have a majority of the members, this does not change the fact they can't apply again legally until next May or June," he said.

"I am not saying that the Labor Relations Act is just perfect, or that changes do not need to be made in some areas of it, but I do say that is how the act reads, and like it or lump it, it applies to us and it applies to them."

The international union has always acted in a responsible manner, Mr. Spencer contended.

Still in Charge

"Even after the breakaway by Local 8, Harmac 695 continued to represent the employees at Harmac. They kept on holding regular meetings, processed grievances, formed all the necessary committees for various negotiations and took care of all monies just as if nothing had happened."

Unless irresponsibility can be proved, the international can continue to represent Harmac legally, so long as a quorum can be formed, the union official said. Under present charter, a quorum consists of seven dues-paying members.

Which group actually has the largest dues-paying membership among the 800 or so Harmac employees?

"We know how many we have, and we can make a close guess as to how many the Canadian union has," Mr. Spencer said. "But right now I'd say there are about 450 men who aren't paying dues to either union. They're sitting on the fence, waiting to see the legal outcome of this battle."

Mr. Spencer said the international had represented Harmac employees since the mill's inception and that claims of international skullduggery were a smokescreen of nationalism.

He said: "38,000 members across Canada can't all be wrong. If your house is dirty, you don't burn it down. If members are dissatisfied with any phase of the international union's operation, they have the right to change the officers," he claimed.

Blasts Strachan

Mr. Spencer also chastized Robert Strachan, NDP leader in B.C.

"Mr. Strachan is wrong to keep saying, 'There should be a vote'," Mr. Spencer contended.

"He is especially wrong as an MLA, sworn to uphold the laws of this country. He's supposed to uphold them regardless of party politics.

"Majority of membership cannot be used as a gimmick to decertify our union during this interim period.

"Right or wrong, that's how the law of the land stands at this time. We have conformed to the laws of the Societies Act and of the Labor Relations Act.

"We have a two-year contract. They are welcome to try again . . . next May or June as the law provides."

Mr. Spencer said the next place to which the Canadian local could take the battle is to the Supreme Court.

Mr. Spencer spent several months in Nanaimo recently working on the Harmac problem on behalf of the international union.

Ice Carving Helped Decorate Banquet

John Bateman, left, president of B.C. Chefs Association and instructor of chef class at Nanaimo Vocational School, is helped with "ice carving" of Maple Leaf flag. Help is provided by Doug Sinclair of Courtenay. Many hours were spent on this unique project, most of them in the cool refrigeration room. The "carving" was used to decorate the school's banquet hall for a recent ceremony.

'Distinctive Service'

Salt Spring Has Its Lion of Year

FULFORD — Eric Faure is the Lion of the Year at the Salt Spring Lions Club.

Mr. Faure, secretary of the club for the last five years, was presented a plaque by past president Slim Thorburn in appreciation of "the distinctive service to the club and to Lionism," at a recent Lions charter night.

★ ★ ★

And Mr. Thorburn received a standing ovation after being presented a shield for his past endeavors as president.

"Our past year was a great one," said Hart Bradley in making the presentation. "For one thing, the Pioneer Village was born."

★ ★ ★

District Governor Clarke Mathieu of Port Angeles presented Zone Chairman Bonner to this year's chairman of Zone H-3, Mr. Bradley.

Mr. Mathieu pointed out that Mr. Bradley has one of the largest zones with 22 clubs within its boundaries.

He emphasized the Lions CARE program, which is worldwide, pointing out the importance of such gifts to the recipients.

★ ★ ★

"This past year," said Mr. Mathieu, "the Lions CARE program has assisted the Philippines with rebuilding after volcano damage; has started a blood bank for Pakistan and has established a "Friend Ship" which assists Lions clubs in all countries by supplying them with food and tools to assist with agricultural development."

The Lions also have started a Peace Essay contest which Mr. Mathieu feels will help promote a solution to lasting peace in our time.

★ ★ ★

Ray Hill, representing the Chamber of Commerce, and Fred Morris, Royal Canadian Legion, both expressed thanks to the Lions for the work they have done to improve the local community.

From Victoria, Jack Tang made his spectacular entrance into the Fulford Hall on his skateboard. A banquet put on by the local ladies was much appreciated and the Lions enjoyed a lively and pleasant evening.

★ ★ ★

Receiving buttons for their services with the Lions Club were:

One year — Ted Gear, Jim Hedgecock, Jim Jeffery and Cpl. Fred Rhodes.

Two years — Steve Wawryk and Zen Kropinski.

★ ★ ★

Three years — Jake Barker, Irl Bradley, Ted Earwaker and Mervyn Gardner.

Five years — Eric Faure, Ben Greenaough, Slim Thorburn and Jack Tomlinson.

After Junior Achievement Assailed

Chamber Backs Program

PORT ALBERNI — The Junior Achievement program is not a propaganda machine against free enterprise, contends Alberni Valley Chamber of Commerce.

The Chamber's reply came after Port Alberni and District Labor Council denounced the Junior Achievement plan, sponsored by the Chamber. The labor council charged it undercuts employers paying union wages.

"It is our opinion that to teach our younger generation to operate a business with cheap wages and subsidies will not serve the best interests of our country," said Maurice Corbeil, council secretary.

"It's ridiculous," replied Chamber President Tom Boag. "This is the same as saying we should not teach marketing in the universities because it may teach our young people to think for themselves and expand their knowledge."

The labor council also said articles produced by the Junior Achievement group would be sold through retail stores in competition with regular manufacturers' products, and because of low wage rates among the students, the competition would force manufacturers out of business.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Boag said, "The small volume of articles produced by the Junior Achievement group will not be sold to retail stores nor could it possibly affect other employers in any way.

"The decisions are made by the participants themselves, which is true democracy in action," he added.

The Chamber president was surprised the labor council would criticize the junior program when there is a need in this country for encouragement of secondary industry.

"This is the only true purpose for initiating Junior Achievement and is the reason why the Canadian Chamber of Commerce has taken such an active part in its organization," he said.

Nanaimo Considering Recreational Council

NANAIMO—Nanaimo's school board and recreation commission are fully backing a proposed attempt to formulate a recreational council for the area.

A letter from Nanaimo Track and Field Club, indicating lack of facilities, and realizing why, proposed to the school board a council representing Nanaimo and surrounding area be formed.

★ ★ ★

Lack of money and facilities have plagued the area continuously, as the 14,900 Nanaimo residents cannot support needs which are including the 35,000 rural residents, who also use Nanaimo facilities.

To date, attempts to collect money from rural areas have failed.

Only a small number of rural residents have indicated that they would be willing to share expenses with Nanaimo residents.

Under current arrangements, if rural areas were to unite with Nanaimo, they would lose their recreational grants.

At the school board meeting, Gordon McGilvary moved that "the school board instigate meetings to be set up between all districts in School District 68 for a recreational council for sports."

Doug McKenzie, trustee, has been given this chore.

"I would like to see, if the regional college comes to Nanaimo, that a recreational sports council be formed to cover from Malahat north, and be connected with the regional district of the college," he said.

★ ★ ★

The track and field club was turned down last year in its bid to have an international track meet in Nanaimo, which could be repeated because there are no bleachers at the Nanaimo High School, the only logical place to hold the meet in this area.

"A proper track, of Olympic size, would cost about $36,000 if built elsewhere, and the bleachers would still have to be built," said McKenzie.

McCarthy

Chief's Rites Saturday

UCLUELET—One of the most highly thought of Indian fishermen on the West Coast passed away this week in the person of Charles McCarthy an hereditary chief of the Ucluelets. He was the only grandson of the Chief Wickaninnish for Wickaninnish Bay. Chief Wickaninnish was a principal chief of the Clayquots which comprised Opitsah Clayquots and Ucluelets. The late Charles McCarthy is survived by three sons and four daughters, 34 grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren; the eldest son, Alec McCarthy, chief of the Ucluelets; and two daughters, Mrs. Edith Severen and Mrs. Rose Coutts, who reside in Ucluelet. The rest of the family lives at Port Alberni. Funeral services will be held at Stevens Funeral Home, Port Alberni, at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, burial at Mountain View Cemetery, Port Alberni.

Southend Ratepayers Boil

Hall Location Opposed

DUNCAN — The Southend Ratepayers Association will circulate a petition opposing the new location of the municial hall. The petition is to be sent out late this week.

Headed by president Bill Brown and secretary A. E. Anderson, the petition will be taken from door to door.

"People are very much opposed to spending $260,000 on a municipal hall three or four miles out of town," Mr. Anderson said.

"There are so many things we need before we build a hall."

★ ★ ★

He said North Cowichan was one of the wealthiest municipalities in B.C., but it still had very little in way of facilities.

"We have no water or sewerage systems," he said. "We have the most antiquated garbage disposal system which is certainly a menace to health."

He stated about three weeks ago the South Cowichan Ratepayers' Association had 300 cards signed by ratepayers opposing the site of the new municipal hall. He said about 100 were sent to municipal council.

"I think we have the most arrogant council," he said. He stated council had "ignored the petitions."

★ ★ ★

One of the directors of the South Cowichan ratepayers, Joseph Haddock, said many people did not want the money spent for a hall in the proposed location.

"I feel the citizens should have a say in its location," he said.

Accused Receives Training Chance

NANAIMO—A chance to mature and receive training was offered to a school dropout Thursday.

Ernest Bryan McGregor, 17, after being raised to adult court, pleaded guilty to two counts of breaking, entering and theft.

The charges arose from the Oct. 17 pilferings of boats in the area, in which about $700 worth of miscellaneous items were cached on Newcastle Island.

Magistrate Eric Winch sentenced the youth to one year definite and one year indeterminate at the Haney Correctional Institute in the hopes that punishment would deter, and training would rehabilitate the youth.

This had been the youth's second similar offence.

IWA Considers Public Meets

DUNCAN — Officials of Local 1-80, International Woodworkers of America, plan to hold public meetings throughout Duncan.

Their aim is to hear the true story behind the strike of electrical workers in Burnaby, which led to injunctions and the jailing of a number of union leaders.

The IWA is not opposed to ex-parte injunctions, but to the manner in which they have been issued in B.C., with unions having no say in the matter, the officials point out.

"If the B.C. Labor Relations Act was enforced, collective bargaining could be carried out without the courts being involved. Both parties in a dispute should be heard by the Labor Relations Board," president Weldon Jubenville pointed out.

The semi-annual meeting of Local 1-80 is scheduled for the Brae Road hall this Saturday.

Delegates will be elected to attend regional council conferences of the Nanaimo-Duncan District Labor Council and the safety council.

IWA officials also are to meet with Forest Industrial Relations representatives in Vancouver to discuss the date of commencement of electrical workers' 21-cent hourly pay increase.

Also to be discussed is travel time for truck drivers who ride to work in crummies, and the education clause in the woodworkers' agreement.

Prospects Improved, Still Problems

U.S., Russia Nearer Nuclear Spread Ban

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The United States and the Soviet Union said Thursday that prospects were improved for agreement on a treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons. Both also warned that substantial differences remained.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg and Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko made the statements in opening the annual disarmament debate in the assembly's 121-nation main political committee.

Goldberg said that substantial progress has been made in the 17-nation disarmament talks in Geneva. The U.S. also was encouraged by statements made by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko after his recent talks with President Johnson and State Secretary Rusk in Washington.

With that in mind Goldberg added that he was happy to inform the committee the U.S. and the Soviet Union "have agreed to take advantage of this new and more promising situation."

"We are engaged in a continuing and joint search for mutually acceptable ways of overcoming our remaining differences. Our discussions at this stage must of necessity be exploratory. They will not be easy since important differences remain."

In a similar manner Fedorenko said that some changes for the better could be discerned in prospects for agreement on the problem of non-proliferation of nuclear weapons. He said this was a "fact which we, of course, cannot but welcome."

It was plain from Fedorenko's speech that the Soviet Union considered West Germany's role in nuclear defence planning by the NATO powers as a major issue still to be resolved.

Space Show 'Routine'

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union launched two earth satellites Thursday in a show for leaders of eight Communist countries linked to the Kremlin in a space research agreement.

First to blast off from Baikonur, the Soviet space centre on the edge of the central Asian steppes, was No. 130 of the Cosmos series. It was part of a series, started March 16, 1962.

Several hours later the orbiting of a Molnyia satellite was announced. It is the fourth in a series of satellites that soar to almost 25,000 miles above the northern hemisphere to relay television and radio signals.

Communist sources said the leaders of Bulgaria, Cuba, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Hungary, Mongolia, Poland and Romania were at Baikonur with Soviet leaders. The space show was a high point of a gathering that, the sources said, included discussions of the Viet Nam war and China's refusal to co-operate on aid for Hanoi.

DID NOTHING SPECIAL

Some Communist sources had said the visiting leaders would be shown the first Soviet manned space venture since March, 1965. But the hosts stuck to apparently routine launchings of well-known types of non-military satellites, so far as the public announcements went.

Venturers Now Added To Scout Establishment

OTTAWA (CP)— Officials of the Boy Scouts of Canada announced Thursday that scout-cub training programs will be split into four new divisions Jan. 1 in the largest reorganization of the association's 60-year history.

Behind the change, affecting some 280,000 boys between eight and 17 years, is formal creation of the new Venturer Scout Division for senior boys aged 14 to 17.

The Venturer program already has attracted some 10,000 boys on an ad hoc basis. One scout official estimates that within a year membership will near 25,000.

GROUP NARROWED

The Boy Scout Division, long the best known, will have its present 100,000-member age group narrowed to 11-13 years from 11-17.

Purpose of the change is to develop programs for specific age groups, thereby providing better training.

The age for wolf cubs, largest of the four divisions with some 170,000 members, will be narrowed to boys of eight to 10 years, from the present age limit of 11.

The only program to remain essentially unchanged is Rover scouting, for the 17-23 age group.

The Venturer program was 2½ years in planning to check the high drop-out rate among Boy Scouts in their mid-teens. The new program has a built-in latitude covering major interest areas of the age group.

One scout official said activities of Venturer groups are limited only by the resources of the communities within their reach and by their own imagination.

Venturers will be encouraged to show leadership and initiative in adult activities and to meet adult standards.

The program, to be initiated on an 18-month trial, then reassessed, will include its own dress uniform but allow individual groups to select uniforms which suit their activities.

Leaders will be advisers primarily, leaving operations and decisions to the groups, part of the design to earn them adult recognition and prepare them for adult living.

B.C. TO PROBE SAANICH HALL

By JOHN MATTERS

Saanich council has ordered a public inquiry into suggestions that some of its assessor's department employees have dabbled in real estate in the municipality.

The probe will be conducted by the provincial government into the activities of members of Saanich's assessment department who incorporated a company called Royal Oak Estates Ltd. in January, 1965.

Reeve Hugh Curtis wouldn't say Thursday night just who was involved in the company. There are approximately 10 employees in the assessor's department.

★ ★ ★

A statement from council said:

"As a result of its investigations, council believes that no wrongdoing was intended but that the activities of the employees have been ill-advised and, in the interests of Saanich and of the employees concerned, feels that an investigation by an independent body would be advisable."

Reeve Curtis said no members of council were involved with the company and at no time, to his knowledge, has council had any business with the firm on such questions as rezoning.

★ ★ ★

At least three secret meetings of Saanich council have been held this week to discuss the issue.

At a special session Wednesday night, council heard from two members of the assessment department and "were relieved to learn that the land transactions undertaken by this company since its incorporation almost two years ago have apparently been restricted to purchase

Airman Grabs Laos Control

BANGKOK (Reuters)—Gen. Thao Ma, commander of the Laotian air force, staged a coup in Savannakhet, southern Laos, today, diplomatic sources reported in this capital city of Thailand.

The sources said rebel planes bombed and strafed military and civilian buildings in the Laotian capital of Vientiane today.

Fierce air battles were reported between Gen. Ma's planes and units loyal to neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma's government.

United Press International, however, reported the battle was a climax in the personal vendetta of two generals.

Tories' Ranks Split

OTTAWA (CP)—A split opened in Conservative ranks in the Commons Thursday as the medical care debate continued for the sixth straight day.

Two former members of the Diefenbaker cabinet from Alberta became the first Conservatives to announce that they will vote against second reading—approval in principle—of the government's medical insurance plan.

Former defence minister Douglas Harkness and former veterans' minister Marcel Lambert said they favor some form of medical insurance, but not the four criteria in the Liberal legislation.

VOTES FOR

At the same time, Dr. Lewis Brand (PC — Saskatoon) announced that he will vote for the bill, even though he was concerned about serious shortages of medical personnel and facilities.

Several other Conservative speakers said previously they would vote for second reading of the government measure. The 21 New Democrats and the five Social Credit MPs also have promised to back the bill.

MOVE DEFEATED

A Conservative amendment that would have, in effect, killed the Liberal plan and urged a far different one, was defeated 125 to 68.

The Conservatives were alone in support of the amendment.

Johnson Applauds Australia's Help

From AP-Reuters

CANBERRA—President Johnson and Australian Prime Minister Harold Holt agreed today the troops allied with South Viet Nam have barred a military victory for North Viet Nam and should press ahead militarily "until a satisfactory settlement could be negotiated."

"Fighting could only end when it was clear that the great issues at stake had been secured," the leaders said in a joint statement.

The communique was issued after Johnson's main, two-hour meeting with the Australian government leadership.

★ ★ ★

Looking forward to the seven-country Manila summit conference on Viet Nam next week, "in the light of the improved military outlook, items connected with peaceful economic and social development would be examined in some detail."

★ ★ ★

The two emphasized the urgency of bringing about conditions favorable to rapid economic and social advance and they commended recent initiatives by Asian countries for co-operation among themselves in the economic and political fields.

★ ★ ★

The Southeast Asia conference dominated the private discussion at the Australian capital.

Then Johnson went on Australian radio and television to call for a concerted effort of diverse countries to work together for the future of Asia.

Earlier, the president had paid a special tribute to Aus-

Paint Mars Wild Welcome

MELBOURNE (UPI) — A wild reception for President Johnson by 700,000 Aussies on the streets of Melbourne suddenly erupted into a scare today when plastic bags of green and red paint were hurled at the bubbletop limousine, smearing the windshield and dousing secret service guards.

The friendly crowds had given the flamboyant, handshaking Johnson a tremendous ticker-tape and confetti welcome shortly before the incident occurred.

NEW DELHI (UPI) The leaders of India, Yugoslavia and Egypt assembled Thursday for a non-aligned summit meeting aimed at possible Viet Nam peace moves and bridging differences between the east and west power blocs.

MANILA (UPI) — Foreign ministers taking part in next week's seven-nation Viet Nam summit conference were en route to Manila today for private policy discussions on sensitive issues confronting the heads of state attending the Manila talks.

Snow Whitewashes Island

Winter's chilly breath nipped the high spots on Vancouver Island when snow was reported Thursday at various points.

A slight snowfall which quickly disappeared from the ground was reported at Kelsey Bay, about 50 miles north of Campbell River.

The snow on Mount Arrowsmith's summit is plainly visible from Port Alberni, six miles away.

Mount Benson, near Nanaimo, received a slight blanketing which mostly disappeared in Thursday's rain.

Snow was also reported on the hills around Duncan.

The first snow showers of the season accompanied by thunder moved into the Vancouver area Thursday.

The weather office says cool Pacific air will give showers to most of the province today.

Lower Prices, Big Volume Give Safeway Bigger Profit

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada Safeway Ltd. brought the most impressive profit record along with it Thursday as the fifth and last food chain to appear before the Senate-Commons committee on living costs.

Safeway said it reaped 2.56 cents on every dollar of its sales through Western Canada last year, a tidy profit as low-margin supermarket operations go. (See also Page 35.)

Did this indicate Safeway prices are higher than they might be? asked committee counsel John Urie.

★ ★ ★

Not at all, returned Safeway Secretary D. C. McGavin. It represented a picture of a low-price company, winning big volume business and efficiently employing the turnover to save money.

Earnings of other chains reported this week have all been below the Safeway mark. Steinberg's Ltd. reported 1.9 per cent on total sales, Loblaws Groceterias Co. Ltd. 1.92, Dominion Stores Ltd. 2.07, and A and P 2.34.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Urie said his curiosity was piqued by the record of Safeway's parent company in the United States, Safeway Stores Inc. The parent last year made a net profit of 1.6 per cent on sales of close to $3,000,000,000.

Walter J. Kraft, chairman of Canada Safeway, said he considers this return too low.

BOBBIES BOO BOSS

LONDON (AP)—Roy Jenkins, Labor home secretary in charge of Britain's law enforcement agencies, went to a meeting with London bobbies Thursday night—and got roundly booed.

Jenkins, known for his liberal reforming ideals, addressed 1,500 members of the London Police Federation. As he rose to talk, policemen jeered and booed him.

Then 300 bobbies walked out, protesting that the government had failed to meet demands for higher pay.

The bobbies also criticized Jenkins for defending the abolition of capital punishment.

Judge Quashes Deportation

'White Racist Mentality Exposed'

WINNIPEG (CP) — The chief justice of Manitoba Court of Queen's Bench, tongue-lashing the federal immigration department for betraying fundamental justice, quashed a deportation order Thursday against a West Indian.

Chief Justice G. E. Tritschler said in a 76-page judgment that the department did not give a fair hearing to Duphlal (Harry) Goolia, who arrived in 1963 to take an electrician's course.

The chief justice said "a provocative spirit" was shown by a special inquiry officer, Alfred E. Brooks, during an inquiry in July, 1965. The deportation order was served Aug. 12.

He added that Mr. Goolia was asked his marital status when the inquiry opened and replied: "Single."

Question: "Have you ever been married?"

Answer: "No."

Question: "Are you the father of any children?"

"The last was a grossly insulting question," the chief justice said.

"It exposes the mentality of some white racists who attribute to non-whites an abnormal laxity in sexual behavior. In the circumstances of the case, it was irrelevant and unnecessary.

"Possible solicitude on the part of the special inquiry officer for any bastards the applicant may have fathered, need not detain us. This opening must have been upsetting to the applicant who, according to the evidence, was a decent-living person not wanting for character references from people of good repute."

Bathe with Her for $4,000

Real Lords Cost More

DALLAS (UPI) — Neiman-Marcus has come up with its usual slashed-to-the-bone specials for Christmas, including his and hers bathtubs with gold-plated fixtures and everything mentioned in the ballad, "The 12 Days of Christmas."

★ ★ ★

The bathtubs go for $4,000, plus freight, installation and tax.

All the items in "The 12 Days of Christmas" come for $1,771.50, "subject to local taxes, delivery and handling charges, local union rates and the extravagance of your gesture."

★ ★ ★

For instance, a spokesman said, if a customer insists on genuine "twelve lords a-leaping," that would run the cost up.

★ ★ ★

If the buyer settles for 12 male dancers, $1,771.50 would still be in the ball park.

The twin bathtubs come in white or six "decorator colors" and have 24-carat gold plated fittings with French rose scrollwork.

★ ★ ★

"Twin bathtubs, side by side, into which both can jump at the same time, go right on discussing that late party or exchanging early morning plans for the day," rhapsodized a description in the book.

"The 12 Days of Christmas also calls for a partridge in a pear tree, two turtle doves, three French hens, four blackbirds, five gold rings, six geese a-laying, seven swans a-swimming, eight maids a-milking, 10 drummers drumming and 11 ladies dancing."

★ ★ ★

"There are no reservations about this," a spokesman said. "If somebody insisted on real English lords, it would give us a problem, but we could arrange it."

No Weak Ones Here

Giant anchor chains, among world's largest, were unloaded Thursday from freighter Canada at Esquimalt Graving Dock. Twenty of the 540-foot-long chains, with each link weighing 300 pounds are destined for use with floating oil drilling rig being built by Victoria Machinery Depot.

Mystery Mine Found

Tunnel, Shaft in Goldstream Unrecorded

By JACK FRY

Government biologists are baffled by a mystery mine discovered in Goldstream Park.

An old tunnel and an abandoned mine shaft, which may date back to the years preceding the 1864 gold rush to Leechtown, have been found on a hill in the provincial park north of Victoria.

The mysterious workings are being checked by Dr. Peter Eastwood, a field geologist in the provincial mines department.

No Clues

He has checked annual mining reports from 1939 back to 1919 without finding a clue, and admits it is possible he may never find any records at all.

Dr. Eastwood is convinced, however, that the workings must have been carried out in the search for gold. "There are quartz veins in outcrops around there, and if it were copper there would have to be some yellow copper mineral in the quartz," he said Thursday.

There are some old Crown-granted copper claims near Goldstream Park, on Mount Skirt, which is north of the eastern entrance to the park.

Copper Mines

Ronald McCrimmon, who will become B.C.'s chief gold commissioner Nov. 1, recalls that when he was a boy living at Langford Lake in the 1920s and early 1930s, he used to climb around some of the old copper mine tunnels on Mount Skirt.

Active copper mining operations were carried out in the Mount Skirt group between 1898 and 1902, and in 1924. Mr. McCrimmon said he used to find "peacock-colored copper ore" near these mines when he was a boy, but that he did not know of the existence of the mystery mine on the other side of the Trans-Canada Highway.

Dr. Eastwood said a 25-foot trench leading into a 55-foot-long tunnel, or adit, was recently found by Hugh Salmond, in the vicinity of a proposed nature trail through the park.

Dr. Eastwood visited the site and found tree roots growing right along the floor of the tunnel and into its face. He trudged around the hillside and soon found an old mine shaft with an opening about 3½ feet square.

He said he couldn't see how deep the shaft was, so he lay down on his stomach at the edge and tossed a pebble in. "From the time it took to hit bottom, I would guess it is at least 30 feet deep."

The geologist is now digging through old records, but he said, "I think eventually I'll have to take equipment out to go down that shaft and see if there is any mineralization to be seen.

"In some of these quartz veins in that country rock they've got traces of gold, and it is generally believed those veins were the origin of placer gold, but there has never been a lode gold mine on southern Vancouver Island," Dr. Eastwood said.

'End Jurisdictional Ping-Pong'

University Students Urge Single Control

By BILL STAVDAL

Spokesmen for B.C. university students today will urge Education Minister Peterson to demand from the federal government the responsibility and revenue to improve higher education.

The students are critical of "jurisdictional ping-pong" between Ottawa and the provinces.

The students also ask for a long-term "education blueprint" in a brief to be presented to the minister this morning.

THREE UNIVERSITIES

The joint brief will be given to Mr. Peterson in a meeting with Stephen Bigsby, president of the student council of the University of Victoria, and his counterparts Peter Braund of UBC and John Mynott of Simon Fraser University.

Mr. Peterson will attend the federal-provincial conference on financing of higher education in Canada, to be held in Ottawa Oct. 24-28.

"Students in British Columbia, like their counterparts in all Canadian provinces, have become increasingly dissatisfied with an arrangement of joint control which prevents either the federal or the provincial governments from accepting full responsibility for the financing of higher education," says the brief.

LARGER PROBLEM

". . . Such a system leads inevitably to an abrogation of responsibility and a policy of 'jurisdictional ping-pong' . . .

"The issues of education financing cannot be solved until we have overcome the larger problem of the definition of responsibility, and it is a question that we can no longer afford to evade," the joint brief says.

The students endorse the policy of the Canadian Union of Students.

REDUCED FEES

It says in part: "The federal government should surrender sufficient taxing powers to enable the provincial governments to fulfill their financial obligations in the field of education."

Besides pushing for a five-year education planning period, the students ask that B.C. begin reducing tuition fees beginning with abolition in the first year, as Newfoundland has done.

In speaking of "higher education" the student brief refers to universities, community colleges, nursing, technical and vocational schools.

Currant Event Marks Emily Week

Emily Carr's white currant bush has been found — appropriately on the eve of Emily Carr Week.

The bush was, throughout the famous B.C. artist's life, always something of a symbol to her.

★ ★ ★

She once wrote of the currants that if they "were just a wee bit clearer, then perhaps you could see them living inside."

—Robin Clarke

Langdon, Hoare hang Carr painting

The bush was discovered on the property of her old home at 207 Government — which was floodlit Thursday, and will be lighted each evening throughout the week given to her memory.

An exhibition of her paintings opened Thursday at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria.

Herman Voaden's play, Emily Carr, opens Wednesday at the McPherson Playhouse.

★ ★ ★

Finder of the bush was Victoria artist Emily Sartain, who came across it while her Victoria Horticultural Society volunteers spruced up the garden in front of the old home.

Over Lack of Machinery

Teachers Back Pupil Protest

Greater Victoria's industrial education teachers Thursday criticized the school district's failure to equip shops in time for the 1966-67 term.

It was a reply to district superintendent Joseph Chell, who earlier Thursday was reported as saying there was "really nothing" in reports of delay in getting power tools for new vocational wings.

A group of vocational students at Victoria high school Wednesday started an abortive protest against lack of equipment. They said they were forced to do nothing but theory while waiting for the machines to be installed.

Ross Regan, a teacher at Vic High, president of the local industrial education teachers' association and also president of the B.C. Shop Teachers' Association, issued a statement Thursday night. It carried the endorsation of the executive of the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association.

He noted that on Sept. 23 the Greater Victoria Industrial Education Teachers' Association passed a motion reading:

"That this association express dissatisfaction and concern over incomplete teaching areas in District 61 to the GVTA executive."

Mr. Regan's Thursday statement added:

"Pupils are forced to study extra theory to occupy the school time until the shops are completed.

'CAN'T BE ASSUMED'

"It cannot be assumed that they will be able to catch up on the practical work and thus they are being disadvantaged in this district."

"There are many delays, but few who will accept the responsibility, and meanwhile the pupils are not benefitting by this confusion," said Mr. Regan.

No Guides For Teachers

The British Columbia Teachers' Federation has complained to Education Minister Peterson that some curriculum guides were unavailable when school opened this year.

"Absolutely inexcusable," stormed the federation's director of professional development, W. V. Allester, in a letter to the minister.

"If a teacher does not get a guide, he either has to act on a hunch on what he should teach, or he starts teaching last year's course."

Complaints from several sectors of the province indicated some textbooks had been late in arriving at schools this year, the letter said.

Travers Freed By Assize Jury

An all-male assize jury deliberated from 11:35 a.m. Thursday until 3:10 p.m. before finding Sidney Allan Travers, 28, not guilty on a charge of breaking, entering and theft.

Mr. Justice F. C. Munroe began his charge to the jury at 10:35 a.m. and went to great pains to instruct the jury on the rules of circumstantial evidence and also on the doctrine of recent possession.

He also reviewed the cases of both the Crown and the defence.

He told the jurors that the evidence of identification should be reviewed with the greatest of care.

Travers was charged following the theft July 5, 1965, of a safe from Fairfield Pharmacy.

The Crown's case was based on the testimony of city Constable Peter Voth, who testified he saw the accused in the front seat of a station wagon which was later found to contain a safe stolen from the drug store.

Following their verdict on the first charge, the jury returned a verdict of not guilty on a possession charge, as directed by Mr. Justice Munroe.

Vintage Whaling Vessel Will Be Raised, Scrapped

By BOB PETHICK

The vintage whaling vessel Green, now lying on her side in Victoria harbor, will soon be no more—but her memory will linger on.

Possibly the last survivor of the once-great whaling fleet, she is to be refloated and sold for scrap. Her owner, crusty old sealing skipper, Max Lohbrunner, will donate the whaling gun on her bow, and her mast and crowsnest, to the Maritime Museum.

The aging, rusting vessel, which has been a part of Victoria's waterfront for years, gave up last April and settled to the bottom on her side.

NO PRESSURE

Since then the department of transport has wanted the hull removed. Authority to order the move lay in the second part of the Navigable Waters Protection Act, but no pressure was applied.

So now the Green lies on her side, slowly settling into the mud but in danger of slipping into the navigable channel when winter winds whip through the harbor. The crowsnest juts out of the water at an angle.

Thursday, Mr. Lohbrunner gave his consent for the Green to be moved, and department of transport officials heaved an unofficial sigh of relief. But they have promised that the raft covered with marine secondhand goods, and the little fishboat in which he lives, will remain.

ALL NOT LOST

So the harbor will lose a familiar mark, but Max won't have completely lost his pride and joy.

On days when he is feeling low he can always walk along to the Maritime Museum and see the harpoon gun, mast and crowsnest, suitably marked with plaques naming him as the donor.

'Liberals Gave Up Last Week'

Fast-Draw Berton Shoots Holes in Canadian Scenery

Shooting from the hip in all directions, Pierre Berton blew holes in almost everything Canadian Thursday night.

He punctured the federal government, the press, television, the education system, patriotism and the status quo in general before a responsive audience of 400 or more at the University of Victoria.

Mr. Berton, prolific writer and much-viewed TV broadcaster, returned to his alma mater to discuss contemporary Canada, what's wrong with it, how it's changing and what may become of the country.

The balding alumnus of Victoria's Monterey elementary school, Oak Bay High and the old Victoria College took most of his shots at the education system.

"When my two-year-old daughter reaches kindergarten she'll be a much more sophisticated girl than her mother was.

"She'll know Greek mythology because she saw Kirk Douglas playing Ulysses on television.

"She will know what the Brazilian jungle looks like. Ilya Kuriakin was down there two weeks ago.

"So what will she do when she goes to kindergarten? She'll color little pictures.

"When they teach her history in school they'll read a book and sometimes show her a still picture."

"But television could reproduce visually every incident of history.

"Why can't the best teachers talk to 20,000 students via TV?

"We havn't done it and we are scarcely starting to think about it."

But things are changing fast, he said. Half the population is under 25.

"The take-over generation is about to take over once again, and it's younger than ever before."

He said he sensed that the public response to the "Seven Days" TV controversy and the Stephen Truscott trial was symptomatic of unrest with the old ways of doing things. He added that the government and the papers and television had failed to sense the change.

"The reason people got so het up over Seven Days and the Truscott cases was because they felt involved."

Mr. Berton blasted traditional press coverage of election campaigns.

He said candidates go through a "ritual dance" of reading speeches before a handful of party faithful in empty halls so the press can cover a "pseudo event."

"The press doesn't even come, because they've been given a copy of the speech.

"But if I, as a candidate, speak to 1,000,000 people on television the press doesn't even cover it because it's just a TV program.

He advocated full-time television coverage of Parliament so anyone could tune in and see what's happening.

"I tell you they'd do a hell of a lot more than they're doing now," he said, drawing applause.

He attacked social cliches. Among them: "My country right or wrong."

"It's not good enough for someone to say to me: 'You're drafted. Go pour burning gasoline on that family.' That sort of thing went out with the Nuremburg trials.

"Adolf Eichmann used that excuse."

Censorship: "What bloody right has a city council telling me what I should or shouldn't read?"

And of Canada's future as a nation independent of the U.S. he said:

"I think Canadians have given up. The Liberal party gave up last week.

"As long as we won't pay more taxes for the privilege of being Canadians, we haven't much of a chance."
